ANYTHING THEY CAN DO, SHE CAN DO

WAC Joyce Kutsch, 19, of Sarver, Pa., looks down a long line of 82nd Division Airborne GIs Tuesday as she and WAC Rita Johnson, not shown, get their final briefing aboard a C141 Army jet transport before becoming the first of their sex to make the jump in airborne combat training.

Latest energy plan to mean less gas and higher prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration today proposed new fuel allocations regulations that would result in less gasoline and higher prices for the consumer.

The proposed regulations, announced by new energy chief William E. Simon, call for an increase in production of distillates such as home heating oil, petrochemicals, and residual fuel oil that is used by power plants.

The new mandatory program, supplementing an incentive program announced last week, would cut back gasoline output by an estimated 15 per cent and raise heating oil 8 or 9 cents a gallon and gasoline 6 or 7 cents a gallon.

The proposed rules are scheduled to take effect Dec. 27. They were prepared for publication in the Federal Register. The proposals are not final but probably will take this general form when put into effect after allowing time for public comment.

Under the proposals, a priority of users will be established. Emergency services such as fire and police departments, public transportation, agriculture and fuel production will get 100 per cent of their requirements. Other users will get about 90 per cent. All specifics of the proposal were not immediately disclosed, but the Washington Star-News said these were among its elements:

—A cutback in gasoline output by 15 per cent at the refinery level, plus an additional 10 per cent at the gasoline pump.

—Electric utilites will have to bear the shortages in heavy heating oils, possibly necessitating power cutbacks, especially in the Northeast.

—Big domestic air carriers would be allotted 95 per cent of their 1972 use until Jan. 7 and 85 per cent after that. Small regional airlines would get 95 per cent until Jan. 7 and 90 per cent afterwards and international carriers would receive 100 per cent until Jan. 7 and 85 per cent after.

—An equitable sharing of all available fuel with requirements that prices charged be uniform for all users.

The regulations provide for no gasoline rationing but since the rules cover distribution from producer to wholesaler to gasoline station, the gas available to the consumer will be affected.

Simon stressed the allocations "were not rationing but a system to assure equitable distribution at the wholesale level."

City school trustees break tradition, vote to pay themselves for meetings

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — By a 4-1 vote, Pomona school board members Tuesday decided to pay themselves $30 for each meeting they attend, to a maximum of $200 a month, beginning Jan. 1.

This is the first time in the history of the Pomona Unified School District that school board members will receive compensation for their services.

The motion to approve the recommendation, made by the administration under guidelines of new state legislation (AB 1489), was voiced by Roy O. Day and seconded by Ken Pine.

Phil Wessels cast the lone no vote.

Supt. Robert E. Wentz said that based on the average number of meetings held the past three years, the $30-per-meeting payment to board members should cost the district between $5,000 and $6,000 a year.

He said the board had been holding an average of three meetings a month, two of which were regular, open board meetings. The remainder were study sessions, seminars or personnel or executive sessions.

The amount of money allowed as payment to school board members under AB 1489 is determined by their district's average daily attendance. It ranges from a high of $75 a meeting in districts with over 400,000 ADA, down to between $10 and $60 a meeting in districts from 150 to 1,000 ADA.

Pomona falls into the over 10,000, but under 25,000 ADA category. Thirty dollars per meeting is the maximum allowable in this classification.

Approval of payment followed a brief discussion during which board member Don Donnelly suggested putting off action until more "grassroots" reaction could be obtained.

Day disagreed, saying it was just a matter of someone having the courage to make the motion and he said, "I'll take that liberty."

Board member Pine commented that nearly everyone he had talked to on the matter thought school board members already were being paid for their services.

Wessels did not explain why he opposed board members receiving payment. Dr. James Bell, board president, made no comment except to call for the vote.

Justice Department decides to investigate Kent St. slayings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After three years, the Justice Department has decided to impanel a federal grand jury to investigate the 1970 slaying of four students at Kent State University by Ohio National Guardsmen.

J. Stanley, Pottinger, assistant attorney general in charge of the civil rights division, said the grand jury would be convened Dec. 18 in Cleveland and would act as an investigative body.

But he said the action did not mean that the government had decided to seek indictments.

The May 4, 1970, slayings occurred on the Kent State campus during a wave of campus protest around the nation following the U.S. invasion of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong sanctuaries in Cambodia.

The students, two women and two men, were unarmed and several hundred yards from a group of guardsmen who had been called to the campus in the wake of the burning of an ROTC building.

A state grand jury returned no indictments against authorities and cleared the guard and state officials of wrongdoing. But it did return indictments against a number of students and other persons for inciting the disturbances.

$2.6 billion aid for Israel voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has voted to allocate $2.6 billion in new military and economic assistance to Israel. Most of the funds would be used to replace military arms lost by Israel during the recent Mideast War.

The aid was approved Tuesday as part of a $5.8 billion foreign aid appropriation bill, the largest such measure since the Korean War.

Strike threat hovers over RTD operation

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Some 700 mechanics Tuesday threatened to walk off their jobs Saturday if the Southern California Rapid Transit District refuses to accept pension recommendations from a special commission named by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Union officials said a walkout of mechanics would stop bus operation, affecting more than 450,000 persons who use the 1,500 RTD buses in Los Angeles and parts of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

Jerome C. Long, president of the Amalgamated Transit Union Division 1277, said negotiations have "already gone on for more than a year and a half.

"While the special factfinding commission named by the governor did not recommend all that the union requested, in the interest of public service, our members have agreed to accept the Reagan committee's recommendation," he said.

An RTD spokesman said "We are willing and plan to meet with the union around the clock if necessary to avert a strike."

The special three-man commission which made the pension recommendations entered the picture last year when the union and management were deadlocked on a pension plan dispute.

The RTD refused a union suggestion to let a neutral third party arbitrate the issue so Reagan named a three-member commission to investigate and make recommendations.

Long said talks with management looked dismal and that his union would not accept anything less than the compromise recommended by Reagan's special commission.

Tempers flare over Nixon tax issue in state

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The Republican chairman of the state Franchise Tax Board said today President Nixon's California income tax status is still a live issue and the President eventually may have to make back payments.

"Unless the President releases us from confidentiality, you won't know whether we ultimately assess him or don't assess him," state Controller Houston I. Flournoy told newsmen.

At an angry meeting Tuesday, Flournoy and fellow GOP board member Verne Orr, state director of finance, killed an attempt by Democratic member William M. Bennett to find that Nixon owes past California taxes.

"So now we have a coverup in the state of California as well," Bennett shouted, accusing Nixon of a "deliberate evasion" of state income taxes.

Bennett told Flournoy after the meeting, "If we can't settle it here, let's go outside and settle it."

Later, Martin Huff, the board's executive officer, implied to newsmen that his staff was investigating the President's tax status when he told them, "We look at every case, believe me, and our record shows that."

He had declined to state this publicly to the board, which angered Bennett.

Flournoy, a GOP candidate for governor next year, said the issue "will continue to be looked at, but this is the end of it as far as Bennett's nonsense is concerned."

"The President in some way may ultimately have some tax liability but we're not going to resolve it by some guy accusing him of tax evasion," he said. "I'm confident the staff is not unaware of what is going on and it will be reviewed in the same manner and terms as any other tax matter."

The White House disclosed last weekend that Nixon, who maintains a voting residence at his San Clemente villa and who pays property taxes there, did not pay state income taxes since he became President in 1969.

Fog covers area, closes OIA and ends heat wave

The unseasonal heat wave of the past four days ended abruptly this morning as marine air blanketed the Pomona Valley with fog.

The National Weather Service office in Riverside expects foggy conditions to continue in the late night and early morning hours at least through Friday.

A storm which moved through the area Tuesday brought high cloudiness and replaced a high pressure system that had produced a Santa Ana wind condition.

Ontario International Airport closed its runways at 12:56 a.m. Departing passengers were bused into airports at Burbank and Los Angeles.

FDA aid sought in can label warning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A coalition of consumer groups joined with 31 members of Congress today to ask the Food and Drug Administration to require a new kind of warning on food labels.

It would read: "Warning: Unlabeled ingredients contained in this product."

Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., who is coordinating the FDA petition with Consumers Union and the other groups, said such a warning is needed because food manufacturers are now required to list only certain ingredients and fail to disclose other "often dangerous," or controversial, contents.

Russians promising more food, housing

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government announced today a record budget for 1974 and promised its citizens more consumer goods, housing and food on the table next year.

Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov told the Supreme Soviet (parliament) the budget would reach $259.9 billion, up more than 6 per cent from 1973.

He said defense spending would total $23.5 billion, down slightly from this year. But Western military experts regard the announced defense figure as meaningless. They say the real figure may be triple that amount, with defense funds concealed in heavy industry and other sectors of the budget.

Fog triggers seven-vehicle pileup; 2 hurt

Seven vehicles, including three large trucks, were involved in a series of collisions on the Pomona Freeway near Grove Avenue in the Ontario area, early today after heavy fog had limited visibility to less than 100 feet.

Only one person, however, was injured seriously enough to be hospitalized. Toni Lynn Imes, 15, of 10189 Tudor St., Montclair, a passenger, was admitted to San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland with a fractured leg. Her condition today is good.

Traffic was blocked for several hours until highway patrolmen could remove the damaged vehicles.

The series of accidents began when a van driven by William Eugene Simmons of Fontana swerved to avoid a slower moving truck in front of him, but nipped an edge of the trailer, said officers.

The impact caused the van to overturn and it landed in the freeway's two middle lanes. At this time, James Imes of Montclair came upon the accident scene. His sedan struck the overturned van, pushing it into another lane.

The van was struck a second time by a truck-trailer and shoved into the fast lane.

These damaged vehicles were then struck by another truck, two pickups and a sedan.

Simmons declined medical attention at the accident scene, but later went to a hospital complaining of a head injury, investigators noted.

Simmons' van and Imes' sedan were demolished. Both trucks in the initial collision had minor damage.

The truck drivers were Jimmy Nichols of Whittier, Ronald Huston of Exeter and Robert Powell of La Puente. Sahag Housepain of San Bernardino and Michael Kelly of Whittier were both driving pickups.

Minister needs extra measure of prayer in disarming bomb

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UPI) — A Baptist minister who also works as a state explosive expert turned to prayer when police asked him to disarm a bomb made by a mental patient.

"This was the first bomb I actually disarmed, fully took apart," the Rev. William E. Davis, 48, pastor of the First Baptist Church in nearby Bridgeville and an inspector with the Pennsylvania Division of Explosives, said Tuesday. "Of course, prayer was my first thought in that I'd be guided in the right direction."

Police called Davis to the home of William Blue recently after Blue reported his son, Charles, 26, had telephoned from Mayview State Hospital to say a bomb was hidden in their home.

Officers said Charles, an Army demolitions expert in Vietnam, apparently concealed the explosive before his arrest two months ago on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest and subsequent transfer to Mayview for psychiatric examination.

Davis said the bomb was "well constructed" of gunpowder, bullets, cassette tapes, plastic cigarette boxes, steel wool and automotive wire—but no detonator.

"It could have been a very dangerous thing had it been detonated," said Davis, who disarmed the bomb in the street. "It was a harrowing kind of experience. I think this is where the power of prayer and faith comes in."

Nixon counterattacks, vows tape summaries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon plans to make public soon summaries or transcripts of what he believes are the relevant portions of his subpoenaed Watergate tapes.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig told a Republican Policy Committee meeting Tuesday that transcripts of relevant portions of the tapes and other supportive documentation would be made public in a "relatively short time."

Ken W. Clawson, the President's deputy director of communications, later confirmed the report, but he used the word "summaries" instead of "transcripts."

Tower, chairman of the policy committee, said that in the "hair down" closed-door session, Haig also told GOP senators he did not know of any more "bombshells" that would surface. That was the same assurance Nixon gave GOP governors in Memphis last month. Some of the governors were critical the following day when the 18-minute hum in a Watergate tape was disclosed.

Tower said, "They plan to get out as much explanation as possible" to refute allegations against the President. White House aides said a team of nine lawyers and researchers are gathering secret documents for release, some dealing with controversial campaign contributions by the dairy industry and International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. during the last campaign, and with transactions with billionaire Howard Hughes.

The administration had hoped to release this information before Congress goes home for the Christmas-New Year's holidays. But one aide said they "won't be able to make that deadline."

In related developments:

—Congress' Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation is meeting today to discuss procedure for reviewing President Nixon's tax returns. Nixon invited this review when he made the returns public last weekend.

—Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., said Tuesday that a two-month study by his staff indicates President Nixon had no legal basis for a $576,000 deduction for donating his vice presidential papers to the National Archives. Weicker gave the 11-page staff report to the Internal Revenue Service.

—The House Judiciary Committee's inquiry on whether grounds exist to impeach the President appears unlikely to move forward until January. Republicans loyal to Nixon want to get the inquiry over with as soon as possible so it doesn't drag into the 1974 congressinal election campaigns. Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., not a committee member, proposed holiday sessions, but his wish was not likely to be granted.

—Sirica turned over to prosecutors taped conversations between Nixon and former aide John W. Dean III after listening to them and deciding they did not involve national security.

LEGISLATOR DOWN AND OUT

Rep. Paul Ragsdale, D-Dallas, applied for food stamps. He said he is having a hard time making ends meet on his $400-a-month salary. Ragsdale said the legislature is a fulltime job on a part-time salary and suggested the legislature strike.

Small car prices hiked

American cars still have price advantage over foreign makes

DETROIT (UPI) — Despite price increases of $150 on their hot-selling small cars, U.S. automakers still have a price advantage over foreign competition.

Price increases were held to $150 on the small cars, but Ford said the average increase on its entire line of cars would average $192. Chrysler Tuesday said its prices would be "in the same ballpark as Ford's."

American Motors said it would not increase prices more than $150 and General Motors still had not released its figures, but was expected to be in the same range.

Even at its new price tag of $2,442, the subcompact two-door Ford Pinto still is priced below all but one or two small foreign cars. The Volkswagen standard two-door sedan is priced at $2,625 and Toyota's Corolla 1600 is tagged at $2,479.

The Datsun HLB210, smaller than the Pinto, has a base price of $2,245; the Swedish-built SAAB carries a tag of $4,898 for its cheapest model; the Japanese Subaru is $2,598 for the base two-door sedan; and the Toyota 1200 two-door sedan is one of the lowest at $2,099.

Importers have been hurt by the changing value of the U.S. dollar, which has caused price increase ranging from 4 to 12 per cent this year. But foreign car dealers say they're still unable to meet the demand, especially since the energy crisis worsened.

Wayne Kaufman, at Deskin Toyota in Rockville, Md., says "people are swarming in here to get our 1974 models. Many of them want to trade in their bigger cars."

A suburban Detroit VW dealer said the latest increases should send some more customers in because the difference isn't as great.

Before the Cost of Living Council (CLC) exempted automakers from wage-price controls in exchange for a pledge for no further increases in the 1974 model year, U.S. companies had an even great price margin.

If there is no "unforseen major economic event," U.S. automakers have pledged not to seek further increases until the 1975 models are introduced next September. Chrysler refused to agree to that pledge, saying it will be difficult to determine what is an "unforeseen major economic event."

Kissinger stopover in Algeria

LONDON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today extended his Middle East tour to include Algeria and made substantial progress towards mending frayed Anglo-American relations, U.S. and British officials said.

A spokesman for Kissinger said he will meet with Algerian President Houari Boumedienne and Foreign Minister Abdel Aziz Boutelike during a brief stopover in Algiers Thursday en route to Cairo, which was to have been the first stop of his Middle East tour.

The spokesman would say only that Kissinger would discuss "questions of mutual interest" in Algiers, a reference that could only mean the Middle East crisis and ways of achieving lasting peace in the area.

The announcement of the Algiers stopover came before Kissinger emerged from a one hour and 40 minute conference with British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home at the Foreign Office.

A Foreign Office spokesman said the talks were "free from recrimination, were positive and constructive and the Anglo-American relationship emerged strengthened."

"The talks took the form of a friendly and forwardlooking exchange of views," the spokesman said.

The spokesman said Kissinger and Douglas-Home agreed on "further consultation measures" to avoid future misunderstandings between United States and Britain. He did not elaborate.

Germany, Czechs ink nonaggression treaty, establish diplomatic relations

PRAGUE (UPI) — West Germany and Czechoslovakia put their "woeful past" behind today and began a new era in relations aimed at solving the problems of the present.

West German Chancellor Willy Brandt went into meetings with top Czech officials today after the two nations Tuesday established diplomatic relations and signed a six-point non-aggression treaty.

Brandt told a news conference today that West Germany would establish diplomatic relations with Bulgaria and Hungary "within the next few days."

Brandt scheduled talks with Communist leader Gustav Husak and Premier Lubomir Strougal to discuss "substantive issues" such as European security and the status of West Berlin, German officials said.

The treaty signed Tuesday nullified the 1938 Munich Agreement that ceded Czechoslovakia's western provinces to Nazi Germany. The preamble said West Germany and Czechoslovakia "will put an end, once and for all, to the woeful past in their relations."

The signing ceremony in the flood-lit reception hall of Czernin Palace also marked the beginning of the last phase of Brandt's "Ostpolitik" Eastern policy aimed at normalizing West Germany's relations with its Communist neighbors.

Brandt, who won the 1971 Nobel peace prize for his drive toward detente with the East, signed similar non-aggression treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland in 1970, followed by an agreement with East Germany last year.

Bulgaria and Hungary, the only two East European countries still without diplomatic ties with Bonn, have said they would endorse similar treaties after the Prague accord.

In a television address following the treaty ceremony, Brandt said, "We have improved the possibility to bear the responsibility for our interests, including the interests of the people of West Berlin in accordance with the four-power agreement."

The four-power Berlin agreement, signed in 1971 by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union, defined the status of the divided city, giving West Germany responsibility over the inhabitants of West Berlin.

Extensive probe on Nixon taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress' Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation decided today to examine every aspect of President Nixon's federal income taxes from 1969 through 1972 and not confine it to the two questions Nixon proposed.

In making public his tax records last weekend, Nixon asked the House-Senate panel to examine his deductions for the gift of vice presidential papers to the nation and whether he should have paid a capital gains tax on the sale of some of his San Clemente, Calif. property.

During a two-hour closed meeting today, the committee decided to "look at every aspect of his return for those years," according to Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, the comittee chairman.

Mills made public Nixon's Dec. 8 letter requesting the investigation. It appeared to ask the panel to limit itself to the "two tax-related items" (which) may continue to be a subject of continuing public questioning."

The letter added, "In the event that the committee determines that the items were incorrectly reported, I will pay whatever tax may be due."

Some experts have calculated the President and Mrs. Nixon would owe about $300,000 in back taxes and penalties if the two questioned items are disallowed.

One is a $235,000 tax saving resulting from the donation of papers for which Nixon took a $576,000 deduction. Mills said the committee would seek to find out if the donation was made before or after the July 25, 1969, deadline set when such deductions by public figures were disallowed in tax reform legislation that year.

Another issue is whether Nixon owed capital gains taxes on profit from the sale of land adjacent to his San Clemente home.

Mills said hearings may be required on the President's tax returns because "there are some facts in dispute" and he said the group could not possibly finish its inquiry by the end of this year.

MSAC radio station to hold open house

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College's new FM radio station, KSAK, will hold open house Thursday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Events will include guided tours of the studio in Room 301 of the Social Science Center.

According to Howard Peth, adviser for the station, programming will begin Jan. 2 on 90.1 after final approval by the Federal Communications Commission.

Woolworth fire looks more like arson; warning issued

POMONA — Investigation of the cause of the $350,000 fire at the F. W. Woolworth Co. store on the Pomona Mall continued today with evidence pointing more strongly toward arson.

Fire Chief John Fowlkes asked merchants in the downtown area to be "more alert, more observant, and to report anything suspicious" to the fire or police departments.

He said his men saw connections between Tuesday's fire — the largest of the year in the city — and perhaps six others that were set along the Mall during the past six months.

"The surest way to prevent the outbreak of any further fires," he said, "is for everyone to be on the lookout for them, and to report any activities that are out of the ordinary."

Fire Inspector Tom Fee said additional evidence this morning substantiated his early finding that the fire was set by hand.

"We are now sure that the fire broke out at multiple locations," he said. "It was set at more than one place in the store. We are following up several leads. It takes time."

Fire on carrier Kitty Hawk kills 6, injures 38

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Fire broke out aboard the carrier USS Kitty Hawk at sea Tuesday, killing six crewmen and injuring 38, the Navy said.

The ship was about 700 miles east of the Philippines, steaming for Vietnam, when fire broke out in the main machinery room, according to a spokesman for the Pacific Fleet.

The blaze occured almost eight years to the day after a similar fire and in the same place. On Dec. 6, 1965, a fire in the main machinery room killed two crewmen and injured 29.

"The Kitty Hawk is still capable of performing its assigned mission. No vital functioning equipment was damaged," said Pacific Fleet headquarters in Honolulu.

The Kitty Hawk left San Diego Nov. 23, on its first voyage to Vietnamese waters since a race riot aboard the ship 14 months ago. After the fire, it was ordered to return to Subic Bay, in the Philippines, the Navy said.

The cause of the fire was not known. Four of the injured suffered minor burns and 34 minor smoke inhalation, the Navy said.

The names of the dead were withheld until their families have been notified.

The Kitty Hawk is 1,062 feet long, weighs 80,000 tons and carries 5,500 men. It is the flag ship of Rear Adm. Donald C. Davis.

In two days of fighting between white and black crewmen in October of last year, 46 men were injured. At that time it was also heading for Vietnamese waters from Subic Bay. Charges were brought against 29 crewmen, of whom 17 were convicted.

Sole air crash survivor dies after 19-week fight for life

BOSTON (UPI) — Leopold Chouinard, who became engaged to wed the night before becoming the sole survivor of a Delta DC9 passenger plane crash, has lost his 19-week battle for life.

Chouinard, 20, Marshfield, Vt., died Tuesday night at Massachusetts General Hospital of complications resulting from "extensive and severe burns," according to a hospital spokesman.

The Air Force sergeant suffered third degree burns on 80 per cent of his body when a Delta jetliner crashed July 31 in dense fog on an approach to Logan International Airport. Killed in the crash were 88 persons.

He was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital where he remained in critical condition while extensive and elaborate treatment was begun to save his life. Shortly after he arrived at the hospital doctors amputated his legs because of extensive burns.

Chouinard became engaged the night before his departure on Delta's Flight 723. He left Burlington, Vt., for Boston enroute to Alaska, after a 30-day military leave.

His fiance, Brenda Newton, 19, who visited Chouinard often, said following the crash, "I love him. I can care for him forever." Brenda came to Boston last week as Chouinard's condition worsened.

Face shot off in war, ex-GI's plight finally draws attention

CHICAGO (UPI) — Leroy Bailey's "face was shot off" in the Vietnam war in 1968.

For five years he survived on a liquid diet in a world of blindness, with little hope things would get better and no help from the Veterans Administration.

Then Pulitzer Prize winning columnist Mike Royko wrote about Bailey's plight and the veteran suddenly got action— from President Nixon.

An administration spokesman said the President became "quite angry" when he read Royko's column in the Chicago Daily News Tuesday. Nixon ordered VA Administrator Donald Johnson "to get this boy in a hospital."

Bailey, 26, was promptly admitted to Hines VA Hospital west of Chicago for whatever treatment he needs.

"I'm amazed at how quickly things can get changed around," said Bailey's brother, Eldon, who has housed him since they gave up on getting assistance from the VA two years ago.

"We've been living this way for two years," he said.

Following the 1968 explosion, Bailey underwent a series of operations at Hines VA Hospital for three years, then was told the VA could do nothing to help him.

But there was still something Bailey wanted—to be able to eat solid foods. He met a doctor who said she could make it possible.

The VA refused to pay the surgical fees, saying Bailey was not seeking treatment for a "service-connected disability."

Bailey went back to his brother's basement, where he knits wool hats and listens to the radio or a tape player, and continued to feed himself with a large syringe which squirts liquid foods into the hole where his mouth used to be.

"One of his (Leroy's) friends happened to meet one of Royko's assistants and they agreed to do a story on him," Eldon said. "Now the VA does find out that the injury was service-connected."

Eldon, 33, said "all I'm hoping for is that Leroy can get fixed so he can eat solid foods again. As long as those things get accomplished that's what counts".

Eldon added, however, that his brother had not give up hope on someday having his face reconstructed.

"In civilian prices in civilian hospitals, I would say it would cost $200,000 or $300,000," he said. "But the VA—it doesn't cost them so much. They've brought in top specialists.

Two La Villita proposals made; one for $75 million

POMONA — Two groups, each seeking selection as the developer for the multi-million dollar La Villita development in downtown Pomona, submitted tentative proposals Tuesday night to the Community Revelopment Commission for different and much larger projects.

The commission called for a special meeting next Tuesday at 7 a.m. at the Heritage House Coffee Shop, 1767 N. Garey Ave., for further consideration of the proposals.

A study envisions La Villita as a recreational, cultural, commercial and residential complex with a Mexican theme on 13 acres bounded by Garey, and Monterey avenues, Palomares Street and the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks.

But the two groups, Caesar C. Cantu and Associates, and the Spanish Speaking Management and Construction Corp., said the 13 acres are not enough.

Rudy V. Linan, president of SSMACC, and Nat Winecoff, member of the same development team and former vice president of Disneyland, spoke in terms of an International Village concept on considerably more acreage with the project costing about $75 million.

Linan said the group also would be interested in other proposed projects downtown, such as a hotel and transportation center.

Linan said financing was available and expressed SSMACC's willingness to work with the city before boundary lines are established.

SSMACC's concept involves a number of villages, each representing a different country or historical period, with waterways, restaurants, and tourist attractions, with La Villita becoming one of the elements of the overall development.

Cantu saw La Villita as a trade center and as a nucleus of a complex that would include 400 stores, apartment housing, and a park.

He said a corporation is being formed that will include experts and professionals in the fields of architecture, engineering, construction and administration.

Cantu said the first phase alone would cost about $9 million.

Both groups each asked to be given an exclusive right of development to give them time to come up with more firm and detailed proposals.

Supervisor Hahn gets elusive chairmanship

LOS ANGELES — Supervisor Kenneth Hahn of Los Angeles who for more than two decades aspired to become chairman of the Board of Supervisors, was named to that post by his colleagues unanimously Tuesday.

He succeeds Supervisor Peter F. Schabarum of Covina, who has represented the First District, including the Pomona area, for the past two years and who served as chairman during the past year.

Despite his desire to become chairman, Hahn had refused the office last week when it became apparent that he would only win by a 3 to 2 margin.

Tuesday, the matter of the chairmanship was brought up once more at the weekly meeting of the board, when Schabarum noted that the supervisors had "failed to act positively" the week before and that the task was still before them.

KENNETH HAHN

"I am still sitting as chairman of the board as a result of no action last week," he reminded the board. "This is not a good or correct situation."

His comments precipitated the reopening of nominations and Hahn was the only nominee to the chairmanship. Scharbarum then wished him well.

Hahn represents the Second District, which takes in the central and much of the south Los Angeles area, including Carson, Hawthorne, Inglewood and Culver City.

Claremonter dies from crash injuries

POMONA — A Claremont woman died here Tuesday of injuries she suffered in a three-car traffic collision Monday.

The victim, Virginia Machesky, 48, 533 Guilford Ave., died Tuesday in the intensive care unit of Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Mrs. Machesky had suffered a skull fracture and injuries to her abdomen and pelvis.

She was the 16th person to die in accidents on city streets this year.

Mrs. Machesky was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Aloysisus Machesky, 48. Police said the vehicle was eastbound in Arrow Highway when it entered the intersection with Garey Avenue, hit a southbound car driven by Gayle L. Burhus, 22, 650 Clark St., and spun into a car driven by Thomas L. Bergstrom, 24, 5045 Orchard Avenue, Montclair.

Machesky suffered a head injury, broken ribs and a leg injury and was reported in good condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Miss Burhus was released after treatment following the accident.

Uplander hurt in traffic crash

ONTARIO — A 33-year-old Upland man suffered a head injury Tuesday morning in a collision in front of the Thunderbird Bowling Alley at 1333 N. Mountain Avenue, police reported.

John O'Neil of 705 Camphor Way, Upland, was taken to Kaiser's Fontana Hospital by ambulance for treatment of a head laceration. He was later released from the hospital.

Girl hurt crossing Pomona street

POMONA — A 15-year-old girl was injured slightly Tuesday afternoon when she was hit by a car while she was crossing Garey Avenue south of Lexington Avenue.

The girl, Linda Joy Thompson, 2051 Pinehurst Place, was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where she was treated.

The driver of the car was John A. Morrison, 16, 2507 S. Titus Ave. He said Linda was the last of two girls to attempt to cross the street ahead of his car.

Two men rob Pomona market

POMONA — Two men, one gesturing as if he had a gun in his pocket, robbed the 7-11 Market at 2280 S. Garey Ave. early Tuesday morning. The pair forced clerk David L. Plumb, 29, to lie on the floor after putting cash in a paper sack. Police believe the pair may have escaped on a motorcycle.

Wind and rain hit Washington

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Winds gusting to 75 miles an hour along with heavy, pounding rain battered western Washington Tuesday, scattering boats at anchor and flooding some coastal towns.

The Evergreen Point Bridge across Lake Washington between Seattle and Bellevue was closed to allow highway engineers to assess damage caused by the pounding waves.

On the southwestern coast, high tides whipped by the winds flooded much of Raymond and sections of South Bend. Water reached depths of up to four feet in the streets of the two towns.

Widow gives up fight to keep land

LORDSBURG, N.M. (UPI) — Rita Hill, the 71-year-old widow who went to jail instead of surrendering her land to the Highway Department, said today she gave up her fight and accepted freedom because of her health.

The frail, 100-pound woman spent 18 days in Hidalgo County jail for refusing to vacate a small shack she built last August in the path of an interchange on her land in southwestern New Mexico.

She was freed Monday night after agreeing not to interfere with the construction project on Interstate 10. If she hadn't stipulated her noninterference, she would have remained in her cell.

"For over two years I have fought the New Mexico Highway Department in its greedy, land-grabbing ways," Mrs. Hill said. "Now I must admit defeat and allow them to take the property which they decided to take."

She said failing health was the major factor in her decision to leave jail.

"I went to see a doctor while I was in jail and he told me my blood pressure was down. I was worried my health would get worse if I stayed any longer."

Mrs. Hill said she would accept the $29,966 the highway department agreed earlier to pay her for the 59 acres of land it condemned for the interchange.

Claremont High

Santa given okay to land helicopter

CLAREMONT — The City Council Tuesday night granted Santa Claus permission to land by helicopter at Claremont High School the morning of Dec. 19.

Associated Student Body President Chris Hammond explained to the council that Principal Alex Hughes had told him to contact the city about Santa's arrival. Hammond went to Mayor Craig McManigal who in turn asked the ASB president to bring up the matter before the council.

Councilwoman Claire McDonald at first objected to the council's granting permission for a helicopter in light of the council's response to Alton Sanford's request in 1972 for a helicopter pad at Griswold's Old School House a few hundred yards to the south on Indian Hill Boulevard.

"I don't think we should grant a special privilege to the high school when we wouldn't for Mr. Sanford," Mrs. McDonald commented.

City Manager Keith Mulrooney explained that the handling of requests for one-time helicopter landings was an administrative matter, and was done with the permission of the fire and police chiefs.

Councilwoman Bertye Smith said she would support the one-time request subject to any donditions set by the fire and police departments.

When Mrs. McDonald questioned the flight of the helicopter over residences, Councilman Frank Hungerford responded with, "He'll be coming in from the north, won't he?"

In other action, the council passed for first reading an ordinance which would amend the Land Use Development Code as to "for rent," "open house," and similar signs.

The council received and filed a letter from Realtor members of the Claremont Chamber of Commerce to the Planning Commission in which the Realtors urged that corner lots should be allowed to signs, and asked that the commissioners reconsider their stand on "open house" signs.

The letter said that three directional signs are often required to guide a prospect to an open house and one sign on the property is necessary to alert persons to the property.

The new ordinance will allow one "for rent" sign for each property, but a rider providing additional information may be attached as long as the whole sign is not more than six square feet in area, and not more than four feet in over-all height.

The ordinance also requires that the sign must be removed when the property owner is no longer soliciting the sale or rental.

Bob Omohundro, manager of Herbert Hawkins Realtors, said that the new ordinance is something that "we can live with."

Omohundro urged that the council look at the Realtors' recommendations. He said that Realtors like to post "sold" signs on a property because it shows the job has been done, but he explained," Lots of properties on which escrow opens are never sold."

City Atty. William Bergman said that leaving up a "sold" sign is advertising for the Realtor, and doesn't help the property owner.

Bonita School Board in energy-cut move

SAN DIMAS — The Bonita school board took steps Tuesday night to conserve energy and head off any shortages in vehicular fuel within the district.

By a 4-0 vote, the board adopted the following recommendations:

—To curb all unnecessary lighting.

—Lower thermostats to 68 degrees in all classrooms and offices.

—Lower thermostats as low as practicable over weekends and during holiday periods.

—Raise air conditioning levels to 78 degrees in all air-conditioned facilities.

—Establish a speed limit of 55 miles per hour for all district vehicles.

—Curtail all field trips and other bus usage, as necessary, to protect home-to-school and school-to-home transportation.

Thermostats, however, will not be lowered until Dec. 20 to give students and district personnel enough time to prepare for the adjustments.

Students will not be affected by the change until after the new year since the holiday vacation begins one day before the order to lower the thermostats goes into effect.

Initially, the fuel shortage has occurred in diesel fuel, but district officials admitted that "a very real potential" exists for a shortage in gasoline in the near future.

They said the district's gasoline supply is over 6,000 gallons, but a request for a partial shipment to "top off the tanks" was denied. By the time a full load could be delivered, they added, some type of rationing could be in effect.

In other business, the board approved a decrease in the price of milk from $.10 to $.08 per half pint effective Jan. 2. The board's action followed as a result of the legislature's reinstating the milk subsidy program, which will pay up to $.04 per half pint.

High school principal wins $356,000 in newspaper suit

FREDERICK, Md. (UPI) — A 50-year-old high school principal has won a $356,000 judgment in his libel suit against a weekly newspaper which rated him unsuited for his job in a 1971 article.

Attorneys for Montgomery County Sentinel publishers Bernard and Leonard Kapiloff, who were ordered Tuesday to pay $250,000 in compensatory damages and $100,000 in punitive damages, said they would appeal the decision. Former Sentinel editor Roger Farquhar was ordered to pay $5,000. Reporters William Bancroft, now employed by the Twin City Journal in Winston-Salem, N.C., and Robert Woodward, who joined in Watergate coverage which won the Washington Post a Pulitzer Prize last year, were ordered to pay $500 each.

The Circuit Court libel suit stemmed from a March 18, 1971, Sentinel which rated 22 county high school principals and included articles on each school administration. It rated Fred L. Dunn and one other principal "unsuitable."

Dunn testified in the seven-day hearing that he lost his enthusiasm for his work after publication of the rating, and added, "I had to fight the whole world to do anything."

'Crazylegs' sues over name use

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Elroy "Crazylegs" Hirsch, the former Los Angeles Rams professional football star, has filed a $1.1 million suit against the Johnson Wax Co., charging the firm named a women's shaving cream "Crazylegs" without his permission.

Hirsch, now the athletic director at the University of Wisconsin, claimed he earned the nickname on the gridiron. He also called the way the firm is using it an "indignity" which has caused him "embarrassment, humiliation."

"Everybody has been joshing the hell out of him" since the name first appeared, Hirsch's attorney said. "He can't walk around the block without 10 people yipping about it."

The attorney said Hirsch did not want to stop sale of the item, "but we just want what's coming to us."

Pope may cancel Yule eve mass

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Vatican Radio said Tuesday that Pope Paul VI may cancel his date to officiate at mass in St. Peter's basilica Christmas Eve if the government does not lift its 11-day long Christmas season driving ban.

The radio station said the Pope would call it off "to avoid imposing hardships on believers and an excessive mobiliztion of public transportation."

Not armed with gun—Brennan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan Tuesday threw open his coat at a Labor Department ceremony and said, in answer to a question, "I'm not carrying a gun now and you can come up and frisk me if you want to."

He declined, however, to say that he never carried a gun.

Aides to the former head of the New York building trades union disclosed earlier this year that he carried a pearl handled revolver at times even after becoming labor secretary.

Pat Nixon's holiday parties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pat Nixon Tuesday announced a series of Yule parties and said the White House will be closed to visitors for decorating until Friday.

She said the decorating of the White House and the trimming of the 18-foot Fraser fir Christmas tree in the Blue Room will be done under the supervision of J.C. Pennock of Philadelphia, who also handled the wedding of the Nixons' daughter, Tricia Cox.

The Nixons plan to spend Christmas day in the White House.

Mrs. Nixon said she will be hostess at the diplomatic children's Christmas party, Dec. 17; reception for White House residents and staff, Dec. 18; wives' tea, Dec. 20; and White House staff party, Dec. 26.

Ford, Soviet envoy confer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford met Tuesday with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin in Ford's office at the Executive Office Building.

A spokesman for Ford said the conference was intended mainly to let the two men get to know each other.

Ford's wife, Betty, meanwhile told an interviewer on ethe NBC network Today show that it would be "very bad for the country" if President Nixon resigned or was impeached.

"We have a very strong country and I think the President is going to go ahead and prove himself and do a very good job in the next three years," she said. "I hope that my husband will be able to help him and I'll be able to help my husband."

Handless artist gains degree

DETROIT (UPI) — Paul Kohler, who lost both hands in a machine shop accident, paints with brushes taped to his forearms. Tuesday he was awarded a master's degree in art from Wayne State University.

"Right after the accident happened I didn't know what I was going to do with my life," he said. "But within an hour I knew I was going to be an artist. I remembered they had these hooks and I knew I would make it work."

Kohler, 26, said he painted his first picture within weeks of the accident five years ago. It sold for $200 at the Macomb County Community College student art fair

Kohler, who is currently looking for a full-time teaching position, said paint brushes are not a problem for him, but door knobs, bottle caps and shaving pose the complications.

Murderer will be paroled

WILLIMANTIC, Conneticut (UPI) — Warren Kimbro, a former Black Panther convicted of murdering alleged police informer Alex Rackley in May, 1969, will be parolled next month, a three-judge panel ruled Tuesday.

Kimbro, originally sentenced to life imprisonment, became director of the Perception Drug House therapy center in Willimantic under a pioneering work release program.

Now 38, Kimbro was a star witness for the state in the trials of Ronnie McLucas, Ericka Huggins and Black Panther National Chairman Bobby Seale after he pleaded guilty to the Rackley murder. He has served three years in prison.

McLukas was released from Somers about a month ago.

Shopper's guide to services

Banks accused of 'questionable' practices in survey

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A consumer organization published today what it called the first "shopper's guide" to banking services.

The 63-page booklet contained an extensive study of charges made by competing banks for loans and services. It found, for example, that among 17 banks in the San Francisco area the cost of a loan could vary more than 100 per cent.

The study, titled "Break the Banks," was prepared by the San Francisco Consumer Action organization.

It found that to borrow $700 for one year under the same conditions; i.e., an unsecured personal loan, would cost the borrower $49 at one bank and $101.60 at another.

"Consumers have long needed price and quality competition among banks," the study said.

It also accused the banks of trying to hide some "unfair and questionable practices."

In gathering information for its survey, Consumers Action said it ran into "opposition and resistance from many in the banking industry, as well as the agencies which regulate banks."

A written request for information on such things as the cost of checking account services brought replies from only two banks, the group said. It took four months of probing to get data for the study, completed last July.

As of then, according to the report, a consumer seeking a new car loan could pay between 7.51 and 10.64 per cent, depending on to which bank he went.

A personal secured loan ranged from 6.50 per cent to 12 per cent; unsecured loans from 9.50 to more than 18 per cent. Some banks charged "transaction fees" as high as four per cent in addition to the interest, the report said.

The consumer group criticized the "minimum balance" requirement on checking accounts. It said a person could have $2,000 in his account for 29 days of the month but if on the last day it dropped to $299, he would be charged for writing checks.

The study also accused the banks of violating the federal Truth in Lending Law by not disclosing to customers all the charges they subject themselves to by taking out an account or making a loan.

The author of the survey, lawyer Neil Gendel, said consumers also should remember "there are other factors besides price to consider in selecting the best banking services."

Wig blinded victim

The expression "to pull the wool over one's eyes" comes from the time when gentlemen wore white wigs, usually made of wool. Highwaymen would pull a victim's wig down over his eyes before relieving him of his watch and wallet.

Smokers on airlines: big brother watching

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government employes are being urged to blow the whistle on airlines that don't segregate smokers from non-smokers.

In a memo to its 680 employes, made public Monday, the Civil Aeronautics Board urged the employes to act as "observers" for the board if they travel on airliners over the Christmas holiday.

Prompted by complaints from non-smokers, the memo asked for reports to the board's Office of Consumer Affairs of violations of the no-smoking rules, and what action, if any, the crew took to stop the violation.

Under a board regulation announced in July, airlines must segregate smokers from non-smokers. The ruling resulted from a long controversy sparked by consumer advocate Ralph Nader, who argued smoking was both a fire and a health hazard aboard the airliners.

"I am asking those members of our board staff who travel during the holiday season to take time to act as a board observer, and to note the flight number and the method of segregation of smokers and non-smokers, and the enforcement practices of flight crews," the executive director of the board, Harry J. Zink, said.

Zink said the board employes should get the "names of crew members, and note it in a report to be given to the Office of Consumer Affairs."

Zink said the employes should note whether the airlines conformed to the regulation which requires passengers be asked if they prefer to sit in the non-smoking section of the plane.

Sources said that most of the airlines are cooperating with the Board order, but that there were several that "are in continued violation of the rules."

Arabs forgot Hawaii was part of U.S.

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hawaii residents sometimes get highly upset when someone forgets or ignores that Hawaii is now one of the United States, but the most recent violation has been nothing but good.

The Arab nations apparently forgot that Hawaii is one of the United States because until recently Hawaii was not included in the Arab oil embargo,

However, the honeymoon is now over. "Someone spilled the beans," said a spokesman for Hawaiian Independent Refinery, the state's biggest importer of Arabian oil.

James F. Gary, president of Pacific Resources which is the refinery's parent company, said his firm now has been notified that Hawaii will be included in the embargo.

Rockefeller's 15 years as governor: unparalleled energy, achievement

HE'LL TRY AGAIN? — N. Y. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is shown in 1968 with Richard Nixon. Both were leading candidates for GOP presidential nomination. Some say Rockefeller resigned for his fourth attempt.

Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller, a millionaire Republican, was elected governor of one of the country's richest and most politically volatile states in his first bid for public office.

The 49th man to serve as governor of New York, Rockefeller, 65, is the country's senior governor in terms of length of service. In New York, he is second only to the state's first chief executive, George Clinton, who served for a total of 20 years and 10 months.

Rockefeller announced Tuesday he would resign the post he has held for almost 15 years.

The Rockefeller administration, which officially began Jan. 1, 1959, has been marked by an energy some view as unparalleled since the building of the Erie Canal in the administration of Gov. De Witt Clinton.

The Rockefeller programs in social welfare, education, the state university, highway construction, new buildings and virtually every other phase of state government have reached new highs.

The Rockefeller years also have been marked by quadrupled spending, which began with Rockefeller's first proposed budget of $2.041 billion through this fiscal year's $8.881 billion spending proposal.

State government employment, which was about 90.000 when Rockefeller took office, has risen to about 185,000, including employes of quasi-governmental authorities and commissions.

In terms of magnitude and lasting impressions, Rockefeller's drive to create a powerful state university system probably will remain his greatest achievement.

When Rockefeller took office, the system was a somewhat antiquated collection of "teacher and cow" colleges that since has been transformed into a 72-unit system with more than 235,000 fulltime students.

Educational spending has risen from less than $650 million to more than $2.8 billion.

A vast interstate highway network, much of it paid for with federal funds, connects the major population centers of the state and virtually is complete.

Despite the successes, there have been setbacks. Early in his career, for example, Rockefeller pushed hard for Civil Defense and bomb shelters to protect against nuclear attack— an idea that never got off the ground.

He has had two major defeats on bond issues, most recently this November, when he sponsored a $3.5 billion transit bond measure which was defeated soundly. In 1971, voters rejected a similar $2.5 billion transit spending proposal.

Although a newcomer to state politics in 1958, Rockefeller defeated incumbent Democratic Governor Averell Harriman by more than 573,000 votes.

His original and somewhat stiff "Call Me Nelson" approach soon gave way to the familiar "hiya fella," wink-and grin "Rocky" that proved a delight to political cartoonists and headline writers.

In 1962, Rockefeller turned back his first challenger, Robert Morgenthau. In the 1966 campaign, Rockefeller soundly beat Frank O'Connor, and he won his fourth term in 1970 by trouncing former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg.

Through all those years, Malcolm Wilson was his lieutenant governor. Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz, who was elected two years before Rockefeller, was the third member of the GOP's big three. Rockefeller has had a Democratic comptroller, Arthur Levitt, throughout his incumbency.

Rockefeller has made three major challenges for the GOP presidential nomination. In 1960, he was one of Richard Nixon's major challengers, but he withdrew early in the preconvention maneuvering.

Political observers say he waited too long in 1964, and the party's eventual candidate, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona, sewed up the nomination by early work with key delegations.

Many feel Nixon should pay, too

California's congressmen and its 2 senators pay state income taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unlike President Nixon, both of California's senators and all 43 of its congressmen pay California state income taxes.

Nineteen of them said Nixon should be paying California taxes, too. Seven said he should not. The rest either could not be reached or had no opinion when surveyed by UPI.

All members of the California legislative delegation who could be reached and aides to the others said Monday they pay California income taxes and will continue to pay them.

White House officials disclosed last weekend that Nixon paid no California state income taxes from 1969 through 1972, although he lists his San Clemente home as his voting residence. They said the President was unaware until Friday he had not paid the state taxes.

Aides said California law exempted him from state income taxes because his "domicile"—as distinct from voting residence—is in the District of Columbia. They said Nixon paid no D.C. income tax either, because D.C. law exempts elected federal officials from local income tax.

Responses from the California legislators ranged from Democrat Robert L. Leggett's: "I think we've got another grounds for impeachment" to Republican Andrew J. Hinshaw's opinion that the President is specifically excluded from California taxes.

Hinshaw said the President's situation is different from a congressman's because state tax provisions "specifically state that if a person is a resident of California or is domiciled in California and if he is outside of the state for a temporary or a transitory period of time he would still be obligated to pay California income taxes..." He said Nixon doesn't meet that definition.

Many said they were confused about the law which Nixon's lawyers cite as absolving him from California taxes.

Rep. William M. Ketchum, a freshman Republican, said, "It seems to me from a moral standpoint...we should try to support the states we live in. Everyone resides somewhere and anyone in political life ought to be setting the example by paying somewhere."

GOP colleague William S. Mailliard said, "It would seem to me a guy ought to pay state taxes somewhere."

Rep. Paul N. "Pete" McCloskey, a maverick Republican, said, "I paid $3,231 last year and he (Nixon) earns five times what I earn." He said Nixon "of course" should pay California taxes—"You've got to pay somewhere."

Republican Clair W. Burgener said he was confident Nixon was within the law, but he was still "surprised" to learn Nixon hadn't been paying state taxes.

"There may be a legal loophole," Democrat Charles Wilson said, "but I don't think it's proper for a man in his position" to avoid them. Californians "have good reason to feel offended" when neither the President nor the governor, Ronald Reagan, pays taxes. Reagan has claimed enough deductions in the past to avoid taxes.

Lionel Van Deerlin, a Democrat, said, "I think either he should or I shouldn't. Our posiiion is exactly the same."

Democrat Augustus Hawkins: "I think all residents of California should pay the tax. If he voted there, that follows he is a resident."

Republican Del Clawson: "If it's legal for him to get by without paying, that's all right. If there's a legal loophole, he's entitled to use it."

Democrat John Moss: "If there's a loophole, I think it ought to be closed. It creates a preferred class of federal officials."

Jerome R. Waldie, a Democrat: "I'd pay a lot less if the governor and President would pay theirs. Of course he should and it ought to hurt him just as it hurts me and every other Californian."

Ex-ballplayer Jerry Priddy found guilty

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former New York Yankees infielder Jerry Priddy was found guilty by a federal court jury Monday of attempting to extort $250,000 from a steamship company by threatening to blow up a luxury cruise ship.

U.S. District Court Judge Irving Hall set Jan. 16 for sentencing. Priddy—a veteran of 11 major league seasons and currently a self-employed advertising executive—faces a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Priddy showed no emotion when the guilty verdict was returned by the jury of 10 women and two men after three ballots and nearly five hours of deliberations Friday afternoon and Monday morning.

He admitted during the weeklong trial that he tried to get the extortion money from the Princess Lines because a mysterious caller had told him to, threatening harm to his family if he did not. Priddy, 53, said the explosives were aboard the Island Princess which was on a cruise to Mexico.

Two sealed packages were found aboard the ship, one in the engine room and another on the bridge. They were thrown overboard by ship officers before anyone could determine whether they contained explosives.

In his closing arguments Friday, Assistant U.S. Attorney Leslie E. Osborne Jr. said the scheme was Priddy's own idea and that he needed the money because of business problems.

Priddy also played for the Detroit Tigers, the St. Louis Browns and the Washington Senators. He can be sentenced up to 20 years in prison.

Car costs 13.6 cents per mile

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average cost of operating a standard size automobile in the United States is 13.6 cents per mile, the Insurance Information Institute said.

The most expensive factor is the auto's original depreciation, which the institute calculated at 4.4 cents per mile. The other five expense categories, figured on a per mile basis, were: maintenance, parts and tires 2.6 cents; gas and oil, 2.1 cents; parking and tools 1.8 cents; insurance 1.4 cents, and state and Federal taxes 1.3 cents.

Action Line

To ask help in solving problems with which you have been unsuccessful, write to Action Line, The Progress-Bulletin, P. O. Box 2708, Pomona, Calif. 91766. Sign your full name, address and phone number and include copies (not the original) of receipts or other documentation possible. If your letter is published, only your initials will be used.

Run-around over tank a lesson in frustration

I took a diving tank to a store in Pomona for minor repairs three months ago.

The job was to take approximately three weeks and cost between $5 and $7.50. I was to be notified by telephone when the tank was ready to be picked up.

When I had not heard from the store a month later, I called. The tank had been sent to another location for the repairs and had not been returned.

At intervals of about once a week for the next month, I called to see if the tank was ready. Each time a different person told me it was not ready.

A month ago one of the employes at the Pomona store said the tank was lost. On at least three occasions after that I went to the store during working hours but it was always closed.

Then I learned that the store had closed and all the merchandise was being moved to Huntington Beach. After at least four phone calls, the manager there said he had found my tank. He wanted me to go to Huntington Beach for the tank or he would send it to me COD.

I objected to both proposals since I felt it was the responsibility of the firm to return the tank to this area.

The manager finally agreed to deliver the tank to the old Pomona address of the store. I was given an approximate date and told I would be called to pick it up on the day it was to be delivered. There was no call.

I have called Huntington Beach at least five times since then but the manager is never available to me.—A.B., Pomona.

It looks as if your problem had you submerged until you wrote to Action Line and we wrote to the Huntington Beach address.

Exactly a week after your first letter, we received a second one from you saying you had your tank.

The firm had shipped it to you without charge for either the repairs or shipping costs.

I hope you don't mind my writing without a complaint. I've read of so many bad experiences with mail order firms that I thought maybe people would be turned away from all of them. That would be too bad.

I've traded with Miles Kimball, Oshkosh, Wis., for many years and have always been pleased.

Nothing is "free," no sweepstakes, contests or prizes — just merchandise as described in the catalogue mailed the day the order is received.

I've never known anyone in the company. I'm just writing because I get tired of the negative side of everything getting attention and the positive side being ignored. — H. M., Pomona.

The Miles Kimball envelope you sent along with your letter was decorated with a Christmas angel. We are glad to help you polish the halo.

I know the answer to the question about setting a trap to protect one's property is correct. My questionis: Why are our laws set up to protect the criminal?

An innocent victim who is seriously injured by a criminal has no recourse by law. Why? — K. M., La Verne.

You refer to the Dec. 2 Action Line item headlined "Setting trap for burglar is flirting with civil suit."

Considering your first question, we remember news articles about individuals who have killed a member of the family by mistake.

Your second statement is based on a misconception. A victim of a crime can sue the criminal. Also, as noted in Action Line on Dec. 5, there is a law which permits the state to compensate victims of a crime in which injuries are received. Application must be made with the California Board of Control within a year of the date the crime was committed.

Ban proposed on realty displays

Hearing on home sale signs tonight

POMONA — The Pomona Planning Commission will conduct a public hearing tonight on a proposal to ban "for sale" signs bearing the names and addresses of realty firms at homes being sold.

The city planning staff had proposed the measure as a means of improving the neighborhoods. The high visibility of "for sale" signs in a residential area could create the impression of instability to persons driving through and thus make all homes in that locale more difficult to sell, the staff believes.

The hearing is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. in the City Council chambers.

Members of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors are expected to attend the session.

The proposed ordinance amendment would also restrict "for rent," "for lease" and "for sale" signs to one square foot with a limit of one sign per lot. These would show only sale or lease information and the name, address and telephone number of only the property owner.

In addition, the proposed ordinance change would allow one "open house" sign per lot not exceeding two square feet which invites the public to view the premises offered for lease, rent or sale provided the owner, tenant or agent is present.

Recommending approval for the amendments, the city staff said an element of panic selling will be reduced by eliminating the majority of "for sale" signs from residential areas.

Other items include a request by Robert Olin Jr. to construct a 103-unit senior citizen residential complex on the old Emerson Junior High School site at 755 N. Palomares St.; a request by Fredricks Development Corp. to build a 144-unit multiple family development at 450 W. Foothill Blvd.; and a request to allow a child day care nursery in a residential area at 1972 Wright St.

Board approves plans to revamp two old schools

POMONA — Preliminary drawings for replacement of earthquake vulnerable sections of Washington and Alcott elementary schools were approved Tuesday by the school board.

They were presented the board by Mark Horie of the architectural firm of Cashion-Horie.

Some $650,000 worth of construction is being planned at Washington where the main building — in use since 1913 — the kindergarten and one bungalow are to be replaced.

The timetable calls for completion of this work by July 1, 1975.

The original Alcott building, in use since 1927, is to be replaced at a cost of about $300,000. It will contain the administrative unit.

This work is scheduled for completion in the mid-1974-75 school year.

Both projects are being financed through a special 10 cent per $100 assessed valuation tax levied on district property owners and already in effect.

Final drawings will be brought back to the school board before they are submitted to the state.

State law requires that all public school buildings in use since before 1933 be replaced or brought to current earthquake safety standards by the end of this school year.

District administrators are working with the same architectural firm, Cashion-Horie, on plans to expedite the replacement of the burned math-reading resource center at Madison Elementary School.

The first advertisement calling for bids appeared Dec. 5 and a second advertisement was made today.

Bids will be opened in the board room on Dec. 20. Assuming that a satisfactory bid is received, a recommendation for awarding a contract will be made at the first board meeting in January.

The resource center was burned by fires deliberately set over the weekend of Nov. 10-11. Loss was set at $25,000.

District insurance covering fire loss has a $10,000 deductible clause.

MERRY-MAKERS

Laughter was the keynote at a retirement dinner for court clerk Hyman J. Bradofsky, center, put on by the Pomona Valley Bar Association at Griswold's Indian Hill, Claremont, Tuesday night. The event was billed as a "Hymie roast." Sharing a chuckle over one of several scrolls and proclamations presented to Bradofsky are Robert Firth, left, supervising judge of the East District Superior Court, and Superior Court Judge Glenn M. Pfau, "Hymie's judge." Bradofsky will retire Jan. 1, 1974.

'Hymie roast'

County court clerk gets plenty of short ribs at retirement dinner

By JOE FIRMAN
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — Some 150 members of the Southern California legal fraternity gathered at Griswold's Indian Hill Tuesday night to honor Hyman J. Bradofsky on the eve of his retirement after 40 years as court clerk of Los Angeles County.

Judges, lawyers, legal secretaries, commisioners, clerks and bailiffs turned out for the "Hymie roast," sponsored by the Pomona Valley Bar Association. Robert S. Hickson, president, presided, and Robert Weiss, vice president, served as master of ceremonies.

The dinner meeting was an occasion of laughter and seriousness, reunion and reminiscence, satire and sentiment among the men and women who had known Bradofsky through some or all of his long career.

Pomona City Manager Fred Sharp presented him with a proclamation from the city; Thelma Everette, president of the Pomona Valley Legal Secretaries Association, gave him an inscribed plaque. Ex-Congressman George Kasem made Bradofsky an "honorary Arab" and presented him with a fez and a scroll entitling him to 500 barrels of oil.

Much was made of Bradofsky's World War II rank of major in the U.S. Army Air Corps. One-time Cpl. Carlos Teran (now Superior Court judge), Lt. Gil Brookings, Pomona attorney, ("He always outranked me!") and Sgt. Bill Sharp, retired county clerk, all provided colorful anecdotes and jabs. ("When I first met Bradofsky in England during the war," Sharp said, "I was reminded of German Field Marshal Rommel — and nothing has changed since.")

Attorney Art Brooks presented a scroll making Bradofsky an honorary member of the class of 1937 at the Duke University law school, signed by "Richard M. Nixon." Brooks moved for "the adoption of the revolution."

Superior Court Judge Alfred Peracca told of being warned about Bradofsky by Judge James G. Whyte, when Peracca came to Pomona. "He doesn't actually own the courthouse," White told his successor, "but watch out!" Concluding on a serious note, Peracca said, "Hymie is a man of perfection, one who has performed a great service to the judges and lawyers of this county."

Other scrolls were presented to the retiring court clerk from the Superior Court Clerks Association, by chief deputy county clerk Edward B. Ramsay "saluting a county clerk par excellence," and from the county Board of Supervisors commending Bradofsky on "40 years of outstanding county service."

Attorney John Sloan offered a framed plaque from the Pomona Valley Bar Association, and Superior Court Judge Glenn M. Pfau, for whom Bradofsky clerks, presented him with an inscribed silver watch fob from the Superior Court judges.

Launching his address with a quotation from "Alice in Wonderland" ("The time has come, the Walrus said, to talk of many things . . . ") Bradofsky recounted the highlights of his life in Pomona, where he arrived in 1933, his military career, and his 40 years with the county law activities.

"In that long stretch of time," he said, "I have been privileged to make friends with many hundreds of splendid men and women — young people, too. Equally rewarding was the opportunity to participate, in however modest a role, in some of the stirring and historic events of Pomona life of our time."

Bradofsky told his listeners that he was going to miss the courtroom atmosphere "because basically this is what my whole life has been about."

He concluded with an expression of thanks to the judges, attorneys, secretaries, public employes and the general public.

The audience gave Bradofsky a standing ovation when he finished his talk.

J. CORDNER GIBSON, dean of the Cal Poly School of Agriculture and Natural Resources at San Luis Obispo, has been appointed to the 13-member California State Board of Agriculture by Gov. Reagan. Pomona briefs

Youth commission to discuss Schoolwatch

POMONA — The Pomona Unified School District's "Operation Schoolwatch" against vandalism will be discussed at a meeting Thursday of the Pomona Youth Commission.

The meeting is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. in the city hall boards and commissions room.

The anti-vandalism campaign was discussed at a joint meeting Nov. 27 of the City Council and school board when the suggestion was made to ask for the commission's recommendations.

Other items scheduled for the commission meeting include discussions on a juvenile diversion program and on an invitation to attend a human relations workshop sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Inc.

Hamilton PTA to have Yule Program

POMONA — Hamilton School PTA will feature a bazaar of items made by school staff members and the PTA board at its Thursday meeting at 7 p.m. in the auditorium. Proceeds will benefit the sixth grade fund.

"Songs and Poems of Christmas from Many Countries" will include performers from every class. The program has been coordinated by Miss Linda Severson; Mrs. Linda Fletcher; Mrs. Isabel Heredia, PTA president; Mrs. Frances Marquez, bazaar chairman; Mrs. Delsina Frey, publicity; and David Burriel, principal.

Parking lot hours will be reduced

POMONA — Parking on a public parking lot located at the southeast corner of Gordon and Fourth Streets will be reduced from all-day to a two-hour limit.

A resolution calling for the change was adopted by the City Council on the recommendation of Vehicle Parking District No. 3.

Parking commissioners asked for the two-hour limit after attorney Vic Tessier, with offices in the Civic Center Building, 401 S. Main St., said the public lot was filled early in the morning and motorists arriving later were parking on his private lot, creating parking problems for the Civic Center Building's attorney, secretaries and clients.

Recipients were David Keach, Mark Comer, Sydney Cannon, Gregory Campbell, Mark Tilman, Vincent Walker, Cedric Julius, David Brown, Kenneth Brown, Greg Brown, Kenny Mogenson, James Mott, Ron Stires, Jim Thompson, Stephen Douglas and Jeff Davenport.

Three boys graduated from the pack. They are Ron Stires, Greg Brown and John Holt.

Works that will outlive us all

Although it will take another 13 years before Pioneer 10 crosses the orbit of Pluto, outermost planet in the solar system, and enters true outer space on its voyage into infinity, for all intents and purposes its mission is completed.

Having passed safely through the asteroid belt between Mars and Jupiter and survived the fantastically strong zone of radiation is reported around the giant planet, the probe is expected to encounter nothing but empty space the rest of the way.

There could be surprises of course; man's first, brief era of space exploration has been full of surprises. Scientists will continue to track Pioneer 10 until its steadily fading radio beacon finally dies in 1977.

It is impossible to comprehend the vast distances involved in Pioneer's space odyssey. It covered 620 million miles in its 21-month trip to Jupiter. It must go several billion more miles before reaching the rim of the solar system. Its radio messages from Jupiter, traveling at the speed of light, took 45 minutes to reach earth. Were they to continue beaming from as far as Pluto, they would take 12 hours.

These distances and times are as nothing compared to interstellar measurements.

Long after our sun dies, probably in a stupendous explosion as a nova perhaps 10 billion years hence, Pioneer 10 will continue its voyage through the galaxy. Long after the earth and all its life have perished, the tiny spacecraft will continue to carry its plaque bearing the figures of a man and a woman and a diagram telling of its origin for such other space-faring sentient beings as may exist on the other side of the universe to wonder at.

All human works will someday vanish as if they had never been. Pioneer 10 will endure for eternity.

Message for all: keep on truckin'

A truck driver's life is not an easy one. For them, the old saying about time being money is especially true.

Highway speed restrictions and fuel shortages, which necessitate more frequent refueling stops, along with higher prices for fuel when they can get it, have cut into their paychecks. Most people except possibly those motorists who have been stalled for hours on Interstate because of trucker blockades, sympathize with their plight.

Yet all of us, even if the more pessimistic predictions about the extent of the energy crisis don't come true, are going to feel the pinch. All of us are going to have to change our habits and ways of doing things, and all of us are going to be hit in our pocketbooks. The truckers just happen to have been the first to feel the impact.

It's too late to wish we had adopted the system they have in South Africa, where all intercity freight is carried by rail and truck deliveries are limited to 30-mile ranges.

If truckers are allowed to shut down such a vital part of the nation's transportation system, as a lot of them are threatening to do, what about workers whose earnings may be reduced, or jobs eliminated entirely, because of shortages of power or petrochemical raw materials?

If the protesting truckers get their way and are permitted to travel at 65 miles an hour (and there are conflicting arguments about whether diesel engines are more efficient at high speed), what about the salesman who must drive at 50 or 55 and to whom time is also money?

It's tough being a trucker. But it's tough all over, and likely will be for a long time to come.

Who'd forget Moon oil?

A lot of people may be wondering why now, of all times, a major oil company has launched a nationwide advertising campaign touting how "very friendly" its service station operators can be to those who patronize them.

According to complaints from around the country, a motorist is lucky these days just to get gas, let alone have his windshield cleaned and his oil and tires and battery checked by a smiling attendant.

It's a good question, says Dean Lind, manager of advertising and marketing services for Sun Oil Co.

"At first glance, it does appear sensible to stop advertising," he admits, "but we think an advertising moratorium now would create an identity problem after the shortage has passed."

Let other companies take note. If and when that happy day comes when it is again a buyer's market in gasoline, Americans will remember which stations were "very friendly" during the present crisis and which ones weren't.

Oil for Saigon despite shortage

WASHINGTON — Despite the critical oil shortage at home, the United States is able to spare more than 20,000 barrels a day for South Vietnam. Each barrel contains 42 gallons.

The fuel shipments to Vietnam have dropped only moderately since U.S. forces pulled out. At the height of our B-52 raids last January, for example, the Pentagon shipped 995,000 barrels of oil to Saigon. This dropped to 681,000 barrels in August and nearly 600,000 barrels in September.

But these figures, the latest available, don't reveal the full extent of the drainage. For the U.S. supplies much of South Vietnam's civilian oil needs, too. These figures, apparently, are known only to the oil companies.

We have determined, however, that the Agency for International Development shells out $80 million a year to purchase petroleum products for South Vietnam's civilians.

Of course, the bulk of U.S. oil shipments to Vietnam are used to fuel South Vietnam's war machine. At the height of our involvement in the Vietnam War, in 1969, we shipped nearly 44 million barrels to the Saigon regime. This figure dropped to 20 million barrels by 1972. During the 1973 fiscal year, 12 million barrels were delivered for military use.

The U.S. government is still handling fuel procurement for South Vietnam's armed forces, letting contracts to U.S companies. A Pentagon official told us that the amount of oil going to Vietnam hereafter will be determined by the scale of the fighting.

South Vietnam is bracing for a renewed offensive from the North. More than likely, it will take bigger oil shipments, literally siphoned from the gas tanks of American civilians, to keep the South Vietnamese tanks, trucks, ships and planes going.

FOOTNOTE: The civilian oil situation in Vietnam has become critical. Fuel was already rationed when a rocket attack wiped out 50 per cent of South Vietnam's civilian oil supply.

SECRET TAPES: Another set of secret tapes has turned up in the Watergate investigation. The prosecutors, however, don't know whether to believe what they have heard.

The tapes contain the monitored conversations of a banker, who boasted he handled a secret portfolio for President Nixon at Bebe Rebozo's Key Biscayne Bank.

The boast was made by Franklin DeBoer, who worked for awhile as vice president in charge of the trust department at Rebozo's bank. A White House spokesman and a source close to Rebozo joined in denouncing the statement as completely false.

DeBoer didn't know his words were being recorded as he talked freely on the phone and elsewhere about his banking business. We have now had access to the tapes.

'Substantial salary'

"I happen to work for Mr. Rebozo, Mr. Abplanalp and Mr. Nixon," said DeBoer. (Robert Abplanalp is another of the President's rich friends.)

"You work for Mr. Nixon?" asked a friend.

"Yes. . .," said DeBoer. "I happen to draw a substantial salary outside the bank from them, which is obviously what all these . . .s are trying to prove, too."

The tape is slightly garbled at this point. DeBoer said either "he" or "we" run "the private portfolios for these people in the bank. . ."

"You know," he continued, "I have a salary that is substantially greater than the bank pays me from these people. I don't go out and (spit) in their faces."

Letters from young P-B readers

Blockade wouldn't work

I think that Mr. Williamson's idea of the Navy surrounding Arab countries would not work too well. For one reason, it would cause another war with the Arabs, and Russia would probably figure out a way to help the Arabs.

While we're fighting to get more oil, how would we fuel our ships in the meantime? —Lynda White, Claremont.

No Sunday driving

It's not enough that they (the gas stations) are not selling gas on Sunday. There ought to be a law banning driving on Sunday.

With the gas shortage, not driving Sunday would save gas. There are other means of transportation. There are bikes, roller skates, and feet. None of these make smog, or use gas.

Kids and animals could play safely in the streets. People could stay at home and enjoy the noiseless day. —Karren Dack, Claremont.

60 speed limit

I think the best way to use less gas is to cut the speed limit to 60 m.p.h. We should keep the same speed limit on buses and trucks because if buses and trucks went slower they would use more gas changing gears.

I also think there should be a higher tax on gas. That would generate enough money to develop the equipment to extract more oil — Steve Yale, Claremont.

Traffic jams at 50

I think the President should not change the speed limit from 75 to 50. If you go 50 where it used to be 70 or 75, it would cause traffic jams. Jams, being stop and go, would use more gas than going without stopping.

The longer you're on the road the more exhaust you're going to cause, and that in turn means more smog. Besides, it will take millions of dollars to change all the speed limit signs. So, if you have to go on the road, and I realize some of you do, you might as well go 75 m.p.h.—Ron Estes, Claremont

Stranded motorists

I think that gas stations, or at least one pump per gas station, should be open until midnight instead of 9 p.m. on Saturday so that people who get stranded don't have to wait until Monday to get gas.

Say you were traveling on a road that no one travels on and you know you can't make it to your destination on what you have. So then you start looking around for a gas station until you find one after about two hours. So you pull in and find it's closed. So now what are you going to do?

This is why I think gas stations shouldn't close until midnight on Saturdays. —Mary Naef, La Verne.

Teen Forum

Your column Teen Forum I think is a good one.

It helps people with problems. It helps them if they have someone to tell their problems to, and to get advice from someone outside of friends and family.

Sometimes you can't talk to your family about certain problems you have. For example, Teen Forum published the letters about kissing. Some people would be embarrased to talk to family or friends about that type of problem. That's why I think Teen Forum is a good column. —Carol Gallardo, Claremont.

Impeach the President

I think the President should be impeached because he's made the American people lose faith in him. He has had bad judgment on several matters, and the government is falling apart.

He also hasn't told the truth about the Watergate breakins, and evidence indicates he is involved in the coverup. Finally, there are serious questions of dishonesty on his part. —Leslie Robison, Claremont.

Nixon's doing fine job

I think the President should not be impeached. We elected him and we should accept our own decisions.

What would the other countries think? They would wonder what kind of country we are running, and whether we have a weird goverment that every time we finally find something to convict him of, we grab it and hang on.

It might have taken the President long to get the POWs home, but he did it. He also stopped the war. I think that the President is doing a fine job. —Liddy Duncan, Claremont.

Gas for the rich

I think that the oil companies should not raise the prices of gasoline, because if they do then the rich people will buy most of the gas and the poor people will not be able to afford it.

I don't think they should ration the gas, either, because if someone has to go a long way it will be wasting their limit and they won't have any left.

However, I like the idea of putting the speed limit at 50 m.p.h. so that we won't be wasting as much gas. —Mark Sturgis, Claremont.

Woman's enemies

Football, basketball, baseball and bowling are all a married woman's enemies. Whenever that pigskin starts flying past that 24 inch TV screen, a man's mind is completely engulfed in clashing heads and piled up bodies.

This is the time that the wives of America to to their secret places where they hide their money and go out and buy fabulous jewels and miniskirts and try and bring their husbands out of their trance.

Then when they think they have accomplished their exhausting feat, baseball starts swinging their husband' minds back into their dazed staring trance.

When there is finally no hope for the poor, ignored wife, there comes a time when there isn't anymore sports on TV. The wife rejoices, but woe. Their husbands always manage to find a channel which shows nothing but reruns of the husband's greatest pastime, sports.

And so I write this biography of a married woman's life on behalf of all those young women in America who think of getting married and I leave this piece of priceless advice, don't. —Richard Radvanji, Claremont.

Michigan vs. Ohio

I think that Michigan and Ohio should have another playoff game because they tied the game and it's unfair to both teams. It will probably make Ohio feel down for the game.

Michigan's quarterback probably feels it's all his fault that they aren't in the playoffs. Michigan's second string quarterback would probably do a better job than usual because he owes it to his team and especially to the first string quarterback.

Both teams probably feel they can beat each other anyway, so they would want a fair chance to go to the playoffs. —Andy Weinberg, Claremont.

Daylight saving

I think we should go on daylight saving time because we would cut down on lighting. If we have daylight saving we won't have to use so much light.

If we save on electricity, we could use it on street lights to help stop murders and muggings. We also wouldn't have to use our car lights, and there wouldn't be as many crashes.

We could have football games in the daylight and we would save on stadium lights. We wouldn't have to use as much lighting in our factories.

We will also cut down on heating. We wouldn't use our heaters as much because it wouldn't get dark so early. —Dan Black, Claremont.

Gossip for today

Don't blame it on the Arabs! The real reason we are having an energy crisis here in the United States is because of the average American's aversion to making use of human energy. For years we have stocked up on power-driven equipment designed to help us avoid all types of physical effort. Then we have invested more money in power-driven equipment to help us effortlessly take off the excess weight our inactivity has brought about. By refusing to ship us the necessary fuel oil to keep all that power-driven equipment operative the Arabs have undoubtedly done us a tremendous favor. Whether we like it or not, we average Americans are now being forced to shape up in spite of ourselves. In time we may even become normal human beings once again.

INSIDE REPORT

Power struggle in energy crisis

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Within two days of his appointment as new energy czar, Deputy Secretary of the Treasury William Simon was the target of a humiliating and massive put-down by Roy Ash, fast-rising and highly controversial head of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB).

Ash, skilled as an enemy-picker and bureaucratic infighter both within the administration and on Capitol Hill, told Simon that he, Ash, and his OMB staff would "run" the energy program—and that Simon would handle "policy" matters.

Moreover, one inside operative told us that Ash's OMB men had pulled the energy-crisis files accumulated during ex-energy czar John Love's ill-fated five-month tour in the hostile White House, at least temporarily denying the files to Simon.

But Simon is no one's patsy. When told to his face by Ash that his duties would begin and end with "policy" he replied with two old and honorable Anglo-Saxon words: "Bull s—t." The power struggle, one of an unlimited number of lesser struggles by which Ash has managed to elevate his power, then went to President Nixon.

But Mr. Nixon, preoccupied by self-preservation and notoriously uninformed about the energy crisis, won't have to settle it. That will be done by Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz.

Cutting Ash down

Shultz, who was instrumental in having his deputy, Simon, put in charge of the energy crisis, has no intention of permitting Ash to interfere with Simon's operations. The word in the White House late this week was that Shultz will cut the mighty Ash down to size.

He'll have plenty of help both inside the administration and in Congress. When Ash testified before the Senate Government Operations Committee Thursday, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, a key energy expert, tried to make him squirm.

Was it not true, he asked Ash, that the White House had impounded some $40 million last summer that the Democratic Congress had appropriated in a vain effort to force the administration to step up research and development on new fuels? Well, Ash replied, the money was "reserved," not "impounded."

Jackson and other congressional energy experts blame Ash for undercutting former White House energy czars James Akins (now ambassador in Saudi Arabia) and Love. Ash's personal lobbying in Congress against Jackson's Alaska pipeline bill amendment (to restore investigatory powers to the Federal Trade Commission) angered congressional leaders. They accuse Ash of trying to persuade Mr. Nixon to veto the pipeline bill in the interest of big business's fear of the Jackson amendment.

Within the administration, Ash's OMB infuriated the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and its hard-pressed boss, Russell Train. OMB slipped a White House position paper to Congress seeking more delay on automobile clean-air emission standards without first clearing it with EPA.

But in taking on the redoubtable Simon, whose neat hair-part and trim Wall Street appearance conceal a toughness of total self-confidence, Ash may have stuck his neck out too far.

Senator Richardson?

A serious proposal that former Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson consider moving his official residence next door to New Hampshire from the ancestral home in Boston, and run for the Senate next year, has been made by pro-Richardson New Hampshire Republicans.

Richardson was non-committal when one leading New Hampshire Republican broached the idea soon after Richardson was victimized by the White House in the Saturday Night Massacre of Oct. 20.

A frequent, long-time New Hampshire skier and summer visitor, Richardson would run for the seat of retiring Republican Sen. Norris Cotton. Two of the state's most prominent Republicans are eyeing Cotton's seat: Rep. Louis Wyman will definitely run; former Gov. Wesley Powell is considering running. Some Cotton intimates think he might wind up running himself.

A Senate seat for Richardson would give the former Secretary of Defense, Health, Education and Welfare, and Attorney General a public showcase, Republican friends say, in case he wants to run for President in 1976.

Chino school board favors giving school strip to city

CHINO — Over the protests of member Al McCombs, the school board here voted to declare its intent to dedicate 30 feet of land along the eastern boundary of the Magnolia School site to the City of Chino Tuesday night.

The vote was 4-1 with McCombs dissenting after lengthy discussion on the matter that had been tabled from the Nov. 27 meeting. The action served as a proclamation of the board's intent to dedicate the land to the City of Chino for the purpose of drainage and future street development.

This latter purpose was the point that McCombs belabored in debate with Supt. Royce Lapp, architects Dan Carmichael and Dick Kemp, engineer Jim Skinner and other board members.

The dedication would allow the city to take steps for solution of the drainage problem in that area for both the school district and a subdivision being developed by Griffith Developers and built by Chevron Construction. Portable classrooms and trailers are presently on the site for the projected elementary school and these serve as the location for Buena Vista High School at the present time. However, if and when the elementary school became a reality, a street could be constructed on the eastern side and allow access on a residential side rather than a major highway side.

"If we grant their request we're proceeding on the assumption that we want a street there," McCombs began. "My own feeling about the matter is we don't need a full street back there. It only means something to the subdivider to gain access to the cul-de-sac there. We have a case of some burden being put on the school district to put in a street for a developer. If there is to be a street, we should try to get the subdivider to put in the whole street."

Lapp explained that the board had granted easements to the city six months ago on both the southern and eastern boundaries of the site. The southern easement was rescinded at the Nov. 27 meeting and the question of the eastern dedication was still in a state of abeyance. He recommended the adoption of a resolution of intention to dedicate, the public hearing on the matter and final approval of the dedication.

"I see no reason whatever to unnecessarily tying our hands by having access to the school on only one side. I would not want the only access on Magnolia. It is to our advantage to create a situation where we have pupil pedestrian access from as many points as possible," said Lapp.

McCombs replied that if a residential street were used as a frontage for the school site, it would prove inadequate for school buses.

"I don't see any particular need for that street as far as access is concerned," McCombs stated.

Board President Charles Smith asked the architects for an opinion on the matter. Dick Kemp pointed out that it is better to have a school frontage on a residential street rather than a major or secondary highway, particularly for matters of student safety, unhampered flow of traffic and convenience to parents dropping off children.

Jim Skinner, engineer for Chevron Construction Co. and Griffith Developers, also spoke in favor of the dedication.

Smith then called for a roll call vote. The matter will be considered in a hearing at the Jan. 8 meeting of the board. The next school board meeting scheduled for Christmas Day is canceled.

In other action, the board:

—Approved a motion by McCombs for compensation of school board members. Each member will receive "$20 for each regular or special meeting of the board actually attended, not to exceed $120 in any month."

—Authorized Carmichael-Kemp to proceed with working drawings for the completion of Magnolia Junior High School.

—Received a draft copy of the master plan study from William Skinner and associates of Irvine and Carmichael-Kemp.

—Declared "its intent to enter into a year round school program in one or more district schools effective July 8, 1974."

Air-conditioning pact let for Upland school

By PATRICK SPENCER
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND — Although the expenditure represents nearly 40 per cent of available capital outlay funds, the Upland school board agreed Tuesday to award an air conditioning contract for Foothill Knolls School.

After a lengthy discussion period, trustees voted unanimously to award the $30,987 contract to Triangle Mechanical Inc. of Riverside for the installation of six air conditioning units in two large kindergarten classrooms and four regular classrooms at the school.

Trustees were somewhat alarmed when Business Manager Glenn M. Hardy reported initially that the lowest bid amounted to $50,821. Hardy pointed out, however, that the figure covered the cost of air conditioning all 13 of the school's classrooms.

Hardy said an agreement had been reached whereby the cost of seven units and their necessary electrical wiring would be deducted from the figure, thus bringing the actual cost down to $30,987.

That amount, plus an estimated $2,750 in architectural and electrical and mechanical engineering drawings, would put the project some $2,400 over the $31,300 presently budgeted, Hardy said.

The most expensive portion of the project, he said, would be modifications necessary to increase electrical power to the school to run the additional cooling units.

After exploring the cost breakdown and some of the electrical modification necessary, the board agreed with President William Rugg that "we sure aren't going to get it any cheaper."

When the project is completed, only three other schools, Upland Elementary, Baldy View and Sierra Vista, will remain without air conditioning in the district.

In other matters, Dist. Supt. Bill Blaster announced that the district's application for $100,000 from the state Department of Education to finance a Professional Renewal Program for teachers is expected to be acted on and approved this week in Sacramento.

Under the program, the staffs of Cabrillo, Upland Elementary, Valencia and Foothill Knolls schools will receive 20 days of intensive training provided by professors from the UCLA School of Education and four specially trained district master teachers over a six-month period beginning in January.

The voluntary program, Plaster said, will give the teachers "greater sophistication in the science of teaching."

In other business matters, the board adopted a policy granting workman's compensation payments for approved volunteer workers in district schools.

A policy extending group health and accident coverage to regular employes working three or more hours daily was also accepted and approved on a first reading.

Six youths arrested in Montclair store robbery

MONTCLAIR — Six juveniles, ranging in age from 14 to 17, have been arrested on suspicion of armed robbery in connection with the robbery of the 7-11 Market at 10132 Central Ave. Dec. 1 during which a store clerk was struck over the head with a tire iron.

Police Officer Jim Baily said the six youths were arrested at their homes and schools in Ontario, Montclair and Pomona Monday and Tuesday following a two-week investigation into the robbery. Three of the juveniles have been petitioned to Juvenile Hall pending disposition on charges of armed robbery and three have been released to their parents.

Police believe three of the youths walked into the store about 4:30 p.m. Dec. 1. One of the youths distracted the woman clerk for a moment and the second youth struck the woman in the head with a tire iron. The third youth stood by the door as a lookout.

Baily said the youths took money from the cash register, several six-packs of beer and some wine before leaving. Police said the trio got into a car waiting outside with three other juveniles and drove off.

The store clerk was treated for a minor head wound at Doctors Hospital and was later released.

United Way goal passed easily

ONTARIO — The West End United Way's 1973 fund-raising campaign went over the goal when the contributions totaled $420,793 during the recent Harvest Victory luncheon held at the Ontario Elks Lodge.

The goal was $400,000, and this year's effort marks the first time in many years that the donations have topped the objective on the target date.

"We aren't finished yet," said Dale Eckrote, campaign chairman. "More funds will be forthcoming from areas not yet reported. By the end of December, we should have everything cleaned up.

"This campaign has been a success because a lot of people — over 700 volunteers — have done outstanding jobs. I'm awfully happy it happened at this time."

Nageotte-Fichtner vows are repeated

Miss Angela Anita Fichtner and David Anthony Nageotte were united in marriage in a Nuptial Mass read by the Very Rev. Msgr. William J. Barry in Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church in Claremont.

The daughter of Mrs. Wanda Fichtner of Upland and Arthur Fichtner, also of Upland, was escorted to the altar by her father.

The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nageotte of Pomona.

The bride chose a gown of white satin crepe with beading at the collar and wrist. It was accented with a cathedral-length train.

A headpiece held her bouffant veil and she carried a crescent of white roses and white carnations. Each mother was presented a red rose.

Miss Regina Fichtner was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Miss Debbie Nageotte, sister of the groom, and Miss Vicki Bressler.

Mark Champion was best man while Denis Nageotte, Dennis Thompson and Richard Miller ushered.

After a honeymoon in Santa Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Nageotte will reside in Victorville while the groom is stationed at George Air Force Base.

Ask Dr. Brothers

The stingy suitor

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I know I'm neurotic about money, but hard as I try, I can't seem to change when it comes to dollars and cents. My miserly attitude has been at the root of the breakup of at least two friendships and it really interferes in my relationships with women. I know I shouldn't let other guys pick up the check at lunch or when I'm on a double date, but if the other man is generous, I simply don't argue. I've never admitted this before but it pains me to pay for my date's dinner or an evening on the town. Lately, I go through a whole routine discussing women's liberation with my dates on the pretext of supporting it, when actually all I support is the idea that the gal should pay for her own meals and theater tickets. I don't understand how I can be so aware of this problem and still not be able to do anything about it. I hate myself but it doesn't stop me from behaving in the same old chintzy way.— P.T.

Dear P.T.: Sometimes people find it so difficult to break habits and attitudes about money because their ideas are rooted in the past and usually go back to early childhood training.

Your reluctance to part with money, for instance, may well be traced to a strict, rigid, punishing attitude toward toilet training.

Some children may feel that if so much attention is focused on the process of elimination, then it is better not to part with anything. This may result in compulsive collecting of even valueless things — newspapers, string.

There is a kind of childish defiance and rebellion in giving as little as possible. An employee, may give as little of his service and time; he may withhold himself. A man may withhold money from his wife and dole it out in tiny amounts so he can maintain control, and also because this habit of withholding is unconscious and dates back to his early childhood.

Money can also mean physical and emotional security. To children and adults, the giving of money represents an expression of love and affection. Some adults want to go back to the secure role of childhood where everything was automatically provided and where they didn't have to worry about paying for food and clothing. They may unconsciously want to push their friends into the comforting role of parents who provide.

This may be in your unconscious when you allow your friends to pick up the check. What you're doing is asking for complete love and acceptance; you're acting out some of the unresolved conflicts about love and security that go back to your early life with your parents.

Because these patterns of insecurity are so old, they are hard to change, but this doesn't mean change is impossible. It might be wise to get professional help to solve these emotional problems now so that your miserliness doesn't increase and ruin your chances of happiness. Since you've already lost some friends because of your difficulties with money, it is important to correct this now before you lose more. It would also be valuable to overcome this difficulty before your marry.

Add spice

To add a little spice to the great American classic, the home seamstress can run up shirtwaist dresses in true autumn shades — like a bright primary or a jewel-toned dark. Or pick a plaid in tomto, shamrock and crayon yellow. Or choose a check in teal and redwood brown. For a little eye-diversion, sew the top in a stripe and pair it with a skirt in a polka dot or a herringbone. Keep the designs small, though, so they don't become overwhelming or fight one another.

Asbestos in nation's water pipes hit as cancer risk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Further production of asbestos cement waterpipe for drinking water should be banned because the 200,000 miles of it that already exist in this country may be exposing Americans to a needless cancer risk, according to a group of researchers.

The request for a ban, lodged Monday with the Environmental Protection Agency by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, brought an immediate counter attack from the asbestos industry which says there is no evidence to link watercarried asbestos to cancer or any other health problem.

The center told the EPA that decades of exposures may pass before cancer starts showing up but "the problem of limiting the public's exposure to asbestos calls for immediate action." The group previously asked the Food and Drug Administration to ban the use of asbestos filters in food and beverage preparation because it said fibers of the mineral are escaping into the food supply.

Asbestos is fairly ubiquitous in the environment. In airborne form in heavy concentrations it has been known to cause lung cancer and other problems, although there is less known about its effects in food or water.

Barry Castleman, a researcher for the center, said in an interview "there's no proof that the levels (of asbestos) in water represent a hazard to health, and maybe the population can tolerate it." But he said there is no reason the public should continue to be exposed to it and "I think there is a very good case for not making anymore of this pipe."

Warning by petroleum executive

Dirtier air, less gas may be price for keeping lights on

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The price of keeping the electrical generators turning may be dirtier air and even less gasoline for motorists, a leading petroleum executive has warned the City Council.

Fred Hartley, president of Union Oil, also warned that oil refineries must be exempt from the "rolling blackouts" the city is planning on as a last-ditch measure. Otherwise, they will have to close down completely, he said.

Hartley and D.A. Sedgwick, vice president of Texaco, appeared at City Hall before the Ad Hoc Committee on Energy Conservation.

Union can provide 5,000 more barrels of oil a day to the Department of Water and Power for the city's electrical generating plants, Hartley said.

But, he said, it would be high sulfur content oil—the type currently barred by air pollution regulations—and producing it would cut into Union's gasoline-making capability.

Gasoline production would drop by 200,000 gallons a day, he said, and if all California refineries made such a switch, the impact would be to slash gasoline supplies by 2.1 million gallons a day.

He said cuts in electricity to the refineries would lead to no gas or oil for any use.

"If you want to slow us down 25 per cent (in electricity) beyond the 20 per cent slowdown already resulting from the Arab boycott, we would have to shut down," Hartley said.

If rolling blackouts of three hours a day hit the refineries, he said, it will take two or three days after each blackout to get them working again, and since the blackouts would occur every day, they would effectively shut down production of all petroleum products.

Union could begin "tomorrow" turning out high sulfur oil for electrictl generating use, he said. California oil companies do not produce such fuel in any considerable quantity now because there is no market for it, since its use is banned by air pollution laws.

If all the state's refineries were to join in, they could produce 18 million barrels a year of high sulfur content oil, Hartley said. That would be a "major step" toward easing the shortage, he said.

The DWP has already asked the county Air Pollution Control District for permission to burn high sulfur oil to avoid blackouts.

Hartley suggested that the generating plants store the high sulfur oil and the low sulfur oil in separate tanks, and burn the high sulfur oil on "good days" when air pollution is not a great problem, saving the cleaner oil for "bad days" when the smog thickens.

Hartley's own suggestions for cutting back on every usage included closing all shopping centers on Sundays; forcing the Los Angeles Times not to print its Sunday edition, and limiting the hours of radio and television broadcasting.

Bradley said that the crisis is so serious that it will affect everyone, and "What people want to be assured of is that they're going to be treated fairly."

Mariner picks up exciting information

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Mariner 10, a tiny unmanned spacecraft launched 38 days ago, has not reached its destination of Venus and Mercury yet, but it has already excited scientists by picking up unexpected transmissions from a stellar body deep in outer space.

The transmissions Mariner picked up were ultraviolet emissions and they came from a nebular cloud—an enormous mass of glowing gas — 128 light years from Earth, scientists reported. The emissions showed hydrogen and helium originating in the nebula, known as the Gum Nebula, never before measured.

Dr. A. Lyle Broadfoot, principal investigator of ultraviolet spectoscopy, said it was too early to evaluate the significance of the measurements, but he said they indicate "there is apparently less hydrogen in interstellar space than we had thought." The emmissions could therefore alter the basic theory of the nature of outer space.

A colleague, Dr. Bruce C. Murray of Cal tech, said it was only 11 years ago that the first measurements of infrared pentetrations of the solar system from stellar space had been discovered and predicted the new data would be of tremendous importance.

Mariner 10, the first spacecraft to use the gravity of one planet to reach another, will sweep by cloud-shrouded Venus at a distance of about 3,300 miles Feb. 5 and then will bend on a trajectory taking it to within 621 miles of Mercury on March 29.

Murray said the excellent quality of television pictures indicated that some of the most significant data of space exploration to date would come when Mariner relays closeups of the surface of Mercury.

The topograpy, craters and atmospheric measurements, compared with similar studies of the Earth, the moon and Mars, should furnish a whole new bank of knowledge about the manner and timing of the formation of the solar system, Murray said.

Six in car die in train crash

KITTRELL, N.C. (UPI) — The engineer of a freight train that struck a car Sunday, killing its six occupants, told officials the vehicle stopped at a crossing then without warning pulled into the path of the train.

A mother, her three children, and two teen-age boys were killed returning from church when the 25-car Seaboard Coastline train rammed into their vehicle.

The engineer, Daniel E. Mathhews Jr., 60, of Cary, N.C., told police the car darted into the path of the train without warning and that it was dragged about a half mile from the rural crossing one mile south of U.S. 1 before he could stop the train.

An answer to too much sweetness

Dry and not very sweet, Italian Anise Cookies provide welcome variety to all the rich cookies at Christmas time.

Roasted chopped natural (unblanched) almonds give these toast-like cookies plenty of crunch. They are delightful "dunkers" for coffee or wine. For informal refreshments, you might offer them with small glasses of Sherry.

ITALIAN ANISE COOKIES

3 cups sifted unbleached flour
1 cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1¾ teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
2 to 3 teaspoons anise seed, crushed
4 eggs, well beaten
2 tablespoons cream
1 cup chopped natural almonds, roasted

Sift flour with sugar, baking powder and salt. Mix in lemon rind, anise seed, eggs and cream to make soft dough. Divide in half. On floured pastry cloth roll each half of dough into 10 x 8-inch rectangle. Sprinkle each rectangle with half of almonds and roll up as for jelly roll starting from 10-inch side.

Slide onto greased cooky sheet. Flatten to 1-inch height. Bake at 350 degrees 20 to 25 minutes, or until lightly browned. Cook slightly; cut into slices about ½-inch thick. Place on baking sheet and toast in moderate oven 4 to 5 minutes. Makes about 4 dozen.

SPICY MOLASSES COOKIES

Cream ½ cup softened butter, ½ cup softened shortening and 1 cup sugar until fluffy. Add 1 cup light molasses. Mix well, then add 3 slightly beaten eggs. Sift together 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon and ginger, ½ teaspoon each nutmeg and ground cloves. Stir 1 tablespoon vinegar into 1 cup undiluted evaporated milk. Add dry ingredients alternately with evaporated milk to molasses mixture. Mix well. Stir in 1½ cups raisins and 1 cup chopped nuts. Drop by spoonfuls onto buttered baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 8 or 10 minutes or until golden brown. Cool, then frost with favorite vanilla icing.

Salad with every bite a surprise

A fresh salad with a surprise taste with every bite peps up traditional festive meals. One such is a Mushroom Sukiyaki Salad inspired by the growing interest in Oriental foods. This combines fresh mushrooms, slivered cooked chicken, crisp vegetables and a dressing of salad oil, lemon, soy sauce and ginger. This is a salad for all seasons.

MUSHROOM SUKIYAKI SALAD

½ pound fresh mushrooms
1 pound (2½ cups) slivered, cooked chicken.
1 cup diced Chinese or green cabbage
½ cup shredded carrots
½ cup thinly sliced celery
½ cup bean sprouts, bamboo shoots or sliced water chestnuts
1-3rd cup sliced scallions
2-3rds cup salad oil
¼ cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons imported soy sauce
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground ginger

Rinse, pat dry and slice fresh mushrooms. In a large salad bowl combine mushrooms, chicken, cabbage, carrots, celery, bean sprouts and scallions. Combine remaining ingredients; blend well. Pour over mushroom mixture; toss well. Makes 4 to 5 portions.

DOUBLE HOLIDAY TREAT

Plan ahead to enjoy your own holiday parties. These two dishes can be made ahead and brought out at the last moment for a buffet. To make the Holiday Ambrosia, top, stir 1 cup dairy sour cream until soft and smooth. Fold in 1 cup cream, whipped, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon ginger and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Combine with 3 cups of oranges, pared, cubed and drained, a 1-pound, 4-ounce can pineapple chunks drained, ½ cup flaked coconut and ½ cup miniature marshmallows. Spoon lightly into glass bowl or compote. Garnish as desired with additional orange segments and long-stemmed maraschino cherries. Makes 8 servings. For the Cheese and Vegetable Salad Loaf, combine 2 envelopes plain gelatin, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup dry white wine and 1 teaspoon chicken — seasoned stock base. Stir over medium heat until dissolved. Mix in 1 pint small curd cottage cheese, 1 cup grated carrots, 1 cup grated zucchini, ½ cup grated radishes and ½ cup chopped green onions. Then fold in 1 cup cream, whipped. Turn into a loaf pan or any seven-cup mold. Chill about 3 hours until firm. Unmold onto a tray and garnish with fresh vegetables and salad greens. It's not too late to make fruit cake

Have you been too busy to make a fruit cake for Christmas?

Well, it's not too late if you use this recipe for California Christmas Cake. It needs to stand only a day or two before serving. Rich and moist, it is full of almonds and fruits and has a subtle orange flavor.

if you have a cake dome, use it instead of wrapping the cake so you won't disturb the Rum Syrup glaze; and if you can spare the room in the refrigerator, let the cake rest there. It will be easier to cut chilled.

CALIFORNIA CHRISTMAS CAKE

- 1 cup slivered almonds
- 2½ cups flour (unsifted)
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons grated orange rind
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 2 eggs
- 1½ cups buttermilk
- ½ cup golden seedless raisins
- ½ cup mixed diced candied fruits
- Rum syrup (reccipe follows)

Chop almonds; mix with flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Cream butter with 1 cup sugar; beat in orange and lemon rinds and eggs until blended and smooth. Beat in almond mixture alternately with buttermilk. Beat in raisins and candied fruit. Turn into well-buttered and floured 9-or 10-inch tube pan or any pan or mold that holds at least 3 quarts.

Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour and 10 minutes or until a pick inserted into center comes out dry. Remove from oven and pierce at 1-inch intervals with pick. Slowly pour Rum Syrup into cake in pan. When cool, loosen sides with narrow spatula and remove cake from pan. Place under cake dome or wrap and let stand for 1 or 2 days before serving.

RUM SYRUP: Combine ½ cup sugar, 1-3 cup orange juice and 2 tablespoons lemon juice in saucepan; heat, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Stir in 2 or 3 tablespoons rum or 1 teaspoon rum extract. Makes 12 to 16 slices.

Indian bureau boss sees new power for job

PHOENIX (UPI) — The Interior Department's new commissioner of the Bureau of Indian Affairs says his post has a lot more muscle now to do battle for American Indians.

Commissioner Morris Thompson, an Athabascan Indian from Alaska, said that his interior post was recently elevated to rival an assistant secretaryship, a move he said should give him far more power than previous commissioners.

Thompson, sworn into office two weeks ago, was here to attend the annual National Tribal Chairman's Association.

He promised tribal chiefs that he would consult with Indians throughout the country — among them the militant American Indian Movement leaders — before the agency charted any new course.

"Indians," Thompson said, "have the right to expect an efficient and responsive bureau." And the federal agency, controversial for decades, has a "great opportunity" to finally change its image in the coming years, the commissioner said.

Some tips to follow when choosing a side of beef

Buying a side of beef?

Do you know what to look for? Do you understand beef quality grades, yield grades, and the differences between buying beef in bulk and in the supermarket?

If you're uncertain, here are some tips from the U.S. Department of Agriculture:

— Look for the USDA Quality Grade: Be sure of the eating quality. The USDA quality grade is a good guide. There are eight USDA grades covering the entire range of beef quality — Prime, Choice, Good, Standard, Commercial, Utility, Cutter, and Canner. Federally graded beef will be identified by a red shield-shaped stamp enclosing one of these eight grade names. Not all beef is federally graded, but the first three — Prime, Choice, and Good — are readily available. USDA Prime is the highest quality. USDA Choice is very high in quality and is the one most commonly found in supermarkets. USDA Good is quite satisfactory to most beefeaters.

— Know what you're paying for: Carcass beef is sold by its "hanging weight" meaning you pay for the whole thing, including the fat and bone that is trimmed away when it's cut up. Here's an example:

If you bought a 300-pound side of beef you'd probably receive about 225 pounds of retail cuts to take home, but you would pay for the entire 300 pounds including the 75 pounds of fat and bone that were removed. This makes the actual cost per pound of take-home beef considerably higher than the listed cost per pound. And remember that a side of beef is not all steak. A rule of thumb is that the average carcass or side will yield about 25 per cent steaks, 25 per cent roasts, 25 per cent ground or stewing beef, and 25 per cent waste.

— Look for the USDA yield grade: Some carcasses have much more waste than others — and this is very important in determining their value. To determine about how much waste you'll have to pay for, refer to the USDA yield grade. The highest — Yield Grade 1 — will yield about 80 per cent or more retail cuts to take home, compared to the lowest — Yield Grade 5 — which will yield about 66 per cent or less retail cuts.

Bulk beef buying usually involves a considerable amount of money. Learn all about it before you buy. Write for a single free copy of "How to Buy Meat for Your Freezer" (G-166) to: Office of Communication, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250. Please include your zip code.

Before the lid goes on

When you pick out a can of vegetables at the store, are you ever curious about what work goes into making up that can?

Take asparagus for example. Asparagus is cooled immediately after harvesting even if it is to be canned in just a few hours. The first step in processing is to cut off the tough butt end. Next, the asparagus is put through two washing periods.

And, if a canning plant uses the continuous inspection service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, an Agricultural Marketing Service inspector is on hand through all these steps and more. He checks the quality of the product and the cleanliness of the equipment and the plant.

After the washings, the asparagus is blanched. This means that it is partially cooked, quickly, in boiling water or steam. This is a further cleaning step, and it also softens the asparagus so it is more easily handled in the rest of the processing.

If the asparagus is being packed as cut spears or tips, it is put through a cutting machine. Plant workers sort the asparagus for quality and remove any undesirable pieces.

Whole spears are packed by hand into cans. Cut spears and tips are put into cans on a circular filler. The cans are moved under holes in the filler and the plant worker helps fill the asparagus into the cans.

The cans are then automatically filled with a little hot water and put through a machine that exhausts the air from them. More hot water and a little salt are added, and then the lids are automatically sealed on the cans.

The cans are then placed in a retort, a machine that resembles a large pressure cooker. They are cooked at a high temperature. This is what sterilizes and preserves the product.

After the processing is completed, the USDA inspector takes samples of the various types of asparagus packed so he can certify its quality.

He checks on size, odor, color, taste, degree of tenderness, and freedom from defects. Asparagus can be packed as U.S. Grade C or Standard . . . that's good quality; or U.S. Grade A or Fancy — that's top quality. If you see a can with U.S. Grade A or Fancy on the label, you can be sure that there's high quality under the lid.

MAKE FRIENDS WITH YOUR FREEZER

The ingenious American housewife has found many ways to economize and still provide her family with protein in these days of high meat prices.

Some have substituted other protein-rich food for higher priced meat cuts — or even meat itself.

Substitution, however, is not always a welcome alternative to a family used to eating meat regularly. Many families have turned to home freezers, particularly in recent months, to be able to buy less expensive meats and other foods in quantity, for use in a wider variety of dishes over a longer period of time.

Freezer storage gives the buyer great flexibility. He or she can buy in quantity or when the price is down.

Freezers can be a boon or a bust, depending on how savvy you are in selecting the right freezer, and preparing your food to be frozen properly.

Consumer research publications are a good guide to the selection of a freezer. These magazines are available at most newsstands or public libraries. Remember, select a freezer that's large enough to quick-freeze your food and keep it cold — in the quantity you're likely to use.

Where you put your freezer will have something to do with its ability to keep food cold. Don't place it next to a hot water heater, the furnace, or where the sun can beat on it during the day. Leave enough space so the air can circulate around it to dissipate any heat radiated from the refrigeration coils.

Limit the amount of food you place in a freezer at any one time to the quantity that can be frozen in 24 hours. This usually will amount to two or three pounds per cubic feet of freezer capacity.

Freezing slowly, above 0 degrees Farenheit, impairs the texture and appearance of meats, and they may lose liquids.

Your supplier may wrap and quick-freeze your meat for you. Although the price is certain to be more, this will save you the effort of preparing and wrapping the food for freezing, and you won't have to risk over-loading your freezer during the process.

If your freezer does not have an interior thermometer it's a good idea to buy one. They are inexpensive, and will give you a quick way to check the temperature. You can therefore avoid running your freezer at abnormally low temperatures, using expensive and scarce energy, or keeping it set too high.

Foods selected for freezing should be of good quality and wholesome. If you are really trying to economize, you may want to buy less than the highest or fanciest quality. Remember though, no method of storing will improve the quality of meats and poultry. Freezer storage only increases shelf life — not the quality of the product.

Inspect meats and poultry for freezing with care. All meats sold to the public must be federally or state inspected for wholesomeness. However, meat can become damaged in transit or through bad handling.

U.S. Department of Agriculture grades for beef, veal and lamb are helpful guides to quality. The grading of meat by USDA is purely voluntary — at the discretion of the packer.

If you are buying frozen meat for your freezer, make sure it is hard frozen. Don't take soft packages — their contents may already be deteriorating.

Select your meats just before leaving the store and get them home quickly. Prepare them for the freezer as soon as possible.

Common-sense hygienic practices are good guides to sanitary food preparation. Wear clean clothes . . . wash hands with soap and water thoroughly . . . wash all knives and other utensils. When finished cutting up one package of meat, wash the knives, forks and your cutting surface before starting on another package. This will prevent your cross-contaminating your meat or poultry.

All meat should be wrapped in moisture and vapor proof packaging materials. Aluminum foil is excellent for wrapping irregularly-shaped packages. The objective is to exclude as much air as possible. Air causes oxidation, impairing the appearance, flavor and texture of meats.

Frozen meats can be stored indefinitely, if held at 0 degrees or lower temperatures. Eating quality and nutritive value do change, but very slowly at 0 degrees or below.

Rate of change increases rapidly as the temperature rises. The loss of quality in storage is directly related to the temperature and time food is held above zero.

Meats can be cooked with or without thawing. Starting with a frozen piece of meat does not materially affect it's taste or texture. But, insert a meat thermometer as soon as the meat is softened enough, so you can check on the internal temperatures to know when its properly cooked.

When thawing meats for cooking, thaw in the refrigerator at below 40 degrees to prevent bacterial contamination. Remember, all meats contain some bacteria, and become further contaminated during handling. Freezing and cooking meat at the proper temperatures prevents bacterial growth.

If thawing in the refrigerator is too slow, place the meat in a tightly wrapped waterproof package in cold water or under running old water.

Follow these hints and let your freezer help you save money on frozen meats and poultry.

A cold ride, but fruitful

VALLEY SPRINGS (UPI) — Edwin Smith didn't stop to think about his attire when he tried to prevent a man from stealing his small pickup truck.

Smith, of Sacramento, was ready to retire for the night while visiting friends in this small Calaveras County community when he looked out a window and saw a man trying to drive off in his truck.

Clad only in underwear, Smith ran out of the house and jumped into the bed of the truck as the thief started to drive off. Smith pounded on the cab and yelled, but the thief continued to speed down the highway, authorities said.

For 12 miles Smith shivered in the back of the truck as the man drove in 30-degree weather toward San Andreas.

Finally, the thief saw a highway patrolman, stopped the truck and fled on foot.

Both Smith and the patrolman chased the man through the woods but failed to catch him, authorities reported.

Do appliances add to energy crisis?

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than a third of the 820,000 portable electric dishwashers sold in the United States in 1972 were shipped during the last quarter of the year, in expectation of Christmas business.

While a dishwasher may not be everyone's most cherished Christmas present, portable electric kitchen appliances are a consistently popular gift, says the Associatiation of Home Appliance Manufacturers (AHAM). The trade group estimates that about half of all such articles are sold at this season — ranging from 20 per cent of all blenders to more than 50 per cent of corn poppers, coffee urns, electric knives, hot plates, griddles and fondue units.

How much this contributes to the growing energy crisis is hard to determine. A spokesman for the Chicago trade association said fuel for cooking represents only five per cent of the total energy picture. Home heating and lighting, for instance, use much more. The spokesman also said it's probably more economical to use small appliances than range-top and oven units for many jobs, unless you cook an entire meal in the oven.

On the other hand, devices such as yogurt makers, electric can openers, ice crushers and popcorn poppers are about as essential to most of us as a third hand. Convenient, yes. Necessary, no.

Yogurt is easily made in Mason jars kept warm in inexpensive, insulated picnic bags, or in vacuum bottles.

An electric can opener is a necessity for someone with hand disabilities, but not for the able-bodied.

Ice trays that make chips or cracked ice in an ordinary refrigerator-freezer unit are widely available at a fraction of the cost of electric crushers, whose chief demerit in my book is not so much cost and energy demand as noise pollution.

A pressure cooker with its sealing ring and pressure gauge removed makes an excellent range-top corn popper.

Some electrical gadgets burn less wattage than a standard light bulb but others use 500 or more watts. The cumulative effect of using manual substitutes can help save energy, just as lowered heating thermostats and turned-off light bulbs do.

At the same time, some portable electrical appliances represent economical, useful buys for many households.

A toaster-oven that preheats in two minutes instead of the 10 to 15 minutes required for full-size ovens can roast or bake a casserole for a one or two-member household, make toast, bake or heat small quantities of rolls and cookies.

A blender, like a toaster-oven, is a high-wattage user, but its operating times are so brief that it represents no serious energy drain. In seconds, it can puree cooked vegetables and fruits to make small servings of soup from food that might otherwise be thrown out.

A blender can also puree freshly cooked fruits and vegetables for homemade baby and junior foods before seasoning is added for adult members of the household.

Hollandaise sauce that takes 10 minutes or more to make on a range-top can be blended in a small fraction of that time, with butter quickly premelted.

Homemade blended nut butters often are cheaper than their commercial counterparts and can be made in small quantities to assure freshness.

An electric food grinder can pay for itself quickly in terms of purchase price and operating costs if you use it to grind raw meat instead of buying the ready-ground kind at markets. Its other advantages include absolute control of fat content, and meat blends tailored to your family's tastes. Some grinders have optional salad maker attachments that grate, shred or slice raw fruits and vegetables faster and with greater safety than old-fashioned hand-graters.

The list could go on and on, and the lesson is obvious. Before you choose a portable appliance, ask yourself how it will be used and how often. A portable electric dishwasher is a luxury if you run it with partial loads, says the manufacturers' association. But if it is always fully loaded, the cost of operation in terms of water usage and power to heat the water i sless than is needed to wash the same number of dishes, glassware, cutlery and pots and pans by hand after every meal.

Mom's lucky no traffic on road

CAGLIARI, Italy (UPI) — Police said it was a good thing for Rachelle Marganelli, 37, that she went into labor on Sunday when pleasure driving was banned.

"In normal conditions the baby might well have been born on the trip," said the patrolman who drove Mrs. Marganelli to a hospital in time for her to give birth to a son.

Meat prices drop for fall parties

It is indeed a joy to again see meat cases everywhere filled with a wide selection of beef cuts. The substantial drop in the retail prices of beef happened just in time for the round of fall parties. Many hostesses have come to rely on the great popularity of beef and choose it for the starting point of their menus.

For an appetizing, inexpensive way to serve beef for special occasions, we suggest this flavorful Beef in Green Peppercorn Sauce. Green peppercorns are not to be confused with dried black peppercorns which most everyone uses with a free hand, whole, freshly ground or cracked depending on the dish. The flavorful whole green peppercorns come canned in brine or packed in vinegar in jars. You'll find them in the spice section of gourmet food stores. Green peppercorns have long been used by chefs in famous French restaurants. Cooking connoisseurs know them well, too.

The beef used in this party entree is economical eye of round. It is a lean solid muscle from the bottom round, often cut for steaks and roasts. For this recipe the beef should be sliced very thinly. To make it more tender pound with a mallet to flatten. Then cook very quickly in hot olive oil, remove the beef and deglaze the pan with wine and broth. Add the green peppercorns and the other seasoning. Simmer, thicken a little and the sauce is ready for the beef. Browned small whole potatoes would go well with the beef in green peppercorn sauce. Plan the rest of the menu to fit the occasion.

BEEF IN GREEN PEPPERCORN SAUCE

1 pound beef eye of round, sliced thinly
2 to 3 tablespoons olive oil
½ cup dry red wine
1½ cups beef broth
1 large clove garlic
1 bay leaf
1 tablespoon green peppercorns
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon butter
Salt to taste

Have butcher slice beef very thinly if possible. To slice it yourself, partially freeze beef before slicing. Pound slices between pieces of waxed paper or plastic wrap until flattened. Heat small amount of olive oil in skillet over high heat. Fry beef briefly on both sides, adding small amounts of remaining oil as pan dries out. Remove beef from skillet to plate. Pour wine and all but 2 tablespoons beef broth into skillet. Add garlic, bay leaf and peppercorns. Heat to boiling scraping up drippings. Reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes. Discard garlic clove and bay leaf. Mix cornstarch with remaining beef broth. Add to hot mixture along with butter and stir until sauce is thickened. Return beef and juices to skillet and heat through. Season with salt to taste. Makes 4 servings.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The market's third rally in a row was spurred on by news that the Committee on Interest and Dividends had asked several banks to justify their latest hike in the prime rate and some conciliatory statements by the Saudi Arabian oil minister, according to E.F. Hutton. "The advance not only makes the market turn last week look more sigificant but also suggests that we will get a full technical correction of the steep six weeks 200 point decline," the firm says. Such a correction would carry the market back to the 890 area of the Dow Industrial Average, it adds.

Scripps helps train women as managers

CLAREMONT — Scripps College is one of 16 throughout the nation participating in a new two-year program of administrative internships for young women in college and university administration.

The program, funded by a $290,000 Carnegie Corp. grant and administered by Cedar Crest College, Allentown, Pa., is designed to provide a pool of trained women administrators for colleges and universities. One or two graduates under age 30 from each of the 16 institutions will be assigned, following a 15-day workshop, to work directly with a senior administrator at a cooperating college.

Upon completing the internship, the women will be assisted in seeking positions or further training by a placement service. They will also be included in professional rosters and their availability will be advertised in appropriate academic media.

DMV advice

Store extra car or pay registration fee

Families owning two or three vehicles who plan to store one during the energy crisis should have those automobiles off public streets by Dec. 31.

Otherwise, these vehicles will have to be registered for 1974, aid Robert Cozens, director of the state Department of Motor Vehicles.

Many persons have the erroneous impression their present auto registrations are good until the Feb. 1 deadline, he added.

"But this is just not the case. Our registrations are actually on a calendar year basis, due and payable on Jan. 1. The extra month is simply a kind of grace period."

Any vehicle parked on a public street is subject to a registration fee, even if it isn't driven, he said. Stored vehicles should be put on blocks to preserve tires and battery cable disconnected.

Blood donation role spotlighted

A domumentary on the blood donor program in Southern California will be presented on Medix, Channel 2, Sunday at 1 p.m., after the football game.

The prgram, originally scheduled on Nov. 25, was pre-empted by President Nixon's talk on the energy crisis.

The program demonstrates the protection provided the public by the blood program. It will illustrate the collection, processing and distribution of blood.

Erma Bombeck

I was retrieving a week's supply of underwear from under my son's bed the other morning when my husband admonished. "How old does a boy have to be before he begins picking up his own clothes?"

"Thirty five?" I asked.

"This isn't a quiz," he said angrily. "It's an indictment against our children and you!"

"How did I get into this?" I asked.

"Because you're not firm. Given two weeks, I could have these kids leaving their rooms like the foyer of a model home."

"How?" I panted.

"It's very simple. Every time I see something on the floor, I hide it. When they finally run out of clothes, they come to me and ask where it is, and that's when I lay it on them. From here on in anything that isn't picked up and deposited where it belongs, disappears."

The first few days weren't bad, but by the end of the week the entire house was in chaos.

When the younger son found his gym clothes in the desk drawer and his jacket under the cushion of the sofa, he immediately assumed it was the work of his brother and retaliated by hiding his tennis shoes on top of the hot water heater and his books in the mailbox.

Their sister, upon finding a pair of trousers under her waterbed, reciprocated by hiding a record album under the bookcase and a basketball in the clothes hamper.

They in turn hid her billfold in the tea canister and her gloves in the woodbox.

Things came to a head one night when I reached out to pick up my needlepoint and it wasn't there.

"You shouldn't leave things laying around," said my son.

"Just hold it," I shouted. "It wasn't my dumb game, but if that's the way you want to play it . . . " (I hid his bicycle lock in the oven.)

By the beginning of the second week, the entire house was paralyzed. No one could go to school because they couldn't find books or leave the house because there was nothing clean to wear. My Car keys had been gone for four days.

We approached my husband as a group. "We give up," we said. "From here on in, we're reformed. We pick up everything and when it is dirty, we put it in the clothes hamper. What's the matter?"

"My car was towed away today," he said numbly. "It was illegally parked."

The last time I saw a look like that on a face, we rubbed the puppy's nose in it and put him outside.

Appeals expected to delay execution of three blacks

TARBORO, N.C. (UPI) — The lengthy appeals process is expected to postpone the executions scheduled next month of three blacks found guilty of raping a white woman.

Defense attorneys for the three defendants said Monday they plan to begin appeal procedures, and a state Supreme Court official said the process could take months.

In an unusual Sunday court session, Vernon L. Brown, 22, Bobby Hines, 23, and Jesse Lee Walston, 23, were found guilty of raping Deborah Tostoe early on the morning of Aug. 5.

Superior Court Judge John Webb pronounced the mandatory death sentence, bringing to 18 the number of persons facing the death penalty in North Carolina.

During the trial each of the defendants said they had sexual relations with the woman, but said she consented. Miss Tostoe, as a prosecution witness, denied she had consented to the act, saying she had feared for her life.

The last execution in North Carolina was in 1961.

Cal Poly seminar on economic situation set

POMONA — Phase IV, an overview of the economic situation today, will be discussed by Dr. Marvin Kosters, counselor to the chairman, Cost of Living Council, and Peter Schabarum, chairman of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, at a seminar Dec. 18, at Cal Poly's Kellogg West.

Barry Rans, chief of statistical division of Interanl Revenue Services; and William Henderson, comptroller of Cinch-Graphik, will also speak on the effectiveness and results of Phase IV price regulations.

Area businessmen and women will have an opportunity to discuss individual problems with IRS representatives in workshops covering wholesale-retail and manufacturing-services operations and the petroleum and construction industries. A special session covering Phase IV forms and reporting procedures will be conducted by IRS personnel.

The seminar is scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. A $15 registration fee includes materials, parking and luncheon. Interested persons may register by calling 595-7511, ext. 271.

Klassen vows all Yule mail to be moved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postmaster General E. T. Klassen, pledged Friday that all Christmas mail will move out of the post offices and their bins will be empty at quitting time on Christmas Eve despite growing problems caused by fuel shortages.

"We don't plan to get caught like we did last year," Klassen said at a news conference. "We are committed that on Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, our post offices will be free of mail."

Klaassen said that meant there may be late mail in the "pipelines" but there will be none left behind in the post offices themselves.

'74 car sales? how do we handle crisis?

DETROIT (UPI) — Confusion over the energy crisis and uncertain economic conditions could push new car sales down as much as 12 per cent in 1974, General Motors Chairman Richard C. Gersstenberg said today.

In a year-end statement in which he predicted sales may drop as low as 10 million U.S. and foreign cars from this year's record 11.5 million, Gerstenberg urged the Nixon Administration to "fashion a coherent and realistic national energy policy."

"With uncertainty about the duration and economic impact of the (oil) embargo it is hardly surprising that the consumer is confused and is likely to be confused until our government establishes clear cut policy directions to meet this emergency," Gerstenberg said.

The confusion already has sent sales of new cars slipping, especially the larger models. Sales were off nearly 13 per cent in November as automakers found themselves unable to meet demand for small models. About 200,000 auto workers face layoffs before and after Christmas because of the slump.

To meet the increased demand, Gerstenberg announced two more assembly plants are being converted to production of small cars in addition to four which are being changed over by Jan. 1. The first West Coast production of the subcompact Vega will begin at the Van Nuys, Calif., assembly plant next July as will production of compact Novas, Venturas and Omegas at the GM plant at Tarrytown, N.Y.

Car sales this year will be about 11.5 million, 5 per cent over last year's record, but below the 11.8 million cars expected earlier. Sales next year could end up between 10 and 10.5 million cars, Gerstenberg said.

Truck sales will continue strong in 1974 with total sales of 3 million trucks almost equaling this year's record 3.2 million, he said.

"This would be a good year for the industry by most standards—above sales in any year prior to 1972—although clearly not a record year," Gerstenberg said. "Once adequate guidelines have been established—guidelines that the American consumer understands—we are convinced that our economy will adjust and resume its forward momentum."

Coffee break

Louisiana claims the popular tradition of the American coffee break originated in New Orleans over 40 years ago when a major importer began the Brazilian custom of allowing employes a few minutes off each morning and afternoon to sip a cup of coffee.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may feel lucky where chance is concerned, but optimism isn't justified. It's not your day for what appears to be a sure thing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try not to boast when talking to others about your family or possessions. You'll impress them but not the way you'd like to.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today you'll be tempted to make hasty decisions. They'll not represent your best thinking. Errors will result. Be factual in what you commit to paper.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You must be very cautious at this time if handling someone else's money or goods. Misuse could have legal complications.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll base important decision today upon the way you'd like things to be, rather than the way they are. Be more realistic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're susceptible to flattery. Someone who wants something knows this. He'll use it as a tool to manipulate your generosity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're likely to devote far too much time today to less-productive interests. Later you'll race to catch up on what you should have done.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today you'll feel a need to exaggerate a bit to justify your position because one you want to impress makes you feel insecure. Be yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Screen any advice you get from others very carefully. Someone has some big ideas for you. They won't serve your needs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't court embarrassment today by asking to borrow something you could be turned down on. Make do with what you have.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your generosity will get out of hand today. You'll wonder why you made such a lopsided bargain. Let the other guy make some concessions.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This will be one of those days when you'll want to sweep work that should be done now under the rug till later.

Your Birthday Dec. 13

This will be a restless year, with more travel and new contacts than usual. Before it's over, many of your views will have altered considerably.

Crime spree sends bowler down gutter

FOSTER CITY (UPI) — A bowling buff who turned to burglarizing other bowlers during their nights out was shot to death by police, officials said Wednesday.

Charles W. Tibbets 23 who police said maintained an average of 187 at a local alley was shot when he tried to flee a police stakeout after burglarizing the home of a bowler here.

Officers said Tibbets a medical orderly had a list of 50 families, all bowlers, and that 23 names had been crossed off the list. It showed what nights they bowled they said.

Officers said they found $5-000 in cash and checks in Tibbets' home. Police said it had been looted from the homes of several bowlers.

Russ testing natural gas automobiles

MOSCOW (UPI) — Five experimental vehicles using natural gas instead of gasoline are being tested on Moscow streets, the Tass news agency said Saturday.

Engineers found them reliable and needing only "insignificant" adjustments, Tass said in reporting initial results.

The vehicles, manufactured at the Gorky auto works, are similar to automobiles, except their fuel tanks are replaced by a cylinder with liquefied gas.

The advantage of the natural gas vehicles is that they do not pollute the air and are cheap to operate.

The first natural gas vehicles were tested in the 1930s, but they were crude and at the time there was a shortage of natural gas, Tass said.

The Soviet Union has large gas deposits in Siberia and Central Asia.

By 1976, Moscow will have about 35,000 natural gas cars, trucks, buses and taxis operating on its streets, Tass said.

Improving the environment has also prompted development of electric vehicles, the agency said. Already being tested is a minibus seating seven passengers capable of a top speed of 50 miles per hour.

Tass said the electric vehicle is still in the distant future while the natural gas vehicle is in the near future. Planners are preparing for mass production, Tass said.

Crisis is only one-way street

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — Supervisor James Mayfield, 32, mindful of the energy crisis, pedalled a bicycle almost 60 miles from Apple Valley to attend a recent meeting of the county board of supervisors.

Supervisor Dennis Hansberger arrived in a horse drawn carriage, covering 20 miles from Yucaipa.

But after the meeting, they both went home by car.

Treatment of GI addicts criticized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A leading House proponent of mandatory treatment for drug addicted veterans said today the government has "callously disregarded" the needs of returning drug casualties, causing a "national disgrace."

Basing his comments on a 90 page General Accounting Office (GAO) study he requested, Rep. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., said he would propose legislation to rectify the problem, since administration plans for handling G.I. addicts have ranged from "ineffective to disastrous."

His legislative proposals, he said, would include, when necessary, mandatory civil commitment of drug-addicted servicemen to a federal program of treatment for up to 42 months of medical aid and rehabilitation.

Murphy said because there was no effort to rehabilitate or treat service-connected drug addiction, veterans returning from Vietnam and other parts of the world are unable to get jobs, promotions, education, or licenses to practice a trade.

He also said that, "most tragic of all, many of these men who fought honorably in the war in Southeast Asia are unable to discontinue drug use because they are unable to find any treatment at all."

"The administration wanted to give them 24 days of detoxification and get them out of the Army," he said. "All this accomplished was to enable the addict to support a state-side habit."

Murphy said the military's program to review drugconnected discharges for possible recharacterization was a "worthy goal," but the GAO report showed the program "is severly deficient."

New legislation is "sorely needed," Murphy said, because, "the problem of military addiction cannot be solved by quietly slipping a detoxed serviceman back onto the streets and alleys of our cities. It hasn't worked and it won't work."

Rudolph is very popular

New satellite will dip into atmosphere

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Space agency plans to launch a new type Explorer satellite late Thursday that will swoop in and out of the upper fringes of earth's atmosphere on command from ground control stations.

The 1,450-pound spacecraft will spend a few days at a time in an orbit coming within 72 miles of the earth to study the atmospheric regions where interaction with energy from the sun has a key role in earth's weather.

The satellite is to be launched at 10:13 p.m. PST from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., into an initial orbit ranging from 93 to 2,580 miles high. After a few weeks, small rockets aboard the satellite will drop its orbit to as low as 72 miles high.

The Explorer cannot stay that low for more than few days because of high heating from air friction, and because the draft of the atmosphere would slow it so it would gradually drop deeper into the atmosphere. The rockets will then raise it to a higher orbit. The dips will be repeated several times.

LANCASTER, Calif. (UPI) — It may not be true that you can't go home again but at the very least it's good advice for an escaped convict.

Robert Aden, a convicted burglar, escaped five weeks ago from the Mira Loma Detention Center's honor farm. He appeared at the center Sunday night, using a fictitious name, to visit an inmate friend. An alert deputy recognized Aden and quickly returned him to the other side of the bars.

Oil pinch puts Tokyo Jews in middle

Businessmen accept new pro-Arab policy

TOKYO (UPI) — The Jewish business community in Tokyo is reacting calmly to Japan's recent shift to a pro-Arab policy.

Approximately 450 Jews live in Tokyo and half of them are in the import-export business, but none seems to be considering retaliatory action against Japanese exporters because of the shift in government policy.

The change was outlined Nov. 22 in an official statement by Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka. It urged Israel to withdraw from all Arab territories occupied during the 1967 Six-day war and warned that Japan "would have to reconsider" its relations with Jerusalem if the Israelis did not comply.

"I feel the Japanese are between the devil and the deep blue sea and have no option," said one Jewish metals trader.

"I sympathize with them. Their oil supply is infinitely more important to them than their tiny trade with Israel. It is not an anti-Israeli step. If they don't obey they can't do any business with us anyway because they won't have any oil."

The Jewish community of Japan, in keeping with its lowkey attitude, decided at a meeting not to issue any statements on Japan's new businessmen contacted by UPI asked that they not be quoted by name.

"As residents here we are limited," one importer said.

Another metals trader remarked "the Japanese have a serious problem and they are handling it in a very Japanese way—overreaction to extremities because of inability to project long term, which is a national characteristic."

"But," he said, "the Jewish Community in Japan is an infinitessimably small dot in world trade. Our feelings have no influence, power or leverage."

A Jewish auto and electronics exporter, also requesting anonymity, said, "I think that the effect of the policy shift will be relatively minor on exports, although imports could be affected."

He said the Jewish community "is not a cohesive body. They are mostly agents for principals abroad or controlled by home offices. If the whole Jewish community in Tokyo got together and ballyhooed, there's not a single thing they could do."

Asked if he thought his firm would stop trading with Japan if Tokyo broke diplomatic relations with Israel, one exporter said:

"Not really. We are tied to Japan in so many ways, we've been here a long time. The Japanese have no love for the Arabs, you know. Actually, Japan has a lot more in common with Israel politically and culturally."

European summit floating on oil

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

COPENHAGEN (UPI) Nine worried men will sit down for a "fireside summit" in this Scandinavian capital this week to try to save the dream of European unity.

The summit on Dec. 14-15 will bring together the presidents or prime ministers of the nine European Common Market nations. At the top of their agenda will be oil and how to get it without ransoming Europe as an independent power.

Or rather it would be at the top of the agenda if they had an agenda.

The leaders have billed this summit as a "fireside chat" and have dispensed with such trappings as agendas, communiques and position papers— all in an attempt to avoid being pressured into making decisions.

They already have been criticized by politicians and newspapers who feel some hard decisions are needed. But the last European summit meeting —in Paris last year—took too many decisions and Europe has spent the past year trying unsuccesfully to live up to it.

That summit proclaimed the target of a "European union" by 1980. Toward this end, it ordered the Common Market to come up with an energy policy, a social policy, a scientific policy and an industrial policy by the end of this year. As it stood then, the Common Market was only a customs union with a much-criticized agricultural policy. No more.

Bureaucratic infighting after the admission of Britian, Ireland and Denmark to Common Market membership took up the first third of the year. Successive crises over money, inflation, food shortages and oil deflected other planning.

In the end, all the policies that were to have been in place by now either did not get done, or were erected in name only, with no meat on their bones.

Even the centerpiece of Europe's economic unity—the transition at year's end from the first of the second stage of economic and monetary union— has foundered on the year-long monetary upheavals and has been postponed in fact, if not in name.

In October, the oil crisis rolled into this embarrassing situation. Its arrival provided the first external challenge to European unity. In the eyes of many critics, Europe flunked.

After the Middle East war, the Arabs cut back oil production to all European countries and embargoed Holland entirely, to punish the Dutch for earlier pro-Israeli statements.

Alarmed, the nine Common Market countries responded with their first major exercise in coordinated foreign policy—a statement tilting heavily toward the Arab side.

The Arabs eased the cutbacks to eight Common Market nations, but maintained the embargo on Holland. The Dutch, facing an oil drought, pleaded for oil-sharing or some other form of solidarity but their partners refused.

The Times of London accused the eight of helping the Arab world boycott one of their own allies. West German Chancellor Willy Brandt said that, unless the Common Market nations come to Holland's aid, "Europe is nothing."

The leaders also will issue a declaration on "Europe's identity,' the values and beliefs on which the Common Market is based.

But unless the issue of solidarity with Holland is settled, the declaration may be an ironic exercise that will have little effect on an increasingly skeptical European public.

Another summit topic is Europe's relations with the United States. Oil has badly complicated that relationship, too, and an "Atlantic Charter" which Europe and the United States have been writing is hanging fire.

The summit meeting was suggested by French President Georges Pompidou as a means to frame a European policy toward the Middle East so strong that it cannot be ignored in the peace talks. Pompidou acted after the superpowers, Israel and the Arabs behaved during the war as though Europe did not exist.

The summit will be held at the Bella Center, a sprawling, modern exhibition hall, in Copenhagen because Denmark is the current chairman of the Common Market's ministerial council.

Essential minerals in short supply

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. Geological Survey reports that in addition to the nation's other shortages many minerals that are essential to industry are also in short supply.

In critically short supply are ores of aluminum, chroium, manganese, mercury, silver, tungsten, asbestos and nickel. Joining the critical list soon will be lead, zinc, titanium, uranium, barite and high quality clays.

Drawing doctor says, art will give peace of mind

By RALPH NOVAK

WARWICK, N.Y. (NEA) — Frederick Franck possesses a talent that is rare in the boom and rattle of modern society: he knows how to find peace of mind.

For instance, he says, when he first heard of the outbreak of the recent Mideast war, he was stunned.

"I am allergic to war anywhere and this made me feel almost suicidal," he recalls. "But I went for a walk to a field near my home and I began to draw. I began to draw grass, nothing more. But to draw it I had to look at it and soon I began to see everything more clearly again."

Franck, a Holland-born 67-year-old doctor, dentist and artist, is no escapist. He worked for three years as an oral surgeon with Dr. Albert Schweitzer's hospital in Gabon, he is the author of 15 books and his art is displayed in more than 20 museums around the world.

"Art is subersive," he says. "Through art you can get outside yourself and really get to know something. And it is very hard to destroy something you have drawn and come to know."

Frankc settled in Warwick 10 years ago, rebuilding an old hotel and grist mill into his present home and a small, nonsectarian meditating chapel he calls "a sacred space." The chapel, named "Pacem in Terris" after the second Vatican council, is also used for plays and concerts and is the tourist attraction in this calm, wooded town about an hour's drive from New York City.

Franck himself now spends most of his time writing and drawing and has just published a book, "The Zen of Seeing: Seeing-Drawing as Meditation."

"'I have learned," he writes, "that what I have not drawn I have never really seen, and that when I start drawing an ordinary thing I realize how extraordinary it is, sheer miracle: the branching of a tree, the structure of a dandelion's seed puff 'mouse is miracle enough to stagger sextillions of indidel's,' says Walt Whitman."

"While drawing a rock I learn nothing 'about' rocks but let this particular rock reveal its rockeyness. While drawing grasses I learn nothing 'about' grass, but wake up to the wonder of this grass and its growing, to the wonder that there is grass at all."

Franck concedes that 220 million Americans could not, say, solve the energy crisis by sitting down nsemble to draw petroleum, but he argues that the drawing itself makes people better able to understand and cope with their own reactions. And, he adds, what and how well you draw is irrelevant.

Hits the four-whee-drive circuit

Moscone campaign underway

By CARL INGRAM

PLACERVILLE (UPI) — Sen. George Moscone offered his hand to the leathery oldtimer on Main Street and introduced himself as a candidate for governor.

"You're the one who wants to take guns away," the man said.

"No, that's Joe Alioto," Moscone replied. "I don't want to interfere with people's rights to go hunting or have gun collections. I'm against the 'Saturday night special.'"

Stuffing his hands into bib overalls, the man tartly told Moscone, "I won't support anybody who wants to take our firearms away, and I'll tell you that for sure."

"Nice to talk to you, sir," the lawmaker responded, turning to another passerby, offering his hand and announcing, "I'm Senator Moscone and I'm running for governor."

George Moscone, urbane 44-year-old liberal Democrat from San Francisco, was prospecting for votes in the fiercely independent and politically conservative California Motherlode.

He visited the sparsely populated communities of the Gold Rush country in a fourwheel drive vehicle as part of a border-to-border 2,500 mile preprimary campaign tour of California.

Moscone, running fourth in a recent public opinion poll in a field of seven Democratic gubernatorial contenders, started Nov. 26 in the tiny Siskiyou County community of Hilt and plans to finish Dec. 15 at San Ysidro on the Mexican border.

While other gubernatorial hopefuls are concentrating their campaigns in major metropolitan areas such as Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco and Sacramento, Moscone headed into the back country with only occasional campaign runs into the cities.

He intends to campaign hard in the cities after the first of the year, but n the meantime is on what he calls a "listening" journey through rural areas where gubernatorial contenders seldom venture.

"People up north, they really feel government doesn't exist for them except for their longtime district representatives in the legislature," Moscone said as his borrowed four-wheel drive truck pushed deeper into the Motherlode.

Moscone, leaning to wave at a passing Highway Patrolman, explained to his passengers, "These people have to know you care. You have to make yourself available and let them speak at you. There has to be the picture of a complete candidate and not of a political strategist."

At Sutter Creek, he was greeted by Mayor Frank Benjamin and City Clerk Bob Grover who colunteered to newsmen that they were "tickled to death" with the state's new conflict-of-interest law sponsored by Moscone.

Then the campaign moved to a lumber will employing about 500 workers and more hand shaking with hardhat employes. Several told Moscone they had seen him on television.

As the contender moved from one hand to another, Leonard Randolph, who works in a plywood shop, told newsmen, "The only thing I've got against him is he is on the wrong side of capital punishment. I think if a fella has done something wrong, he should pay for it."

Later, Moscone, who opposes the death penalty, said he had "no real problem" with the capital punishment issue during the tour. "I just tell people I don't believe in killing people. I say some people ought never to get out. A Manson ought never to get out," he said.

At the Preston School of Industry near lone, a stateoperated reform school, Moscone met with California Youth Authority staff members for an hour and a half on budget issues, problems, and then headed into Jackson, a once roaring gold camp where prostitution lingered longest.

At the Wells Fargo Bar, the piano player broke into "I Left My Heart in San Francisco," and somebody goodnaturedly called out, "Who is that Republican?"

Crooked tail often heritage from mom

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Orpheus has a very bad bend in his tail near the tip. Would it be better to have the tip of the tail cut off even though it doesn't seem to bother him? Orpheus had a Siamese mother and has never been bothered by that tail since he was a kitten as far as we know. But if it is better to chop it off, we'll chop it off. Whatever you say.—T.A.

Dear T.A.: Such tail tip idiosyncracies are particularly common in Siamese or part-Siamese kittens. Trimming these twisted tail tips is seldom necessary or advisable when it is a hereditary defect. Fractured tails frequently require amputation, however, as they are more likely to cause severe interference with the circulation to that portion of the appendage beyond the fracture.

DEAR DR. MILLER: It is kind of a shock to see how attached my mother is to our new puppy. She never liked dogs before. She has suddenly become an authority on dog raising and insists that I should be giving this pup the most expensive canned dog food. It is a straight meat thing. She says she will even pay the difference between that and the cost of the puppy meal I am now giving. Is there any reason why we should switch to that when Ms. P is doing so well on the meal? She eats it well, elimination if perfect (and plentiful) and she looks very healthy.—G.J.

Dear G.J.: Ms. P's performance to date indicates her present diet agrees with her. Her own veterinarian is the one to make specific recommendations concerning diet change though he would probably agree with me that none is indicated. Puppies on the "all meat" food may frequently suffer from indigestion and weight loss which is primarily due to the inability of a puppy's digestive tract to handle such a diet properly.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Malcolm, our myna bird, has bad breath. Assuming bad teeth aren't causing the problem, what's left?—F.Y.

Dear F.Y.: It's a mighty safe assumption Malcolm myna is without teeth or problems related thereto. Most likely cause for his halitosis would be a localized infection in his mouth, sinuses, or throat. A local bird-oriented veterinarian is the one to cure the problem—and clear the air.

Natural gas shortage? incredible

NEW YORK :UPI) — Proved reserves of natural gas in the 50 United States dropped during 1972 for the fourth time in the last five years, the American Gas Association reported.

At year-end in 1972, reserves were estimated at 266.1 trillion cubic feet, a decline of 4.6 per cent from 278.8 trillion cubic feet at the close of 1971, the Association said.

In 1970, reserves posted a gain as the result of 26 trillion cubic feet of new gas found in Alaska's North Slope, it added.

Catering course to be offered at Cal Poly

POMONA—Catering management, part of Cal Poly's hotel and restaurant mangement program, will be offered for the first time by the university during winter quarter of classes beginning Wednesday, Jan. 2. This is the first time this course has been offered by a four-year California university.

Jack Travis, food and beverage director of the university's Kellogg West center for continuing education, said the combination lecture and lab course will offer students classroom exposre to practical problems.

Due to the uniqueness of the course, Travis said he had to structure it himself completely from top to bottom. The course will deal with all aspects of catering service, from fast food dining to formal banquet dining procedures.

"You definitely need a checklist when you're catering," said Travis. "First you have to determine what a client wants, then you deal with all the practical problems. You must consider the type of group you're serving, the price range the type of food desired, what type of preparation is requested, and the facilities you have to work with."

He feels that the university provides an abundance of facilities presenting practical catering situations. The class will observe and participate in preparations at Los Olivos Commons (the six residence complex dining hall), Campus Center (dining area for commuter students, primarily fast food service) and Kellogg West (formal dining area for conferences and meetings and a coffee shop).

Noting that students will be directly involved in catering procedure, Travis said they will "get into both the manufacturing and creative end to it. We'll work with airplane catering, mobile catering and all tthe newest advances in the field."

Woman has last words in fight over her name

ROSEVILLE, Mich. (UPI) — Mrs. Pamela Lutz of Roseville wanted to use her maiden name, McCabe, as the middle name of her driver's license, but the state stuck by the law and insisted she go by "Pamela Jean Lutz."

Mrs. Lutz retaliated.

A spokesman for the Secretary of State's office said she didn't do anything illegal but she might have some trouble cashing a check.

She signed the license "Donald Duck."

$565,000 grant to aid drug program

By TONY AULT
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — More than half a million dollars recently granted the West End Drug Abuse Control Coordinating Council, Inc. (WEDAC) by the National Insitute of Mental Health will greatly expand the drug rehabilitation services available to West End residents.

Joseph Espinoza, executive director of WEDAC, a nonprofit corporation, said the $565,000 received Dec. 1 will fund the drug rehabilitation and after-care programs, which include "Straight Ahead," "Reach Out West End," Jerico House, La Casa De Fe, "Project Social Action" (PAS), and the Chino council of Social Services. It will allow WEDAC to extend aid to nearly 1,400 persons addicted to or otherwise adversely affected by the habitual use of dangerous drugs.

The six drug rehabilitation and after-care programs contracting with WEDAC are aiding 103 West End addicts and drug abusers in their attempts to break the habit and become productive citizens.

Espinoza said the grant was obtained by promising the National Insitiue of Health, under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), that WEDAC and its contracting agencies would provide a matching amount of money through "in-kind" services to addicts and drug abusers, believed to total more than 10,000 in West End.

WEDAC itself, governed by a community-elected board of directors, will provide contact and intake services for the six West End drug rehabilitation programs and administer the mental health grant. The cost of administration is estimated at $69,368 over a 12-month period.

Drug addicts or drug abusers seeking help in breaking their habits may go to WEDAC offices at 309 N. Euclid Ave. in Ontario. They will be interviewed by counselors and referred to the program that would be most beneficial to them. Addicts or drug abusers are informed of WEDAC's services in hospital's prisons and jails, said Espinoza.

Those needing help may also visit any of the contracting rehabilitation program offices for counseling, particultry PAS at 869½ E. Foothill Blvd., Upland and the Chino Council for Social Services at 5219 D St. in Chino.

Directors of the six drug rehabilitation and after care programs in West End recently explained the functions of each program.

John Bowler, director of the "Straight Ahead" program, said it will be able to provide 10 detoxification beds and 30 residential beds at the center in the old Casa Blanca Hotel in Ontario with its share of the grant to total $87,808. The program usually begins with the addict being placed in a detoxification bed in virtual isolation for approximately eight days until he can stablize his condition.

The person later moves into the residential center for 30 days under the strict supervision by trained counselors who give him a battery of psyhcological, vocational and academic tests. In that period he will receive both group and individual counseling that hopefully will make him aware of his particular problem, regain his self-respect, and reduce his physical and psychological need for drugs. He will not be permitted to go outside of the center.

After the first 30 days, center counselors will aid the individual in finding employment in the community. He will continue to attend group counseling sessions in the evenings. Finally, after about 60 days he will be permitted to leave the center to find housing. He may return to the center for further counseling or crisis intervention whenever he feels the need, said Bowler.

Al Hutton, executive director of Reach Out West End, said his program is directed towards the younger drug addict or drug abuser. He operates a 25-bed residential center.

The residential program includes group and individual counseling, restricted group activities and family counseling. Youths are generally restricted to center activites for the first 30 days, and later allowed to live at home and return to work or school with evening group counseling sessions.

Reach Out West End also provides services to the contact, intake and after care programs of WEDAC through its walk-in center at 404 W. D St. in Ontario. Reach Out West End is budgeted for $63,566 for both the residential and walk-in programs.

Sonny Navarro, director of Jerico House at 5151 F St., Chino, said its $34,010 share of the grant will help them expand their "crisis center" for "hard core" drug addict on probation from jails and prison, and may allow extension of services to other individuals in trouble with drugs. Jerico House has 12 beds available. Persons at Jerico House participate in group and individual counseling, religious services and Bible study to help them get off and stay off drugs and to maintain employment.

David Scott, director of La Casa De Fe, "The House of Faith," said its portion of the grant, totalling $51,236, will help maintain the residential center in Ontario that includes stabilization, group and individual counseling and vocational training. Some women at the center are employed and have means to pay for part of their room and board.

Gustavo Ramos Jr., director of PAS, said its part of the grant totals $38,818 will aid in their after care and crisis intervention program. After care centers specialize in finding housing and employment for ex-addicts.

The Chino Council for Social Services, according to director Pat Schaarsmith helps the ex-addict find employment and housing in the Chino area and provide crisis intervention. It has been budgeted $28,368.

Espinoza said that the health institute grant provides only a part of total funding needed to maintain the various programs. Private donations are still needed.

A child is waiting

2 brothers need an understanding family

By CHARLOTTE LOBB

The family that adopts Tim and Kevin will add a Little League infielder and a Boy Scout enthusiast to their household.

Tim, 11 is the more competitive brother. He enjoys sports of all kinds.

He often displays his mechanical aptitudes by taking apart his bicycle and interchanging parts for unusual combinations.

Tim's low self esteem does not help his school work where he is enrolled in Educationally Handicapped classes. His adoptive family will have to help him to understand his own value as a person.

Kevin, 9, prefers camping and scouting activities to competitive sports. His school work is average.

Both boys are easy to get along with and are not behavior problems. Kevin is more apt to reach out for parental affection than is Tim.

The adoptive family should be experience with children so that they can appreciate both the boys' differences and their similarities.

"The boys, particulary Tim, will probably test a new family with defiant behavior," says their social worker. "The mother should not expect a close relationship from the boys at first. Both parents should be able to accept the academic limitations of their new sons."

To add variety to your family's life call the Department of Adoptions, Margaret Sikkens, 338-8461 x 271.

Food shortage 'scare story,' claims Butz

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz labeled testimony before a Senate hearing which predicted food shortages for Americans a "scare story" from a highly political organization.

Butz said persons who foresee such shortages and claim they will result because farmers are not making a profit do not understand basic economics.

The Hoosier native criticized testimony before the subcommittee hearing during a news conference and the 55th annual convention of the Indiana Farm Bureau.

Butz labeled the group foreseeing shortages—The Food Action Campaign—as a "highly political organization" and called John Hightower, its coordinator, "the Ralph Nader of agriculture."

"If you read his statement, he was taking off on the profit structure in agribusiness and attacking profits. This morning he said the reason we are short of petroleum is because the petroleum companies are making profits.

"Nothing is further from the truth," he added. "It takes profits to get investment. By the same token, he was inferring that because large farmers and agribusiness concerns are making profits we are headed for a food shortage. Again, nothing is further from the truth."

Inventory helpful for insurance

NEW YORK (UPI) — You don't expect disaster to strike but you have insurance for losses from same — just in case. But do you have an inventory of what is in your house?

You should have in inventory of all property, written down and complete with photos to help in the event of a loss, says Georgia Skinker, extension family economics and management specialist, University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Keep the inventory in a fireproof place, perhaps a safety deposit box.

Top schools listed in new study

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a major new study of the nation's 1,180 professional schools, released by Change Magazine, the top five schools in each of the 17 professions are ranked for the first time.

Of the 85 schools cited as top-rank, the four leading universities with the largest number of outstanding professional schools are the University of Chicago, Columbia, Harvard and the University of Michigan. Harvard was cited seven times out of 17 professions studied, and the University of Chicago, six out of 17. Change is an education journal. The study it published was done by two Columbia University sociolcgists, Rebecca Zames Margulies and Peter M. Blau. Prof. Blau is a nationally known authority on organizational structures and currently is president of the American Sociological Association.

Expect to 'scramble' for gas, says oilman

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Gasoline rationing or "scrambling" for fuel will face motorists soon, Union Oil vice president John M. Hopkins said recently.

The motorist will pay more and get less gasoline, he said.

"One of two things will happen," Hopkins said. "One, we'll have rationing, with the coupon books, like in World War II, or two, very severe allocation procedures will be instituted, and drivers can scramble for what gas they can get," Hopkins said.

John R. McMillan, who joined Hopkins in outlining the energy situation for business and industrial leaders, predicted, "It's going to get worse before it gets better."

McMillan, president of the Western Oil and Gas Association, said the west coast's supply outlook had worsened.

"We thought we would only be 14 per cent short on the west coast, compared to 17 per cent for the rest of the country, but information I saw a couple days ago now indicates we'll be 17 per cent short here too," he said.

He noted Congress was considering a plan to require that areas with fuel surpluses transfer stocks to hard-hit areas.

MacMillan also said domestic producers were drilling around the clock in efforts to ease the crunch.

"Every rig in the country is busy now," he said. "You can't get a rig. You have to wait your turn. You can't get casing. You have to wait your turn."

Fixing the pipe

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Man and boy I have smoked a pipe for more than 30 years, so naturally I was titillated to learn from Dr. Eleanor Criswell of Sonoma State College, that women consider pipe-smokers sexy.

In the innocence of my youth (I was through puberty before I knew what it was) I had bought my first pipe with, I suppose, some curiosity as to what it was like to smoke one, as well as a notion that it would make me look more mature. (I didn't shave until I went in the Army.) But the thought of increasing my sex-appeal, such as it was, never crossed my mind. Or did it (I was a very young man.)

Dr. Criswell, at the behest of a pipe manufacturing firm, conducted a survey to find out why more and more women are buying pipes for their husbands and boyfriends. A majority of the Ms types reported that a pipe enhanced the male image as "handsome, attractive and sexy." (Golly, I'm starting to blush.)

I don't consider myself sexy, but what's MY opinion against 5,000 Sonoma State coeds (This pipe rated X.)

Smoking a pipe is a simple and rewarding pastime. To start, buy three or four pipes of various shapes and sizes, ranging from $10 to $30. Buy several different cans of tobacco, a tobacco pouch, a package or two of pipe cleaners, a reamer, a tamper, a humidor, a lighter, some fluid, and a large ashtray with one of those cork knobs in the middle. The initial investment in improving your sex image shouldn't run over $100.

Put a little tobacco in the pipe, light it evenly, and puff contentedly. The pipe goes out. You light it again and puff some more, coughing slightly. It goes out again. You re-light it and drag furiously. This stings your tongue and makes your eyes water. Tap out the ashes and start again.

When you have got to where you can keep a pipe going for more than a minute, be off to a party to check out your new sex image. A pouchful of tobacco and a couple of pipes in your new suit makes it look like a Salvation Army reject, but it's one of the penalities of pipe smoking. You always look like a barracks bag.

At the party, be suave and sophisticated. You fill your pipe nonchalantly, spilling tobacco all over the hors d'oeuvres. You burn your finger lighting up, and fill your corner of the room with a pungent smokescreen. You are not the only one with tears in his eyes. Sparks land on your suit and tie, leading to a spirited dance of brushing and slapping. And now the pipe has gone out.

If this elaborate and messy ritual enhances the sex image for the Sonoma State girls, things must be in bad shape in Northern California.

The doctor comments

Some measures help with hiatal hernia

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently my husband has been bothered by chest pains, numbness in the arm, and stomach disorders.

He went for a check-up and the doctor told him he has a hiatal hernia. Could you give us any information you have about this ailment? His doctor said very little could be done about it except to raise his head up while sleeping and to take medication for the acid in his stomach. He is 37 years old.

DEAR READER — I have discussed this problem before, but since there are still so many letters asking about it, I'll hit the highlights.

It is best described as an enlargement of the normal hole in the diaphragm where the esophagus tube passes through it to the stomach. As a result a portion of the stomach literally herniates through the hole into the chest cavity. There is normally a complex closure mechanism at the top of the stomach. When it herniates through the diaphragm, this closure mechanism is faulty. When you lie down, then the contents in the stomach tend to leak backward into the lower esophagus.

The acid stomach contents in the lower esophagus area cause "heartburn." The hernia can sometimes cause aching in the chest and even pains in the arm. However, this must be separated from heart problems. It can also cause faintness. These symptoms occur when the stomach is actually pushing through the enlarged hole.

So, what can you do about it? Raising the head of the bed is important. In fact, any time the person lies down the head should be elevated in such a manner that the chest is up higher than the abdomen. The whole idea is to make it difficult for the stomach, or a portion of it, to slide through the hole into the chest.

Medicine to control the stomach acid is also helpful. In that way, if anything leaks back, it won't burn as much.

Then a person should be careful to eliminate all measures that will compress the abdomen. That means not wearing tight belts, girdles, or constricting garments.

Then it is important not to bend over. Any movement that compresses the abdomen or lowers the chest is apt to cause the hernia to occur and cause symptoms.

It follows that these people should only eat small meals, perhaps at more frequent intervals, and that last meal of the day should be low in fat and of small volume. That is so the stomach will empty completely before going to bed. It is best not to lie down until at least two hours after any meal. If there are any foods that form gas or distention, they should be eliminated from the diet.

Finally, any obesity should be eliminated. And in selected cases when the problem warrants it and there are no other important problems, surgery is sometimes useful.

Now, I can't verify your husband's diagnosis. An examination is necessary to establish that as the problem. If this is his difficulty, these measures should help him to get along better.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on low blood sugar, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Blood Sugar" booklet.

Cites need for tax reform by own experience

LOS ANGELES UPI) — William Matson Roth, a wealthy San Francisco entrepreneur who is a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said that he paid no federal income taxes from 1962 through 1965 arguing that his own experience proves the need for tax reform.

Roth said, "I paid no taxes in those years because I took all of the lawful deductions available to me."

Roth's gross adjusted income totaled $648,000 for the five years in which he paid no federal income tax. He said his deductions for taxes, interest as well as investment, management and trust fees, together with charitable contributions, offset his liability in the years he paid no taxes.

Roth made his income tax disclosure after questions were put to his campaign staff.

Roth also said he paid no state income tax for the year 1970.

"The inequity in the tax system is to be found in the fact that a person in my income bracket and with my form of investments could, until recently, comply absolutely with the law and still owe nothing in certain tax years," he said.

Poly, Notre Dame play in 1976

Cal Poly has found a new athletic rival.

However, it may be a little unfair. Poly is bigger then its opponent.

Poly has 10,500 students while Notre Dame has only 8,054.

It just doesn't seem fair that a California state university would be picking on a parochial school.

No, Poly isn't going big time in football. Thanks to Indiana native Allen Van Winkle, the Broncos are tentatively slated for a 1976 basketball visit to South Bend.

This year's freshmen will get the chance to sample the famous Notre Dame spirit in person and get the goose bumps when "The Victory March" is played.

It's not official yet since all Poly athletic schedules must be approved by President Robert Kramer but Van Winkle, Poly's new assistant basketball coach, has lined up Notre Dame, Dayton and South Carolina in 1976 following Houston and some other biggies in 1975.

Head coach Don Hogan has a live one in Van Winkle, who is obviously no relation to Rip. The young, energetic assistant is handling scheduling and out-of-state recruiting for Poly.

Van Winkle has been around.

After his high school days in basketball-happy Lafayette, Ind., Van Winkle played ball at a Florida junior college and advanced to Southwest Louisiana.

Van Winkle learned a lot as a player and assistant coach in SW Louisiana but was out of a job when the NCAA banned basketball at the Southern school for several violations.

So the young Hoosier joined Hogan's Heroes. His next task is finding the talent to compete against the likes of Notre Dame but the future schedules should help attract ambitious players.

Dr. Bill Arce, athletic director and baseball coach at Claremont-Mudd, was recently given credit by 20-game winner Jim Colborn of the Milwaukee Brewers for his success in a recent article sent by the Associated Press.

Colborn, a former Whittier College star, said Arce gave him his chance in pro ball by contacting Gordon Goldsberry, who scouted for the Chicago Cubs, of La Verne.

Goldsberry took a look at Colborn and signed him. But Colborn didn't make it big until the Cubs sent him to Milwaukee in 1972 for outfielder Jose Cardenal.

In the AP article, Goldsberry was quoted as saying, "I had seen Colborn at Whittier but I was scared off because he had had knee injuries. But Dr. Arce had taken him to Holland on a baseball team the previous summer and spoke so highly of him that I decided to talk to him again."

San Diego State has good reasons to be unhappy about its snub from the wire service rankings and the bowls.

The Aztecs enjoyed an outstanding 9-1-1 campaign, losing only to Houston 14-9, and had the nation's top passer in Jesse Freitas.

But San Diego stays home while teams with four losses take part in the bowl celebrations.

To combat this and to get TV money, San Diego State is considering some afternoon games next season. Aztec officials feel they will get more media exposure in the East by playing day games.

Tourney of Champions

San Dimas features better balance

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

SAN DIMAS — The big names may be missing, but you can bet the competition in this year's San Dimas High School Basketball Tournament of Champions will be furious.

The presence of several High School All-American highlighted last year's inaugural tournament, but those big names have graduated—leaving the T of C with just eight super teams with a little better balance.

The individual stars are gone for this year's classic, but the names of the schools competing will have college scouts and coaches flocking from all around the state.

Competing this year is defending 4-A champion Verbum Dei, which has now won five consecutive CIF championships, defending 3-A titlist Murphy, which is returning the famous Ollie Matson Jr., CIF 4-A runnerup Pasadena, defending T of C champion Morningside, CIF quarterfinalists Covina and Ganesha and St. Elizabeth from Oakland. And of course host San Dimas will also see action in the tourney. The Saints reached the semis in the 2-A playoffs last year.

When you look at last year's records of the eight teams involved, you can't help but believe that these eight are probably the best in California.

Verbum Dei finished the season last year with a 29-2 record, Morningside capped its 1972-73 campaign with a 28-1 mark, Pasadena recorded a 29-3 season, Murphy finished 27-4, Covina was 28-3 on the year, Ganesha whipped up a 23-6 year, St. Elizabeth ended the season with a 29-2 record, and San Dimas flashed a 20-6 mark.

All total, the teams competing this year had 213 victories and only 27 defeats.

There are a few changes this year in the tournament.

Upland, Damien and San Joaquin Memorial are not in the classic this year and have been replaced by Ganesha, Covina and St. Elizabeth.

"We don't have four All-Americans in the tournament this year," stated tournament chairman Jim Lough, "but we'll have more balance."

Lough was speaking of All-Americans Clifton Pondexter from Memorial, Lewis Brown from Verbum Dei, Jackie Robinson from Morningside and Terry Tate from Murphy.

The confrontation between Pondexter, who is now playing for Long Beach St., and Brown, playing from Nevada Las Vegas this season, was the high spot in the tourney last year.

But last year there were a few weak teams in the eight-team classic and it took away from the overall competitiveness.

"We try to get the best teams around to play," Lough continued. "And with only eight teams in this tournament, you've got to figure that better teams get eliminated in this one tournament than in 90 per cent of the other tournaments played this year. To show how tough this tournament has been, take a look at last year's Memorial team. They lost two games here and then went up north to win the Tournament of Champions up there."

Some of the toughest teams in Southern California have turned down invitations to the tournament simply because of the rugged competition.

"We've invited teams like Katella, Marina and Long Beach Jordan to play in the tournament," noted San Dimas coach Bob Espinoza, "but they say 'no way.' They feel the caliber of play is equal to the post-season playoffs."

The tournament begins next Monday night with host San Dimas opening playing against Verbum Dei at 7 p.m. That game will be followed by Ganesha-Pasadena game at 8:30 p.m.

Tuesday night Murphy will face Morningside at 7 p.m. and Covina will battle St. Elizabeth at 8:30 p.m.

There will not be any tournament action Wednesday since Mt. San Antonio College, where the tourney is being held this year, is hosting a game of its own that night.

Verbum Dei, under new head coach John Sneed, is returning four lettermen in David Greenwood (6-10, 210), Roy Hamilton (6-1, 165), Mike Lewis (6-0, 154) and Reggie Bowie (6-3, 172).

Morningside, also under first-year coach Ron Jacobs, is only bringing back one letterman from last year's championship team in guard Oscar Williams. Pasadena is in the same boat as Morningside, as the Bullldogs are also returning just one lettermen—6-foot-1, 154 pound Michael Grey.

Murphy boasts the return of Matson, who averaged 14.6 points per game last year and was named to the All-CIF 3-A team. Covina is checking into its first Tournament of Champions with one of the tallest players this year in Rod Littlepage (6-10), while Ganesha is bringing back three lettermen from last year's 23-6 team which finished runnerup in the San Antonio League. The Giants have already put one tournament championship under their belts this year—winning the Upland-Montclair Tournament last weekend.

Kunzman injured at OMS

ONTARIO — Lee Kunzman, 29, one of United States Auto Club's top sprint car racers was critically injured Tuesday morning when his Eagle-Offy went out of control on the first turn of the Ontario International Speedway and slammed into a concrete wall at a speed estimated at 190 miles per hour.

Kunzman, from Guttenberg, Iowa, was listed in "poor condition" at Upland's San Antonio Community Hospital with a severe head injury this morning. Doctors at the hospital reported that his vital signs were okay and X-rays showed no fractures. The doctors said Kunzman apparently suffered a severe concussion. He had not regained consciousness by this morning.

Kunzman was doing some tire tests at the time of the accident, said Jim Cook, OMS general manager.

According to Ontario Police reports, Kunzman was travelling about 190 miles per hour turning eastbound into turn number one on the 2.5 mile oval track. Officer Joe Hatton in his report said, "He came low into the groove, about one quarter of the way into the turn and went into a slide. He went high out of the groove, hit the wall, looped, and crashed backward into the wall again."

Officer Hatton said the fuel tank on the Indianapolis type racer was punctured in the crash and gasoline leaked out from under the vehicle. He said a small fire started on the right rear wheel, but track safety officers quickly extinguished the blaze before the gasoline ignited.

Kunzman was carefully lifted out of the racer and given emergency first aid by an ambulance crew called to the scene. He was then rushed to the Upland hospital in "critical" condition.

Cook's eyewitness account differed slightly from the Police reports.

Cook said, "Kunzman appeared to lose control of the car in the second turn of the 2.5 mile oval track. The car rapped the wall, did a complete turn and the left rear section hit the wall. The car skidded quite a ways down the track."

There has not been a fatal accident at the Ontario Motor Speedway since it opened in 1970.

Kunzman, according to race track officials, was testing Firestone tires for the Phoenix based Fletcher racing team when the accident occurred.

REGISTERS PANIC

Cleveland Cavaliers' Jim Cleamons registers panic as Lakers' Elmore Smith blocks his path to the basket. But Lakers are now in a panic after losing fourth consecutive game in Cleveland.

Fading Lakers need victory vs. Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers lost a heartbreaker to the Cleveland Cavaliers Tuesday night, running their losing streak to four games and dropping them behind Detroit's Pistons in the NBA's won-lost percentage race.

The 101-100 overtime loss, coming after the Lakers had squandered a 13-point halftime lead, was the sixth defeat in the last seven Laker starts.

The Pistons, who Los Angeles plays tonight, now have the fourth best record in the Western Conference, at 18-11. The Lakers, now 17-13, will have to finish in the top four to make the post-season playoffs.

It was a 12-foot jumper by Cleveland's Fred Foster with 1:02 remaining that beat the Lakers Tuesday and snapped a two-game Cleveland losing streak.

The Cavs were 16-for-53 in the first half as the Lakers raced to a 48-35 advantage. Cleveland emerged from the locker room and outscored Los Angeles 37-19 in the third quarter to take a five-point lead.

With 1:26 left in regulation play, rookie Jim Brewer scored to give the Cavs a 93-89 lead.

Jerry West, who lead all scorers with 32, came down and scored on a jumper to make it 93-91 and Gail Goodrich tied it after the Lakers got possession with 37 seconds left.

West had a chance to end it at the regulation time buzzer but he missed an 18-footer.

The lead changed hands three times in the overtime period before Goodrich sank two free throws to give Los Angeles a 100-99 lead.

Wilkes claims Bruins are ready

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — If North Carolina State thinks it's going to sneak up on UCLA at St. Louis Saturday, it better think again.

The defending national basketball champion Bruins, says quiet-spoken forward Keith Wilkes, definitely will be ready.

"We might have taken Maryland lightly but we're not taking North Carolina State lightly," Wilkes said.

"North Carolina State was unbeaten last season and we're playing them away from home. We can't expect anything but a tough game."

However, the 6-7 senior doesn't subscribe to the theory that North Carolina State will play the Bruins any tougher than Maryland (a 65-64 thriller at Pauley Pavilion here) because the Wolfpack are expected to handle the Terrapins in the Atlantic Coast Conference race this season.

"I don't think you can make comparisons," Wilkes said. "Our game with Maryland doesn't mean a thing as far as Saturday's game is concerned."

The Bruins will take a 78-game victory streak—18 games better than the University of San Francisco's old college basketball record, which UCLA broke last year—to St. Louis.

"Honestly, I don't think about the streak that much,"said the Santa Barbara, Calif., product. "None of us do. It really doesn't motivate us.

"You know what motivates us? Knowing we can lose any time we step out on the court. The only way you can avoid losing is to go out there and playgood ball."

In three games, Wilkes is the Bruins' No. 2 scorer behind Bill Walton with a 14.0 average. He averaged 13.5 points as a sophomore and 14.8 as a junior.

As a senior, he's one-half inch taller and five pounds (180) heavier.

"I'm a little bigger and a little more experienced," he replied when asked if he was a better player than a year ago.

Although he is a senior, Wilkes won't become 21 until May 2. There could be even some more growth.

"I haven't thought about pro basketball," he declared. "I'm not going to jump ahead of myself. This season plus my final year at UCLA are enough to think about right now."

Energy crisis affects valley

POMONA — Chaffey College guard Pierre Rankin and Pomona-Pitzer forward-center Geoff Northrop were selected Players of the Week at Tuesday's weekly basketball luncheon at The Castaway Restaurant.

Rankin, a sophomore from Fontana, had nine steals and scored 18 points to lead Chaffey to a 67-49 win over MSAC last week. Northrop, a freshmen from La Jolla, scored 23 points and grabbed 15 rebounds in Pomona-Pitzer's 81-64 triumph over Cal Lutheran.

The energy crisis is starting to affect Pomona Valley sports.

Because the Claremont Colleges have decided to save energy by extending the Christmas vacations, both Pomona-Pitzer and Claremont-Mudd have been forced to switch their Jan. 5 games.

Pomona-Pitzer has postponed its Jan. 5 game at Whittier to Feb. 9 while the scheduled La Verne at Claremont-Mudd game on Jan. 5 has been switched to the Bonita High gymnasium. La Verne will play at C-M on Jan. 22.

Poly hopes to announce grid coach by January

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

POMONA — The green light is finally on for Cal Poly in its efforts to hire a new head football coach.

Athletic director Don Warhurst is finally able to pursue a new gridiron leader.

Even though Roy Anderson announced publicly his retirement two weeks ago, he didn't submit his official letter of resignation until this week.

Anderson will be leaving Poly in February when his contract expires.

"Naturally, I'm sorry to accept Anderson's resignation," Warhurst said. "I appreciate all he has done for us. I wish him well in whatever he decides to do."

After five years at Poly, Anderson has decided to take life easy for awhile before looking for another position in football or business.

Warhurst has already been busy talking to candidates.

More than 30 persons have expressed interest in the Poly job. Included on the list is assistant coach Marv Weetman, who is Anderson's recommendation. Other possibilities include college, junior college and high school coaches.

Warhurst hopes to name a new coach by Jan. 1 and to present the final three candidates to Dr. Robert Kramer, the Cal Poly president, within 10 days.

"I would say a person with college coaching experience would have an advantage," Warhurst added, "but I wouldn't rule out anybody because of that. We're looking for a man who can recruit and raise funds."

Poly isn't the only Southern California university looking for a football coach. UCLA, Long Beach State and Cal State Los Angeles are also busy interviewing candidates.

Raiders picked over Broncos in battle for AFC West title

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders were listed as eight-point favorites over the Denver Broncos for Sunday's AFC's Western Division championship game.

The San Francisco 49ers were eight-point underdogs in Saturday's game at Candlestick Park, according to Harrah's Tahoe Racebook listings released Tuesday.

Other pro odds: Minnesota 14 over the New York Giants; Washington 13 over Philadelphia; the New York Jets two over Buffalo; Kansas City 14 over San Diego; Atlanta 14 over New Orelans; Baltimore two over New England; Green Bay five over Chicago; Cincinnati 18 over Houston; Dallas 14 over St. Louis; Los Angeles 10 over Cleveland and Miami 8 over Detroit.

Western Kentucky was two over Louisiana Tech for Saturday's Camellia Bowl game in Sacramento, Calif.

Rams seeking club record for victories

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams dispensed with their normal day off Tuesday and conducted a brief practice session, later viewing films of their 40-6 win over the New York Giants Monday night.

The Rams, now 11-2 and guaranteed a spot in the post-season playoffs, will be out to set a team record for most wins in a season when they meet the Cleveland Browns here Sunday.

Cleveland, 7-4-2, needs a win to keep their longshot playoff hopes alive.

The Rams' previous best years were 1967, when they were 11-1-2, and 1969, 11-3.

The ground-oriented Rams should easily eclipse the NFL rushing attempts record of 632, set in 1934 by the Detroit Lions and equalled in 1949 by the Philadelphia Eagles. Los Angeles now has 614 attempts in 13 games, an average of more than 47 carries per contest.

The Rams will begin full workouts Wednesday in preparation for the Cleveland game.

SCORES TWO — Pomona-Pitzer guard Norm Carter scores two points on a layup in the Sagehens' victory over Southern California College at Memorial Gym Tuesday night.

'Hens hone game, stagger, then win

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — Pomona-Pitzer played a great first half and then got careless Tuesday night at Memorial Gym.

Fortunately, the Sagehens were so good the first half they built up a 37-18 lead. It reached 51-24 eventually. Thus in spite of 21 turnovers and being outscored 25-4 in nine-and-a-half minutes in the second half, they still came out a 64-57 winner over visiting Southern California College to deal the visitors their third loss against five wins.

They played excellent ball in the first half against the Vanguards. With freshman Brandon Boyd leading the way with 11 points, the 'Hens connected on 17 of 26 field goal attempts while SCC could make only nine of 40.

Those per centages figure out to 65.3 for the Pomonans and 22.5 for the Vanguards.

The Sagehens continued the onslaught for the first six and a half minutes of the second half. Scott Pease's bucket at 13:21 made it 51-24, Pomona-Pitzer.

With 13:10 left, Bob Hoehn picked up his fourth foul and coach Les Nagler began a massive substitution that eventually saw all 14 players see action.

SCC began a full court press and the 'Hens began turning the ball over with great frequency. When Tim Bergerson, the visitor's 6-8 forward, sank a basket with 3:49 left, it cut the lead to five points, 55-49.

Nagler got his first string back in the Bergerson drew his fifth foul with 3:33 left. He had 21 points at the time and was the game's leading scorer.

The 'Hens steadied and began to successfully move the ball. George Northrop got open and was immediately hit with good passes twice. Two layups and four points were the net result and the heat was off.

In the locker room, a happy Nagler grimmaced when he saw the turnovers, nine in the first half and 21 in the second for a total of 30.

"We hurried too much," he grunted, then brightened. "We played a great first half and we got to see everybody play. We have to see what they can do and the players learned a lot out there." The Sagehens, now 3-2, host L. A. Baptist Friday night and defending District Three champion Westmont Saturday.

Soccer loop moving West

NEW YORK (UPI) — Commissioner Phil Woosnam Tuesday announced the expansion of the North American Soccer League to 12 teams for the 1974 season with the awarding of four franchises to West Coast clubs.

New franchises were awarded to Los Angeles, San Francisco, Vancouver and Seattle, while Baltimore was awarded a franchise last week.

Woosnam, speaking in a telephone hookup between the four cities, said, "We look on today as the most important day in the growth of soccer in the United States.

"If I can draw a parallel, I should like to look back 10 years to the American Football Congress. Nobody gave the New York Titans, later to become the Jets, much chance of survival, but today we have a very healthy NFL in addition to super bowl."

Damien booters win, 2-0

LA VERNE — Damien's soccer team ran its unbeaten streak to three Tuesday night with a 2-0 win over La Salle.

Bart Sullivan scored both of the Spartans' goals late in the second half. The first came on a penalty shot with five minutes left in the game. The second came with two minutes remaining on an indirect free kick.

Most of the night, La Salle had nine players back on defense.

The Spartans resume play Thursday in the South Torrance Soccer Tournament.

Stags drop third straight

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

CLAREMONT — Claremont-Mudd wasn't really caught looking ahead to Azusa Pacific, but the Stags sure were caught looking behind at Chapman Tuesday night as the visiting Panthers cruised to a 77-65 victory before a disappointing and disappointed crowd.

The loss was the third straight for Ted Ducey's crew but they won't receive any sympathy from Chapman as the victory snapped an incredible 23-game losing streak for the Orange Countians, including three losses to start this year.

The game was close for the first 10 minutes as the two clubs traded baskets, with Chapman scoring first and Claremont repeatedly responding to tie things up. In fact, the Stags led only once, at 18-16, and at that point C-M star forward George Glonka suffered a knee injury and the Panthers were off and running.

Sparked by the play of big men Jeff Cable and Steve Nycum and superlative perimeter shooting from Mark Holland, Chapman rolled to a nine point cushion at halftime, 43-34.

The story of the first half was the ability of Nycum to move inside the man-to-man defense of Claremont, especially in the later stages of the half with Glonka on the bench.

Ducey substituted taller Dave Willhite, but as the Stag coach said afterwards, "It was tough for a Freshman (Willhite) to tangle with a Senior (Nycum). Overall, I think he did a credible job."

It was feared at first that Glonka might have dislocated his right knee, but he just received a hard knock on the point and was okay for the second half.

Whereas the Stags had played sound fundamental ball in the opening 20 minutes, they were guilty of 10 turnovers in the first eight minutes of the second half and Chapman took advantage to open up an insurmountable 63-44 lead. Claremont never got closer than the final 12-point margin.

Chapman, always a tough, physical ball club, won the battle of the boards easily. The Panthers grabbed 39 rebounds while C-M settled for 31.

Glonka paced the Stags with 20 points while Norm Richards added 14. Kim Cheatum was the leading rebounder with 12.

Things aren't going to get any brighter for Claremont as the Stags must turn right around and prepare for powerful Azusa Pacific Friday night at Stag Gym.

Highlanders reach Norco semifinals

Upland High advanced to the semifinals of the Norco-Corona Basketball Tournament Tuesday night, but Pomona didn't have the same kind of luck in the tourney.

Upland, having come off a third-place finsh last weekend in the Upland-Montclair Tournament, used a fourth-quarter blitz to run away from co-host Norco and post a 57-41 victory Tuesday evening.

But Pomona, playing Alta Loma for the second time in three games, couldn't handle the Braves this time around and dropped a 65-61 decision at Corona High Tuesday afternoon. The Red Devils defeated Alta Loma for the consolation championship over the weekend in the Upland-Montclair Tournament 69-51.

Upland will now play El Modena Thursday night at 8 p.m. at Norco High in one semifinal game, while Pomona shoots for a fourth-place playoff when it battles Cajon at 4:45 p.m. Thursday afternoon at Corona High.

The tournament takes a day off Wednesday.

In other high school action around the valley Tuesday, Damien whipped Glendora, 76-53, to record its first victory of the season, and Rowland opened the Valencia Tournament with an 82-58 loss to El Dorado. Western Christian fell short of victory against Pasadena Poly in a low-scoring contest, 49-36.

Upland couldn't pull away from Norco for the first three quarters of there contest in the tournament, but it a 20-point fourth quarter by the Highlanders to finally dump the Cougars. Norco had taken a 15-14 lead in the second quarter, but that was the only lead the Scots forfeited to the co-host. Curt Oldenkamp led the Upland attack with 16 points, while teammate Stu DuVall added 13 to the winning cause.

DuVall had nine of the Highlanders' 20 points in that big fourth quarter. Upland is now 5-1 for the year.

Pomona held a slim 35-31 halftime lead over Alta Loma in their afternoon contest and even had a one-point lead going into the fourth quarter, but the Braves outscored the Red Devils 18-13 in the final eight minutes to gain revenge.

Pomona forward Jerome Holliman dumped in six of Pomona's 13 fourth quarter points, but Alta Loma's Kula Kuresa (eight points) and Bob Wineman (six points) supplied the big punch.

Damien put together a strong second quarter and then kept pulling away from Glendora to record its first win in four games. The Spartans were paced by John Pignotri's 20 points and Cornell Kasbergen's 12. It was Kasbergen's first appearance as a starter for Damien. Forward Larry Pekarcik, who scored eight points in the game, led the Spartans in rebounds with 14.

Tall Toreros demolish little Leopards

By SCOTT POINDEXTER
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — At the close of La Verne College's basketball game Tuesday night at Bonita high, a Leopard fan might have cause to celebrate, seeing a score of La Verne 68, University of San Diego 34. But wait! It just so happens that there should be one in front of the 34. In other words USD 134-La Verne 68. Custer had it better.

The tall Toreros utterly demolished the much smaller Leopards, having six players score 13 or more points, while La Verne had two men score 12 apiece.

Pete Cosenza led in scoring, hitting 11 of 15 shots, and sinking one free throw for a total of 23. San Diego also depends on the name Smith, three of them in fact. Robert and Ken start with Joe in support. Ken was hurt early in the contest, but Robert finished with 20 and Joe 18.

Chuck Davis and Joe Edmonds led the Leos with 12 points and Tom Jones got 10.

La Verne led at one point in the game 6-2, but the Toreros then went on a blitz outscoring the Leos 33-12. Cosenza had 18 of his points in the last 11 minutes of the first half.

At half time, Jones was the La Verne leader with six points. The Leopards were behind at halftime by 36, and never came within 34 points from then on.

San Diego came out just as rough and tough in the second half as they had in the first. In fact, the Toreros scored more points, 31 in the second half than La Verne scored all night.

Ron Modic, reserve guard came in the last eight minutes of the game to score 13 points. Just those 13 points were almost more than the Leopards scored in those same eight minutes.

Ken Lipkin, leading scorer for La Verne prior to this game, was held to just eight points. If nothing else, Coach Art Bias was able to let his whole team get in playing experience.

La Verne will be off until the Cal Baptist Tournament which begins next Wednesday, the 19th.

Ex-MSAC star Freed traded to Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds and Cleveland Indians completed a trade on the minor league level Wednesday, the Reds obtaining outfielder Roger Freed in exchange for pitcher Steve Blateric.

Freed, 27, was the minor league player of the year in 1970 at Rochester of the International League when he hit .334 with 24 home runs and 130 runs batted in. He played at Mt. San Antonio College.

Last season, after being traded from the Philadelphia Phillies to the Cleveland organization, Freed batted .278 with 30 homers and 96 runs batted in with the Indians' Oklahoma City club of the American Association.

Blateric, 29, a righthander, was 9-5 last season at the Reds' Indianapolis club, also in the American Association. He had an earned average of 2.97.

Freed has been placed on the Indianapolis roster by the Reds and Blateric on the Oklahoma City roster by the Indians.

Santo to pay friendly call on Bill Melton

CHICAGO (UPI) — The first entry in Ron Santo's social calendar as a new member of the Chicago White Sox is to pay a call on Bill Melton.

"That's the first thing I want to do," Santo said Tuesday when White Sox introduced him as their latest addition after a trade with the Cubs, who got four players in return.

Melton is as highly prized a third baseman with the White Sox management and fans as Santo used to be with the Cubs. Melton, 28, missed a lot of last season with a back problem, but he belted 33 home runs in 1970 for a team record and hit 33 again in 1971 for an American League season high.

"I know how Melton would feel if the positions were reversed," Santo said. "I know Bill and the first thing I want to do is to talk to him about this deal."

Santo, 33, was the first player to invoke what may come to be known as the "Santo Clause," which provides that a player of 10 years' major league service and the last five consecutive years with the same club must grant permission to any trade before it is finalized.

The Cubs tried to send him to the California Angels last week, but Santo said he would never leave Chicago. He let it be known he would like to join the White Sox, and, luckily, Cubs General Manager John Holland had eased the way by having all National League teams waive on Santo late last summer.

"I'm as elated as a newborn kid," he said. "I had nothing against the Angels. For reasons of my family, myself, I didn't want to leave Chicago."

He said his business sidelines "had nothing to do with it. It was Chicago or no baseball at all."

"When I heard the White Sox wanted me, it made me feel happy. Then when I knew they really were interested in men I was elated and excited."

White Sox GM Roland Hemond said he and Manager Chuck Tanner plan to work Santo into the lineup so that he'll get about 600 at-bats next season, alternating at third with Melton, at first with with Richie Allen or at the plate as a designated hitter.

Santo said he harbors "no hard feelings" against the Cubs.

"I understand what they're trying to do. I want to thank them for 14 fabulous years, especially Mr. Wrigley (owner Phil Wrigley)."

Going to the Cubs in the deal are pitchers Steven Stone, and Ken Frailing and catcher Steve Swisher and a player to be named later.

Notre Dame tough in basketball play

By United Press International

It looks as if Digger Phelps is looking to duplicate Ara Parseghian's performance this season.

The Notre Dame football team went unbeaten this year and Phelps' Fighting Irish basketball team is keeping that winning attitude.

Seventh-ranked Notre Dame, with John Shumate scoring 26 points, took a quick lead and never relinquished it Tuesday night en route to a 73-67 upset of No. 3 ranked Indiana. Reserve Billy Paterno added 16 points and freshman Adrian Dantley had 15 as Notre Dame ran its record to 5-0.

Though Notre Dame led all the way, Indiana didn't go down easily. The Irish moved out to an 11-point lead in the first half but Indiana, with Steve Green leading the way and 17,463 fans screaming their support, cut it to three at the half. Notre Dame boosted its lead to 14 points in the second half but the Hoosiers came back again to pull within five points twice.

Green led Indiana with 21 points and Scott May had 14.

In other action involving ranked teams, Maryland (5) crushed Georgetown 115-83, Vanderbilt (19) upset Memphis State (9) 75-71, Kansas State (14) blasted Iowa 105-67, New Mexico (16) edged New Mexico State 72-71 and Wake Forest upset Pennsylvania (17) 69-61.

Maryland, with John Lucas scoring 28 poin's, Tom McMillen 23 and Len Elmore 22, crushed crosstown rival Georgetown and Lee Fowler scored 19 points and Jan van Breda Kolff grabbed 12 rebounds, many off them crucial, in leading Vanderbilt over Memphis State.

Danny Beard's 22 points paced Kansas State to its rout of Iowa and sub Rich Pokorski's free throw with no time left enabled New Mexico to hold off archrival New Mexico State. Bobby Dwyer's five foul shots in the last two minutes, his only points of the game, enabled Wake Forest to upset Penn.

Elsewhere, Mel Utley's 28 points carried St. John's to a 94-78 victory over Davidson and Joe Newman had 27 points and 14 rebounds as Temple downed Navy 52-41. Phil Sellers and Vinnie Roundtree combined for 35 points as Rutgers downed Princeton 62-55 and John Garrett had 17 points to lead Purdue past Missouri 79-66. Pacific, led by guard John Errecart's 19 points, downed Santa Cltra 80-73.

In other games, Virginia beat Lehigh 87-60, Iowa State ripped San Jose State 83-60, Purdue topped Missouri 79-66 Arizona crushed San Diego State 101-79 and Colorado State beat Air Force 62-46

Chamberlain loses battle to play

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wilt Chamberlain, off to a rocky start as the rookie coach of the ABA San Diego Conquistadors, just lost the best player he might've had — himself.

With the news that arbitrator Peter Seitz had rendered a decision in favor of the Los Angeles Lakers' claim that they had properly exercised their option rights regarding the former NBA superstar, Chamberlain can now look forward to earning the $600,000 he is being paid this year solely as the world's tallest coach.

If the layoff doesn't take too much off Chamberlain's 37-year old body, he will be back in uniform next season, earning the remainder of his $1.8-million three-year contract as a player-coach.

"We're studying the issue to determine what in fact we could do," said Seymour S Goldberg, Chamberlain's attorney in Los Angeles. "But as a practical matter the season is running, and it's problematical as to whether we could get a hearing in time for it to be meaningful."

"We got him as a coach for the first year and a player-coach for the next two," said Conquistador General Manager Alex Groza. "Anything above that was a bonus. We were just trying to see if we could get him to play this year."

The Lakers, who knew they had lost Chamberlain's services for good in any event, refused to allow him to play for the rival league. When Chamberlain jumped to San Diego last summer after leading Los Angeles to one league and four Western Conference championships in five years, the Lakers obtained an injunction in Los Angeles County Superior Court prohibiting him from playing for any other team.

The court directed the Lakers and Chamberlain to agree upon an abitrator who would then decide whether the option clause in Chamberlain's contract had been properly executed.

"I awarded the case to Los Angeles," Seitz said here Tuesday, "because I decided the Lakers had properly exercised the option right by offering him a contract for one more year comparable to the one he had been receiving."

There was a curious and, as yet, unexplained lag between the time of Seitz' decision (Dec. 3) and its public disclosure Tuesday. "I was surprised that I hadn't seen it in any of the papers," Seitz said. "I can't imagine why it wasn't made public."

Chamberlain's signing by San Diego was considered a great coup by the ABA, which had hoped to boost attendance around the league by his on-court presence. It was also felt that with Chamberlain in a Conquistador uniform, San Diego voters would be more likely to pass a referendum to supply funds for construction of a new sports complex. While Chamberlain remained on the bench, the voters decided against the complex last month.

"When the contract was signed," said ABA commissioner Mike Storen, "we understood that the likelihood would be that Chamberlain wouldn't be able to play. So I'm not really upset by the ruling."

The Conquistadors certainly could have used Chamberlain as player. The Q's are mired in last place in the ABA West with an 11-18 record and the worst team defense in the league— they've given up an incredible 117.7 points per game.

"We preferred he play because we thought we had a good chance as a contender for the championship," Groza said. "Now we'll have to take our chances."

Several attempts were made by UPI to contact Chamberlain about the arbitrator's decision but Wilt, ever the individualist even as coach, was unreachable at the Le Baron Hotel in San Diego while his players were 2,000 miles away in Indianapolis preparing for Wednesday's game against the Pacers.

Long Beach frosh helps beat Loyola

By United Press International

Much-heralded freshman Clifton Pondexter strutted his stuff for Long Beach State Tuesday night as the 49ers blasted Loyola 84-58.

The 6-foot-8 phenom from Fresno hit 20 points and grabbed nine rebounds while 6-8 Leonard Gray was adding 16 points and seven rebounds and Clifton's "big" brother, Roscoe, who stands 6-6, had 12 points and six rebounds.

During one stretch, Long Beach scored 22 points in a row.

Meanwhile, Pacific, perhaps Long Beach State's toughest challenger in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, ran its record to 5-1 with a solid 80-73 win at Santa Clara. John Errecart of Pacific and Remel Diggs of the Broncs both had 19.

In intersectional contests, Bakersfield State never got it going at Illinois State and fell 82-69 although Ken Shiloh had 34 and San Jose State fell 83-60 at Iowa Statefor the Spartans' first loss.

Arizona took care of San Diego State 109-79 before more than 10,000 fans with Brad McNamara topping the losers with 17.

In other action, Quentin Braxton poured in 33 as Portland downed St. Martin's 95-84 and Jack Smoot hit 27 from the backcourt to lead Whittier past Point Loma 93-80.

John L. Jones MVP

Trojans, Bruins visit Garey High

POMONA — John L. Jones, the All-San Antonio League linebacker who averaged 12 tackles per game, was named Garey High's Most Valuable Player for the varsity football team Monday night at the Vikings' fall sports banquet.

Jones, who was only one of two Vikings who made the All-SAL first team this year, was the main key to the defense which led the Pomona Valley this year. The Vikings only gave up an average of 8.9 points per game during the course of the year.

Guest speakers at the banquet were University of Southern California stars Anthony Davis, Allen Carter and Charles Anthony and UCLA place-kicker Efren Herrera.

Carter, a former Bonita High Star when the Bearcats competed in the San Antonio League along with Garey, got the biggest negative reaction of the night when he jokingly questioned his presence at the banquet.

"I really don't know why I was invited here," Carter smiled. "I said to myself 'Why would Garey High invite me to their banquet.' You see, I remember when we used to play Garey in the SAL. And I remember when the Green Machine gave y'all a whoopin." After getting a moan from the crowd, Carter added, "but I hear they're not doing as well now and Garey would probably give them a rough time."

That pleased the crowd.

Anthony was asked why he thought USC beat UCLA this year. The Trojan linebacker said, "We were hard on the Wishbone all year. We held Arkansas to seven points, we held Oklahoma to seven points," and then turning to Herrera he added, "and what was the score in our game?"

That broke up the crowd again.

Davis was the crowd's favorite.

He answered the only question about USC's upcoming Rose Bowl game against Ohio State. "I'm kind of glad Ohio State is coming back," Davis said. "I kind of like Woody (Hayes), especially when he hit that guy on the sidelines."

Other awards for the night went to Fred Perez as the varsity's Most Improved Player and Ron Rodriquez received the Coaches' Award.

Larry Baird received the Most Valuable Player award for the sophomore football team, while Tommy Larry was named the Most Improved Player and Victor Williams received the Coaches Award.

In cross country, Danny Rosales was the Most Valuable Runner, Henry Castillo was the Most Improved Runner, and Steve Trenholme received the Coaches' Award.

Cedeno held on manslaughter charge

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — Houston Astros centerfielder Cesar Cedeno was questioned today in criminal court here on his role in the fatal shooting early Tuesday of a 19-year-old girl in a local motel room.

Judge Socrates Diaz Curiel began questioning the young ballplayer about 9:50 a.m. EST after he was taken to the 4th circuit court from police headquarters were he had been held since he turned himself in Tuesday morning.

Cedeno, 22, was charged with voluntary manslaughter, the equivalent of second degree murder in the United States.

But District Attorney Maximo Henriquez Saladin, who filed the charge, indicated it was simply a formality.

A police report issued after informal questioning of the baseball star said, "It has not been possible to fix any blame on Cesar Cedeno." The police said, however, the case was submitted to the courts to get a full hearing.

Cedeno, one of the best young players in baseball, was arrested Tuesday morning and charged with "voluntary manslaughter." Legal experts in San Juan said it was similar to the charge of second degree murder in the United States.

Police said Cedeno, a native of the Dominican Republic, spent the night at the Enssanche La Fe Prison, two blocks from Quisqueya Stadium, the scene of his early exploits as a baseball player.

The examining magistrate said he would also question an unidentified witness to the shooting today before winding up the official interrogation—the first step in Dominican judicial proceedings.

Legal experts said the magistrate would then hand the case over to a police court judge with the authority to release Cedeno on bail.

An employe at the Keko Motel told police Cedeno and Altagracia checked into a bungalow early Tuesday and asked for two bottles of beer. He reported hearing a shot about 10 minutes later.

He said Cedeno called the motel office to report the shooting and then left in a sports car. The baseball star returned with his father later and handed himself over to police.

A police colonel said Cedeno told authorities the girl had picked up his .38 caliber pistol to admire it and the weapon went off when Cedeno tried to get it away from her.

John W. Mullen, the Astros' assistant general manager, met with Cedeno at a Santo Domingo police station and quoted the star as saying the gun went off accidentally.

"The word is that this was an accident—that's what Cedeno said," Mullen reported. "He had a gun. He has a permit for it. She asked to see it. He said no. And she tried to wrestle it away from him and it went off."

North Stars keep winning over Kings

BLOOMINGTON, Minnesota (UPI) — The Minnesota North Stars are not the toughest team in the National Hockey League if only standings are considered, but the Los Angeles Kings would dispute that point.

Since March 28, 1970, when Los Angeles beat Minnesota 4-2 at home, the Kings have lost 17, tied four, and won none in 21 meetings with the North Stars.

Loss No. 17 came quickly Tuesday night when Bill Goldsworthy scored three goals in the first 7:25 of the game. The North Stars went on to a 6-3 win, breaking a three-game King winning streak.

Goldsworthy, who leads the NHL's West Division with 19 goals, was assisted each time by Dennis Hextall. Hextall leads the division in points with 34, one ahead of Goldsworthy.

The win moved Minnesota ahead of the Kings into fifth place in the West, with a 7-13-7 record for 21 points. Los Angeles is 8-15-4 for 20 points.

After Goldsworthy's opening flurry made it 3-0, the teams traded goals to make it at the end of a wild first period.

Kings' rookie Phil Hoene scored on a penalty shot to make it 4-2 at 6:53 of the second period but Danny Grant and Dennis O'Brien added second period goals for the Stars to put the game out of reach. Goldsworthy and Hextall each assisted on Grant's goal, giving each a total of four points for the night.

The Kings return home for a Thursday night meeting with the New York Islanders. They play Montreal at the Los Angeles Forum Saturday night.

Sports news in brief

SUGAR RAY SEALES, 150, Tacoma, the only U.S. Olympic Games boxing gold medalist of 1972, remained unbeaten as a pro Tuesday night as he pounded out a unanimous 10-round decision over Jose Miranda, 148, Mexico City at Civic Auditorium in San Francisco.

GAVILAN COLLEGE Tuesday was stripped of its Coast Conference football title because of transfer rule violations but the school said a court injunction "will be sought" to stop the action. The action was taken by the California Junior College Association.

THE ENERGY CRISIS will make itself felt next spring in the Pacific 8 Conference with a revised baseball schedule drawn on regional lines. The league voted during its annual winter meeting to revert to a Northern and Southern Division schedule in baseball next spring.

JOHN BRODIE will play at quarterback for the first one or two series against Pittsburgh Saturday at Candlestick Park and then be removed in favor of Steve Spurrier, according to 49er coach Dick Nolan.

JOHN P. CURLEY, who brought Boston College to national prominence in football during 28 years as manager of athletics, died Tuesday following a lengthy illness. He was 82.

KEN ROSEWALL, Australian pro tennis star, Tuesday signed a one-year contract as player coach of the Pittsburgh Triangles of the new World Team Tennis League.

Recreation

Basketball has certainly grown as a recreational activity the past few years. Pomona will have close to 2000 youths and adults involved in some type of roundball program. Less than half that many participated three years ago.

Almost 600 men and women will play in the Civic Leagues. There is still the possibility of even more. Openings exist for additional teams in the Women's and Slo-Break Leagues.

The Pomona Park and Recreation Department's youth organization league will put approximatly 200 boys on the court. Churches, Boy Scout troops and the like play in this program. Registration closes on December 21, so a group may yet sign up.

The Pomona YMCA has gotten into the act this year. They have 68 boys playing on eight teams.Four of the squads are in the 7, 8 and 9-year-old category, while the remaining are 10, 11 and 12-year-old teams.

Denny Palmer, Physical Director of the "Y", has plans to add a junior high division that would combine with Claremont for a league. The more teams the better.

The largest program is the local Park and Recreation Departments' leagues for boys and girls. At least 900 youths will participate with the prospects of going much higher very good.

There are two divisions for both the boys and girls. The girls division one is for 7th, 8th and 9th grade girls. Division two is for the 4th, 5th and 6th graders. The boys have the same breakdown except that division one doesn't include 9th graders.

Players may register now at all of the elementary and junior high schools after school recreation programs. Students who attend private schools should register at the area closest to their residence.

Games will be played on Friday evenings and during the day Saturdays beginning on Jan. 4. Before that the players have the benefit of a long Christmas vacation highlighted with daily workouts and skill development.

Pomona divides their youth basketball program up into six areas. This cuts down on cross town travel and in general is more convenient for both parents and participants.

The hub of each area is a junior high school. Games are played there along with most of the practical sessions. The recreation leader at those areas serves as the league director.

Every boy and girl who signs up is placed on a team and most play at least one half of each game. Rosters are limited to between eight and ten players.

Coaches needed

The key to the success of this program is securing volunteer coaches. Knowledge of the game is nice, but the most important quality is the desire to get involved with the kids.

A clinic for all the volunteer coaches is planned. The staffs at each of the junior high recreation programs will assist in the skill instruction. So all the volunteer really needs to do is keep the youngster organized.

The purpose of the program is to offer each boy and girl the opportunity of playing on a basketball team. That will be achieved if there are ample volunteer coaches. If you are interested, contact the Pomona Recreation Department at 620-2321.

The leagues discussed above won't be the only recreation basketball activity this season. Contests for free throw shooting, one on one competition and all around skills have been planned for the latter part of January and early February.

There is one event planned between now and the end of the year. Cal Poly's Optimist Club and basketball team, along with Pomona Park and Recreation Departments will hold a skills contest on Thursday, Dec. 27 beginning at 9 a.m.

Registration forms and information on the events will be in the hands of your local recreation leader next Monday. Participants must pre-register with the leaders. This should be an outstanding activity.

The top three finalists receive trophies. Al of the participants will receive passes to the Cal Poly and Purdue (Calumet) game on Saturday, December 29. The skills winners will be crowned at half time of that game.

There is little doubt that basketball has become a major sport in Pomona. If space will allow, the growth will continue.

Texas Speedway halts auto racing

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Texas World Speedway Tuesday announced it has ended motor sports at the speedway until the end of the energy crisis.

"It is with great reluctance that we announced that Texas World Speedway is cancelling all of its 1974 events," said Dan W. Holloway, president of the facility.

"We were quite enthusiastic about our 1974 season due to the two prestigious events planned and the potential they offered us."

The speedway had scheduled four days of National Championship American Motorcycle Association events for May and the Texas 500 race for Indianapolis Speedway cars on Sept. 1.

"We wish to make it clear that the energy crisis was not the only deciding factor," Holloway said. "Establishing the two new events would be difficult under normal conditions, but during the energy crisis would be almost impossible.

"We felt that to sit out the crisis was the only alternative. We are looking forward to resumption of normal activities."

USAC worried about 'crisis'

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) United States Auto Club officials said Monday the "most significant problem" the club faces for 1974 is the energy crisis and resulting governmental regulations.

In a letter to USAC members, President Reynold C. MacDonald and Executive Director William J. Smyth said USAC will continue its efforts "to assist in obtaining the fuel necessary for our racing schedule."

"One of the areas foremost in the public's mind will be the amount of fuel consumed by leisure time activities," they said. "This includes travel, recreational activities and sporting events.

"Our goal is to make sure that all leisure time activities are considered equally and fairly by the public."

MacDonald and Smyth said USAC is continuing to investigate the feasibility of reducing horsepower, speed and possibly costs.

They reported that a new 355-cubic inch Chevrolet engine has been completed and was tested recently. Furthermore, they said additional testing is being conducted in the area of turbocharged engine manifold pressure relief devices.

USAC previously adopted a number of safety measures to reduce the speed and horsepower of Indianapolis-type cars and anti-pollution requirements for stock cars.

Officials estimated a change in fuel limitations alone would cut the horsepower by about 25 per cent for championship-type cars.

They also reiterated a move to go to stock block engines—like the Chevrolet power plant—would be pursued in an effort to reduce the cost of that phase of racing.

Their eventual goal is for stock block engines to replace the four-cylinder Offenhauser and eight-cylinder Ford V8 plants, which are much more expensive.

Indian Dunes Grand Prix expects big field

VALENCIA — Grand Prix racing—a form of arduous competition for the motorcyclists, held on a long, all-terrain obstacle course—returns Sunday to Indian Dunes Park near Saugus.

Running under sanction from the National Racing Assn. of Riverside, the day-long program, beginning at 8 a.m., is expected to attract upwards of 600 riders, including many of the nation's better desert and motocross competitors, as the field engages in a series of 45-minute events on a five-mile track composed of steep downhills, water crossing and many high-speed jumps.

In what could furnish some of the day's closest riding battles, intermediates and experts in the 125, 250 and 500cc racing divisions are scheduled to zip into their conflicts at 1 p.m. The experts will be going for a share in the 100 percent payback of their entry money.

Anticipating another large turnout of both spectators and riders, front gates at the 'Dunes will open at 6:30 a.m General admission remains at $2 adults, $1 juniors (6—14), with no charge for kids and parking.

San Diego State gives women their equality

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Eligibility based on sex has been dropped from nine of 14 intercollegiate sports programs at San Diego State University.

Women will be allowed to compete with men for spots on teams in baseball, track, volleyball, tennis, golf, swimming, crew, gymnastics and cross-country, said Dr. Brage Golding, president of the University.

Women were not given equality in football, wrestling, soccer, basketball and water polo.

"Until further notice," Golding said in his announcement, "the selection of teams in competitive athletics will be made solely on the basis of ability in all sports except those regarded as 'high contact,' i.e., football, basketball, etc., activities."

The decision overrode recommendations of the women's and the men's athletic departments and the University's Athletics Authority. Golding said the move was tentative and subject to review in June.

Dr. Ken Karr, the school's athletic director, said the decision would "pose definite problems for intercollegiate athletics as we know them and for the women's programs, but he added the decision seemed "best . . . at this point."

"There are a lot of implications in this," Joan Whitby, women's athletic director, said. "I fear for our program. I think we need to have our own identification. I am afraid this could make ours a second-class program."

Laurel Brassey, 19, a blonde sophomore, triggered the question when she asked to be allowed to play varsity volleyball. As a skilled player, she was invited out for the men's team by coach Jack Henn.

Labarrere 3rd in Lobo records

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — University of New Mexico split receiver Paul Labarrere, a senior from Claremont, completed his Lobo career as the third leading receiver in New Mexico football history.

Damien High graduate Labarrere caught 35 passes for 793 yards in his three-year career, an average of 22.7 yards a catch for the highest total in the university's records.

Labarrere had 16 receptions this season for 374 yards, the third highest for a season in Lobo history, and three touchdowns, including a 73-yarder against New Mexico State.

Aerial whiz

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Sonny Jurgensen holds the Philadelphia Eagles single season passing yardage record with 3,723 in 1961. He completed 32 touchdown passes that year, another club record.

Daytona awaiting IROC showdown

RIVERSIDE — The heat races are history in the first International Race of Champions, and everyone agreed the three 75-mile runs at Riverside International Raceway last October provided some of the closest racing competition seen during the year.

Now the six winners, based on points earned at Riverside, head for Daytona International Speedway and the final race February 15.

The championship event will be 85 miles around Daytona's 3.81-mile road course for a purse of $75,000 with the winner getting $35,000. George Follmer, Bobby Unser, Mark Donohue, Peter Revson, David Pearson and A. J. Foyt are the six drivers who earned starting positions for the Daytona race.

The complete four-race series will be shown on ABC-TV on four consecutive weekends beginning Jan. 27. Goodyear is furnishing identical radial racing tires for all cars running in the series and will be a prime sponsor of the nationwide telecast.

George Follmer's performance in the first three IROC events should convince people the 39-year-old veteran is one of the world's most talented drivers.

Follmer tied with Bobby Unser for the most points in the three Riverside races with 29, but it was George who put on the show. He had a net gain of 23 positions in the three races while Bobby showed a gain of only 13.

Follmer's best showing came in the second race when he started in ninth spot and came on to win. In the first race he started 12th and finished fourth and in the third race he started 12th and finished fifth.

It surprised absolutely no one that Unser was USAC's big winner in the first three IROC events. Bobby improved his position in every race.

Unser started a little slow in the first race, moving from fifth to second for a gain of three positions. He got with the program in the last two, gaining five spots in each race. Bobby moved from 11th to sixth in the second race and seventh to second in the last one.

Seldom, if ever, has a race driver had a weekend such as Mark Donohue enjoyed at Riverside last Oct. 27-28. Donohue won two of the three IROC events run that weekend, won his sixth consecutive Can-Am race, was crowned Can-Am champion and announced his retirement as an active race driver.

Mark's last appearance in competition will be the final IROC race at Daytona, and many people think he will go out a winner.

The only blemish on his Riverside weekend came in the second IROC race when a sticking throttle forced him to the sidelines after only seven laps. He finished 12th in that race. The other two IROC races, and the Can-Am, were fairly easy victories for Donohue.

Mark's retirement as a driver does not mean he and Roger Penske are parting company. Donohue will continue in charge of the Penske racing operation, but as team manager instead of number one driver.

Peter Revson came out of the first three IROC events tied with Donohue with 25 points. Revson had a net gain of seven positions in the three races, with his best effort coming in the second race when he started 10th and finished fourth.

Peter dropped one spot in the first race going from second to third, and picked up two in the third race from ninth to seventh.

He has proven to one and all this year that given equal equipment he can run with the best. The final event in the IROC should be no exception.

NASCAR's representative in the IROC final is David Pearson, who had to overcome a disastrous finish in the first race to make the Daytona trip.

Pearson was going well in the first race, but a leaking transmission seal forced him to the sidelines after 28 laps with a ninth place finish.

A second place finish in the second race a drive from 11th to fourth in the third race gave David 24 points and a place in the final.

A. J. Foyt was a late arrival in the IROC, because he didn't think it was fair to ask the oval drivers to compete against the best road racers in the world in four road course events.

"I'm surprised Bobby, David and I came out so well," commented Foyt after the three races at Riverside. "For myself I just played it cool. I figured it would take more than 20 points to get to Daytona and that's the way I ran."

Well the Texan cut it pretty close, beating Formula I ace Emerson Fittipaldi out of the sixth spot by just one point, 22 to 21.

"Riverside was just the heat races," Foyt said, "now we're going to Daytona to run the feature. This is where the money is, and it's the one people will remember."

Squire selling pitching book

WALNUT — Ron Squire, former head baseball coach at Mt. San Antonio College, has purchased the rights to his book, "How to Develop the Successful Pitcher."

Squire, who coached MSAC to a state championship in 1965, reports he has copies of his book available at his home for $5.25 tax included.

"The book has been selling espcially well to parents who want to thelp their sons with pitching," Squire said. "Many of the area coaches also use it for their players and assistants."

Copies of the book are available by telephoning Squire at (714) 595-7889.

Bridge

When experts go, they go

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Experts don't make as many mistakes as ordinary players, but when they do go wrong they are apt to go wrong with a real bang. South was a bad player, but because he was a bad player he managed to fulfil his one spade contract with the aid of experts who sat East and West.

The defense started out nicely. West opened the jack of spades. South won and led his deuce of diamonds to East's ace. East could and should have returned a diamond to get a ruff, but for some reason best known to himself, East led his last trump.

Opening lead—J♠

South won and led his queen of diamonds. West put on his king and played the jack of hearts. East rose with the ace and led the deuce of clubs to West's ace.

West played another spade. South won and laid down his king of hearts which West ruffed. Now West pulled the last trump.

The defense had six tricks in and could get three more if West just led a club. East had discarded two hearts and hung on to all his clubs but that was too simple.

West was sure that South had started with only three diamonds so West led a low diamond. The ten was played from dummy. South was able to play low and there was dummy with three good heart tricks.

"Lucky I had four tricks for you" chortled North, but East and West were not amused.

What to do about bossy

By JEAN ADAMS

BOSSED: (Q.) I don't fool around with any other girls, but Beth seems to think I do. If I just talk to some other girl, she comes up and suggests we go somewhere else in a hurry.

Once we were at my house and the phone rang. She answered it and said, "He isn't here." Then she hung up. I found out later it was my lab partner calling me to tell me something I should know. What should I do — Suspected in Virginia.

(A.) Beth is not only monopolizing you — she is bossing you. She is exceeding the rights of a steady girl friend.

Tell her your phone calls and your conversations with other people belong to you, and she must recognize that fact.

If she refuses to do so, drop her.

CRITIC: (Comment) The straight-and-narrow, church-going attitude in your answers must be a delight to little, old ladies.

Recently you advised a girl to leave her boyfriend if he insisted on having sex with her.

At three leading universities, the conclusion of most sex researchers as to the cause of frustration in most married females was their inability to enjoy sex because of imbedded fears brought on by advice such as yours.

I cannot blame you alone, but for you to advise a stranger by your own orthodox teachings is wrong. Totally — 24 and Male in Alabama.

(A.) I believe a girl can grow up cool-headedly without being frozen. I believe the fears a teen-age girl experiences when she sleeps with her boy friend can cause more scars than continence might cause.

Fire marshal warns about storing gas

CARSON CITY Nev. (UPI) — State fire marshal Dan Quinan warns that storing gasoline in homes to combat the energy crisis is dangerous and in some cases illegal.

"Local ordinances in Carson City, Reno and Las Vegas for example, prohibit the storage of gasoline in amounts in excess of from two to six gallons and all containers must meet the state standards," he said.

"Service station owners and operators must be cautioned that dispensing gasoline in unapproved containers is illegal.

"Customers should be informed that storing drums of 55 gallons capacity can be a violation of city or county ordinances."

Legalizing of witchcraft draws columnist's wrath

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (UPI) — Prime Minister Forbes Burnham's proposal to legalize a popular local sorcery known as "obeah" has become the leading street-corner topic throughout the English-speaking Caribbean.

Among those who are, at least, not horrified by the proposal are, interestingly, the local leaders of the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches.

Among those who are horrified at the prospect of the open practice of witchcraft learned from African ancestors, is leading West Indian columnist Alister Hughes, who terms obeah "fraudulent and criminal".

The British systematically outlawed the practice of obeah among the slaves as soon as they were delivered to the West Indies, but the practice has survived clandestinely through 300 years, and is still known throughout the former British colonies.

Burnham's logic in proposing that obeah be legalized was simply that obeah is a part of the culture of the West Indian peoples just as much as the Christian rites, or in the case of Guyana and Trinidad, the Hindu rites.

He told a meeting of his People's National Congress party, the outlawing of obeah was an attempt by the British masters to cutrail "us culturally," and there was no reason for the independent Commonwealth Caribbean nations to perpetuate this degrading attitude toward their own culture.

"Both worhip and mysteries are part of people's lives, but it is made an offense to practice those things which come from our ancestors," Burnham said.

The Rev. Andrew Morrison, the Roman Catholic vicar general here, commented that he had nothing against the legalization of obeah.

"I don't believe the practice of obeah would harm the Church and it is good Guyanese should realize the fact that they should regain what they lost from their cultural heritage," Morrison said.

The opposition People's Progressive Party, which follows a scientific Marxist-Lenininst line, was appalled by Burnham's decision.

"In a century when science has made so many advances, when man has already walked on the moon, to go back to an era of superstition and denial of science and logic is nothing short of tragic," a party statement said.

The general secretary of the important Mahatma Gandhi Organization, Dr. Balwant Singh, also voiced opposition, saying, "The entire basis for the practice of obeah is ignorance and superstition with exploitation of the innocent and untutored by a few crafty and ruthless operators." More than half the 680,000 Guyanese are of East Indian descent.

Hughes, a Grenadian whose column appears in several Commonwealth Caribbean newspapers, described obeah as "sinister.".

His column opposing the legalization of the practice said, "The West Indians have any doubt as to the role of poison in obeah. It is an essential backup to the ritual mumbo jumbo directed by the obeahman against his victim".

In addition to poisoning victims, Hughes said, "It is a well known obeah belief that the heart of a child fed to a race horse will insure a win. That a cup of human blood taken in the right moon will produce beneficial results. And that the spirit of a man killed with a mounted stick remains the slave of the murderer forever."

On the island of Dominica, where obeah has perhaps remained strongest and where a number of recent police raids were conducted against alleged obeah houses, a government minister said there was no chance the local government would follow Burnham's lead.

In Barbados, considered one of the more sophisticated of the Commonwealth Caribbean nations, the daily Advocate-News editorialized:

"There might be some cause for amusement in people taking bush baths; mumbling certain rituals at cross roads, and what have you. But if at any stage these practices can lead to the endangering of the lives of other people, as did happen to the child who was killed in the Salt Pond Murder, we can well appreciate that beyond a point, obeah is not something with which we should trifle.

"Furthermore, we would hate to believe that we are so desperate for a cultural indentity that we would encourage people to literally turn to the devil in our frantic search," the editorial added.

MEETIN' & EATIN' AT BETSY ROSS

By Gene Neighbors

Hi, Neighbors,

FRED FREEHLING, director of Operations for Betsy Ross, gave a talk on Career Day to 7th and 8th graders of Sunflower Intermediate School in Glendora for SHARON DUNN's class. PAT SHILLITO, counselor, thought it a very enjoyable and profitable session for tthe students. Among those participating were DAVE BOULTING, GLORIA CHRISTENSEN, JOE CISNEROS, MIKE CLEARY, ROSEANNE CONKLIN, VERONICA COX, TOMMY DENNY, MARIA GIBBONS, DANNY HANCOCK, WENDY HILDEBRANDT, SUSAN HILL, HELEN HINSCHI, WENDY KRAWCZYK, BELINDA LANCASTER, FRANK MASTERINGOLA, AMY McWILLIAMS, PATTY MONTILEPRE, APRIL RIFFNER, VANCE RUDZIK, RICHARD SILVA, RANDY SMITH, DAVID THEILEN, and LORI WILLIAMSON. Future restauranteurs, perhaps?

The Montclair Mobile Park group, which meets at Pomona Valley Center Betsy Ross when one of them has a birthday, were in to celebrate another last Wednesday.

Last Thursday, a reward trip for the 6th period class of MRS. PRISCILLA COONS for accomplishments in the class, was hosted at Pomona Valley Center by MRS. COONS, and principal JOHN GRIFILLAN, of Serrano Jr. High in Montclair. Honored were DANNY BEAN, GUY DUNN, ROLAND FOLEY, GEORGE HERNANDEZ, RONALD JOHNSON, STEVEN JOHNSTON, and JANES YBARRA. Congratulations, class; we're proud.

On December 5th, the daytime employees of the Coffee Shoppe in Upland held their Christmas Party. Also feted for lunch there were CANDY COOK, recently returned from several weeks in Europe, her mother JANE, and a lifetime friend, CHERYL CABAIS. MISS COOK related that while waiting for a bus in Frankfort, Germany, she overheard an American voice wish for a good ole Betsy Ross Banana Split. Naturally curious on hearing our name so far from home, she discovered that it was PROFESSOR and MRS. ABBOTT of MSAC. Mr. Abbott had been on the staff at Emerson Jr. High at the same time she attended there.

If you're lookin' for a beautiful, mouth-waterin' dessert for those holiday luncheons and parties you plan to give, try our Snowballs at $1.10 a box. They are pretty to serve and just as delicious to eat OR treat your family!

Smile — it's less tiring.

MONKEYING AROUND — Saul Kahan, a Webb School graduate (1956), makes his acting debut opposite a whimsical ape-man in "Schlock," a monster comedy opening today at Cinema I, Montclair, and other Southern California theaters. Ape-suited John Landis also directed the production. Kahan plays a detective.

'Schlock'

Webb graduate stars in monster comedy film

MONTCLAIR — Webb School graduate Saul Kahan stars in the monster comedy, "Schlock," opening today at Cinema I and other Southland theaters.

Kahan, who graduated from Webb in 1956, makes his acting debut as Detective Sgt. Wino. He plays a dedicated, harassed police officer who is assigned to hunt down the title creature, a lethal but lovable ape-man.

Executive producer and editor of the picture is George Folsey Jr., a Pomona College graduate of 1961.

Kahan, a 35-year old resident of West Los Angeles, usually works as a film publicist. He has worked in Europe and the United States on films such as "The Yellow Submarine", "Charlotte's Web", "The Damned", and the recently completed "Zandy's Bride" starring Gene Hackman and Liv Ullmann. He is currently working on Paramount's "Chinatown" starring Jack Nicholson, Faye Dunaway, and John Huston.

Kahan's involvement with films stems right back to his days at Webb, where he was an enthusiastic member of the movie committee that chose film fare for the Saturday night shows.

After Webb, he studied English literature at Pomona College and then got his B.A. in English and theater Arts at UCLA. He went on to get an M.A. in English at the University of Chicago, where he was a member of the Documentary Film Group and publicity director for the 1964 Midwest Film Festival.

Kahan and Folsey met at Pomona and have been filmgoing friends ever since. Last year Folsey produced his first feature "Glass Houses." He is now cutting the "Shaft" TV series.

In "Schlock" Kahan follows a trail of banana peels that led him to the killer ape-man. He handcuffs the monster in a face-to-face encounter and attempts to lure Schlock out of a house by disguising himself as a female gorilla.

"I never expected to get on the action side of the camera" says Kahan, who played only a few pre-"Schlock" bit parts in films he was publiciczing. He was talked into taking a lead role in "Schlock" by the movie's 21-year old writer-director John Landis, a friend and fellow film buff.

Landis and Kahan met in Yugoslavia on location for a war comedy called "Kelly's Heroes" starring Clint Eastwood. Kahan was publicizing the picture, and Landis was working on the crew. Eastwood's action double was James C. O'Rourke, later to be the producer of "Schlock".

Years later the three met again in Los Angeles. Landis and O'Rourke, inspired and exasperated by the inanity of monster movies, decided to make their own feature. Kahan went along as publicist, stills photographer, investor, and — after a little persuasion — actor.

The color feature was filmed in 16 days on locations in Agoura, in the San Fernando Valley. Landis himself played the title role of the Missing Link (Schlocktrhropus). He explores Southern California, gets interviewed on TV, goes to a monster movie, and falls in love, a la King Kong, with teen-age beauty Eliza Garrett.

"Schlock" won the first prize at this year's Science-Fiction Film Festival in Trieste, Italy. Lanids has shown films clips on the Johnny Carson Show and has been profiled in World magazine.

Landis describes "Schlock" as an amiable monster movie aimed primarily at children and teen-agers.

Kahan's cousins, Marvin and Shirley Abrams and their two children, live in Pomona, where Marvin is chief of advanced manufacturing technology at General Dynamics and Shirely is active in community work.

Mild winters seen for East

BOSTON (UPI) — The eastern portion of the nation may get some help from Mother Nature during the nation's fuel crisis.

A professor of meteorology at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology says he expects mild winters over the eastern two-thirds of the nation because of sunspot cycles.

Prof. Hurd C. Willett said that, "According to the climatic evidence that I have gathered, I would expect in the eastern two-thirds of the country—where the bulk of the winter fuel use is concentrated — that these next three winters would very definitely tend to be warmer than normal.

"I would epxect that those winter months (December, January and February) during the next three years to average maybe two or three degrees warmer than normal and that would be quite significant from the point of fuel consumption."

Willett said his [illegible] based on probabil[illegible] piled from 70 [illegible] of research into cyclomatic solar conditions and compared with the climates.

WAC Joyce Kutsch, 19, of Sarver, Pa., looks down a long line of 82nd Division Airborne GIs Tuesday as she and WAC Rita Johnson, not shown, get their final briefing aboard a C141 Army jet transport before becoming the first of their sex to make the jump in airborne combat training.

Latest energy plan to mean less gas and higher prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration today proposed new fuel allocations regulations that would result in less gasoline and higher prices for the consumer.

The proposed regulations, announced by new energy chief William E. Simon, call for an increase in production of distillates such as home heating oil, petrochemicals, and residual fuel oil that is used by power plants.

The new mandatory program, supplementing an incentive program announced last week, would cut back gasoline output by an estimated 15 per cent and raise heating oil 8 or 9 cents a gallon and gasoline 6 or 7 cents a gallon.

The proposed rules are scheduled to take effect Dec. 27. They were prepared for publication in the Federal Register. The proposals are not final but probably will take this general form when put into effect after allowing time for public comment.

Under the proposals, a priority of users will be established. Emergency services such as fire and police departments, public transportation, agriculture and fuel production will get 100 per cent of their requirements. Other users will get about 90 per cent. All specifics of the proposal were not immediately disclosed, but the Washington Star-News said these were among its elements:

—A cutback in gasoline output by 15 per cent at the refinery level, plus an additional 10 per cent at the gasoline pump.

—Electric utilites will have to bear the shortages in heavy heating oils, possibly necessitating power cutbacks, especially in the Northeast.

—Big domestic air carriers would be allotted 95 per cent of their 1972 use until Jan. 7 and 85 per cent after that. Small regional airlines would get 95 per cent until Jan. 7 and 90 per cent afterwards and international carriers would receive 100 per cent until Jan. 7 and 85 per cent after.

—An equitable sharing of all available fuel with requirements that prices charged be uniform for all users.

The regulations provide for no gasoline rationing but since the rules cover distribution from producer to wholesaler to gasoline station, the gas available to the consumer will be affected.

Simon stressed the allocations "were not rationing but a system to assure equitable distribution at the wholesale level."

City school trustees break tradition, vote to pay themselves for meetings

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — By a 4-1 vote, Pomona school board members Tuesday decided to pay themselves $30 for each meeting they attend, to a maximum of $200 a month, beginning Jan. 1.

This is the first time in the history of the Pomona Unified School District that school board members will receive compensation for their services.

The motion to approve the recommendation, made by the administration under guidelines of new state legislation (AB 1489), was voiced by Roy O. Day and seconded by Ken Pine.

Phil Wessels cast the lone no vote.

Supt. Robert E. Wentz said that based on the average number of meetings held the past three years, the $30-per-meeting payment to board members should cost the district between $5,000 and $6,000 a year.

He said the board had been holding an average of three meetings a month, two of which were regular, open board meetings. The remainder were study sessions, seminars or personnel or executive sessions.

The amount of money allowed as payment to school board members under AB 1489 is determined by their district's average daily attendance. It ranges from a high of $75 a meeting in districts with over 400,000 ADA, down to between $10 and $60 a meeting in districts from 150 to 1,000 ADA.

Pomona falls into the over 10,000, but under 25,000 ADA category. Thirty dollars per meeting is the maximum allowable in this classification.

Approval of payment followed a brief discussion during which board member Don Donnelly suggested putting off action until more "grassroots" reaction could be obtained.

Day disagreed, saying it was just a matter of someone having the courage to make the motion and he said, "I'll take that liberty."

Board member Pine commented that nearly everyone he had talked to on the matter thought school board members already were being paid for their services.

Wessels did not explain why he opposed board members receiving payment. Dr. James Bell, board president, made no comment except to call for the vote.

Justice Department decides to investigate Kent St. slayings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After three years, the Justice Department has decided to impanel a federal grand jury to investigate the 1970 slaying of four students at Kent State University by Ohio National Guardsmen.

J. Stanley, Pottinger, assistant attorney general in charge of the civil rights division, said the grand jury would be convened Dec. 18 in Cleveland and would act as an investigative body.

But he said the action did not mean that the government had decided to seek indictments.

The May 4, 1970, slayings occurred on the Kent State campus during a wave of campus protest around the nation following the U.S. invasion of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong sanctuaries in Cambodia.

The students, two women and two men, were unarmed and several hundred yards from a group of guardsmen who had been called to the campus in the wake of the burning of an ROTC building.

A state grand jury returned no indictments against authorities and cleared the guard and state officials of wrongdoing. But it did return indictments against a number of students and other persons for inciting the disturbances.

$2.6 billion aid for Israel voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has voted to allocate $2.6 billion in new military and economic assistance to Israel. Most of the funds would be used to replace military arms lost by Israel during the recent Mideast War.

The aid was approved Tuesday as part of a $5.8 billion foreign aid appropriation bill, the largest such measure since the Korean War.

Tempers flare over Nixon tax issue in state

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The Republican chairman of the state Franchise Tax Board said today President Nixon's California income tax status is still a live issue and the President eventually may have to make back payments.

"Unless the President releases us from confidentiality, you won't know whether we ultimately assess him or don't assess him," state Controller Houston I. Flournoy told newsmen.

At an angry meeting Tuesday, Flournoy and fellow GOP board member Verne Orr, state director of finance, killed an attempt by Democratic member William M. Bennett to find that Nixon owes past California taxes.

"So now we have a coverup in the state of California as well," Bennett shouted, accusing Nixon of a "deliberate evasion" of state income taxes.

Bennett told Flournoy after the meeting, "If we can't settle it here, let's go outside and settle it."

Later, Martin Huff, the board's executive officer, implied to newsmen that his staff was investigating the President's tax status when he told them, "We look at every case, believe me, and our record shows that."

He had declined to state this publicly to the board, which angered Bennett.

Flournoy, a GOP candidate for governor next year, said the issue "will continue to be looked at, but this is the end of it as far as Bennett's nonsense is concerned."

"The President in some way may ultimately have some tax liability but we're not going to resolve it by some guy accusing him of tax evasion," he said. "I'm confident the staff is not unaware of what is going on and it will be reviewed in the same manner and terms as any other tax matter."

The White House disclosed last weekend that Nixon, who maintains a voting residence at his San Clemente villa and who pays property taxes there, did not pay state income taxes since he became President in 1969.

Fog covers area, closes OIA and ends heat wave

The unseasonal heat wave of the past four days ended abruptly this morning as marine air blanketed the Pomona Valley with fog.

The National Weather Service office in Riverside expects foggy conditions to continue in the late night and early morning hours at least through Friday.

A storm which moved through the area Tuesday brought high cloudiness and replaced a high pressure system that had produced a Santa Ana wind condition.

Ontario International Airport closed its runways at 12:56 a.m. Departing passengers were bused into airports at Burbank and Los Angeles.

FDA aid sought in can label warning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A coalition of consumer groups joined with 31 members of Congress today to ask the Food and Drug Administration to require a new kind of warning on food labels.

It would read: "Warning: Unlabeled ingredients contained in this product."

Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., who is coordinating the FDA petition with Consumers Union and the other groups, said such a warning is needed because food manufacturers are now required to list only certain ingredients and fail to disclose other "often dangerous," or controversial, contents.

Fog triggers seven-vehicle pileup; 2 hurt

Seven vehicles, including three large trucks, were involved in a series of collisions on the Pomona Freeway near Grove Avenue in the Ontario area, early today after heavy fog had limited visibility to less than 100 feet.

Only one person, however, was injured seriously enough to be hospitalized. Toni Lynn Imes, 15, of 10189 Tudor St., Montclair, a passenger, was admitted to San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland with a fractured leg. Her condition today is good.

Traffic was blocked for several hours until highway patrolmen could remove the damaged vehicles.

The series of accidents began when a van driven by William Eugene Simmons of Fontana swerved to avoid a slower moving truck in front of him, but nipped an edge of the trailer, said officers.

The impact caused the van to overturn and it landed in the freeway's two middle lanes. At this time, James Imes of Montclair came upon the accident scene. His sedan struck the overturned van, pushing it into another lane.

The van was struck a second time by a truck-trailer and shoved into the fast lane.

These damaged vehicles were then struck by another truck, two pickups and a sedan.

Simmons declined medical attention at the accident scene, but later went to a hospital complaining of a head injury, investigators noted.

Simmons' van and Imes' sedan were demolished. Both trucks in the initial collision had minor damage.

The truck drivers were Jimmy Nichols of Whittier, Ronald Huston of Exeter and Robert Powell of La Puente. Sahag Housepain of San Bernardino and Michael Kelly of Whittier were both driving pickups.

Strike threat hovers over RTD operation

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Some 700 mechanics Tuesday threatened to walk off their jobs Saturday if the Southern California Rapid Transit District refuses to accept pension recommendations from a special commission named by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Union officials said a walkout of mechanics would stop bus operation, affecting more than 450,000 persons who use the 1,500 RTD buses in Los Angeles and parts of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

Jerome C. Long, president of the Amalgamated Transit Union Division 1277, said negotiations have "already gone on for more than a year and a half.

"While the special factfinding commission named by the governor did not recommend all that the union requested, in the interest of public service, our members have agreed to accept the Reagan committee's recommendation," he said.

An RTD spokesman said "We are willing and plan to meet with the union around the clock if necessary to avert a strike."

The special three-man commission which made the pension recommendations entered the picture last year when the union and management were deadlocked on a pension plan dispute.

The RTD refused a union suggestion to let a neutral third party arbitrate the issue so Reagan named a three-member commission to investigate and make recommendations.

Long said talks with management looked dismal and that his union would not accept anything less than the compromise recommended by Reagan's special commission.

Russians promising more food, housing

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government announced today a record budget for 1974 and promised its citizens more consumer goods, housing and food on the table next year.

Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov told the Supreme Soviet (parliament) the budget would reach $259.9 billion, up more than 6 per cent from 1973.

He said defense spending would total $23.5 billion, down slightly from this year. But Western military experts regard the announced defense figure as meaningless. They say the real figure may be triple that amount, with defense funds concealed in heavy industry and other sectors of the budget.

Minister needs extra measure of prayer in disarming bomb

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UPI) — A Baptist minister who also works as a state explosive expert turned to prayer when police asked him to disarm a bomb made by a mental patient.

"This was the first bomb I actually disarmed, fully took apart," the Rev. William E. Davis, 48, pastor of the First Baptist Church in nearby Bridgeville and an inspector with the Pensylvania Division of Explosives, said Tuesday. "Of course, prayer was my first thought in that I'd be guided in the right direction."

Police called Davis to the home of William Blue recently after Blue reported his son, Charles, 26, had telephoned from Mayview State Hospital to say a bomb was hidden in their home.

Officers said Charles, an Army demolitions expert in Vietnam, apparently concealed the explosive before his arrest two months ago on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest and subsequent transfer to Mayview for psychiatric examination.

Davis said the bomb was "well constructed" of gunpowder, bullets, cassette tapes, plastic cigarette boxes, steel wool and automotive wire—but no detonator.

"It could have been a very dangerous thing had it been detonated," said Davis, who disarmed the bomb in the street. "It was a harrowing kind of experience. I think this is where the power of prayer and faith comes in."

Nixon counterattacks, vows tape summaries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon plans to make public soon summaries or transcripts of what he believes are the relevant portions of his subpoenaed Watergate tapes.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig told a Republican Policy Committee meeting Tuesday that transcripts of relevant portions of the tapes and other supportive documentation would be made public in a "relatively short time."

Ken W. Clawson, the President's deputy director of communications, later confirmed the report, but he used the word "summaries" instead of "transcripts."

Tower, chairman of the policy committee, said that in the "hair down" closed-door session, Haig also told GOP senators he did not know of any more "bombshells" that would surface. That was the same assurance Nixon gave GOP governors in Memphis last month. Some of the governors were critical the following day when the 18-minute hum in a Watergate tape was disclosed.

Tower said, "They plan to get out as much explanation as possible" to refute allegations against the President. White House aides said a team of nine lawyers and researchers are gathering secret documents for release, some dealing with controversial campaign contributions by the dairy industry and International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. during the last campaign, and with transactions with billionaire Howard Hughes.

The administration had hoped to release this information before Congress goes home for the Christmas-New Year's holidays. But one aide said they "won't be able to make that deadline."

In related developments:

—Congress' Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation is meeting today to discuss procedure for reviewing President Nixon's tax returns. Nixon invited this review when he made the returns public last weekend.

—Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., said Tuesday that a two-month study by his staff indicates President Nixon had no legal basis for a $576,000 deduction for donating his vice presidential papers to the National Archives. Weicker gave the 11-page staff report to the Internal Revenue Service.

—The House Judiciary Committee's inquiry on whether grounds exist to impeach the President appears unlikely to move forward until January. Republicans loyal to Nixon want to get the inquiry over with as soon as possible so it doesn't drag into the 1974 congressinal election campaigns. Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., not a committee member, proposed holiday sessions, but his wish was not likely to be granted.

—Sirica turned over to prosecutors taped conversations between Nixon and former aide John W. Dean III after listening to them and deciding they did not involve national security.

Small car prices hiked

American cars still have price advantage over foreign makes

DETROIT (UPI) — Despite price increases of $150 on their hot-selling small cars, U.S. automakers still have a price advantage over foreign competition.

Price increases were held to $150 on the small cars, but Ford said the average increase on its entire line of cars would average $192. Chrysler Tuesday said its prices would be "in the same ballpark as Ford's."

American Motors said it would not increase prices more than $150 and General Motors still had not released its figures, but was expected to be in the same range.

Even at its new price tag of $2,442, the subcompact two-door Ford Pinto still is priced below all but one or two small foreign cars. The Volkswagen standard two-door sedan is priced at $2,625 and Toyota's Corolla 1600 is tagged at $2,479.

The Datsun HLB210, smaller than the Pinto, has a base price of $2,245; the Swedish-built SAAB carries a tag of $4,898 for its cheapest model; the Japanese Subaru is $2,598 for the base two-door sedan; and the Toyota 1200 two-door sedan is one of the lowest at $2,099.

Importers have been hurt by the changing value of the U.S. dollar, which has caused price increase ranging from 4 to 12 per cent this year. But foreign car dealers say they're still unable to meet the demand, especially since the energy crisis worsened.

Wayne Kaufman, at Deskin Toyota in Rockville, Md., says "people are swarming in here to get our 1974 models. Many of them want to trade in their bigger cars."

A suburban Detroit VW dealer said the latest increases should send some more customers in because the difference isn't as great.

Before the Cost of Living Council (CLC) exempted automakers from wage-price controls in exchange for a pledge for no further increases in the 1974 model year, U.S. companies had an even great price margin.

If there is no "unforseen major economic event," U.S. automakers have pledged not to seek further increases until the 1975 models are introduced next September. Chrysler refused to agree to that pledge, saying it will be difficult to determine what is an "unforeseen major economic event."

Kissinger stopover in Algeria

LONDON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today extended his Middle East tour to include Algeria and made substantial progress towards mending frayed Anglo-American relations, U.S. and British officials said.

A spokesman for Kissinger said he will meet with Algerian President Houari Boumedienne and Foreign Minister Abdel Aziz Boutelike during a brief stopover in Algiers Thursday en route to Cairo, which was to have been the first stop of his Middle East tour.

The spokesman would say only that Kissinger would discuss "questions of mutual interest" in Algiers, a reference that could only mean the Middle East crisis and ways of achieving lasting peace in the area.

The announcement of the Algiers stopover came before Kissinger emerged from a one hour and 40 minute conference with British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home at the Foreign Office.

A Foreign Office spokesman said the talks were "free from recrimination, were positive and constructive and the Anglo-American relationship emerged strengthened."

"The talks took the form of a friendly and forwardlooking exchange of views," the spokesman said.

The spokesman said Kissinger and Douglas-Home agreed on "further consultation measures" to avoid future misunderstandings between United States and Britain. He did not elaborate.

Germany, Czechs ink nonaggression treaty, establish diplomatic relations

PRAGUE (UPI) — West Germany and Czechoslovakia put their "woeful past" behind today and began a new era in relations aimed at solving the problems of the present.

West German Chancellor Willy Brandt went into meetings with top Czech officials today after the two nations Tuesday established diplomatic relations and signed a six-point non-aggression treaty.

Brandt told a news conference today that West Germany would establish diplomatic relations with Bulgaria and Hungary "within the next few days."

Brandt scheduled talks with Communist leader Gustav Husak and Premier Lubomir Strougal to discuss "substantive issues" such as European security and the status of West Berlin, German officials said.

The treaty signed Tuesday nullified the 1938 Munich Agreement that ceded Czechoslovakia's western provinces to Nazi Germany. The preamble said West Germany and Czechoslovakia "will put an end, once and for all, to the woeful past in their relations."

The signing ceremony in the flood-lit reception hall of Czernin Palace also marked the beginning of the last phase of Brandt's "Ostpolitik" Eastern policy aimed at normalizing West Germany's relations with its Communist neighbors.

Brandt, who won the 1971 Nobel peace prize for his drive toward detente with the East, signed similar non-aggression treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland in 1970, followed by an agreement with East Germany last year.

Bulgaria and Hungary, the only two East European countries still without diplomatic ties with Bonn, have said they would endorse similar treaties after the Prague accord.

In a television address following the treaty ceremony, Brandt said, "We have improved the possibility to bear the responsibility for our interests, including the interests of the people of West Berlin in accordance with the four-power agreement."

The four-power Berlin agreement, signed in 1971 by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union, defined the status of the divided city, giving West Germany responsibility over the inhabitants of West Berlin.

Extensive probe on Nixon taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress' Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation decided today to examine every aspect of President Nixon's federal income taxes from 1969 through 1972 and not confine it to the two questions Nixon proposed.

In making public his tax records last weekend, Nixon asked the House-Senate panel to examine his deductions for the gift of vice presidential papers to the nation and whether he should have paid a capital gains tax on the sale of some of his San Clemente, Calif. property.

During a two-hour closed meeting today, the committee decided to "look at every aspect of his return for those years," according to Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, the comittee chairman.

Mills made public Nixon's Dec. 8 letter requesting the investigation. It appeared to ask the panel to limit itself to the "two tax-related items" (which) may continue to be a subject of continuing public questioning."

The letter added, "In the event that the committee determines that the items were incorrectly reported, I will pay whatever tax may be due."

Some experts have calculated the President and Mrs. Nixon would owe about $300,000 in back taxes and penalties if the two questioned items are disallowed.

One is a $235,000 tax saving resulting from the donation of papers for which Nixon took a $576,000 deduction. Mills said the committee would seek to find out if the donation was made before or after the July 25, 1969, deadline set when such deductions by public figures were disallowed in tax reform legislation that year.

Another issue is whether Nixon owed capital gains taxes on profit from the sale of land adjacent to his San Clemente home.

Mills said hearings may be required on the President's tax returns because "there are some facts in dispute" and he said the group could not possibly finish its inquiry by the end of this year.

MSAC radio station to hold open house

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College's new FM radio station, KSAK, will hold open house Thursday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Events will include guided tours of the studio in Room 301 of the Social Science Center.

According to Howard Peth, adviser for the station, programming will begin Jan. 2 on 90.1 after final approval by the Federal Communications Commission.

Woolworth fire looks more like arson; warning issued

POMONA — Investigation of the cause of the $350,000 fire at the F. W. Woolworth Co. store on the Pomona Mall continued today with evidence pointing more strongly toward arson.

Fire Chief John Fowlkes asked merchants in the downtown area to be "more alert, more observant, and to report anything suspicious" to the fire or police departments.

He said his men saw connections between Tuesday's fire — the largest of the year in the city — and perhaps six others that were set along the Mall during the past six months.

"The surest way to prevent the outbreak of any further fires," he said, "is for everyone to be on the lookout for them, and to report any activities that are out of the ordinary."

Fire Inspector Tom Fee said additional evidence this morning substantiated his early finding that the fire was set by hand.

"We are now sure that the fire broke out at multiple locations," he said. "It was set at more than one place in the store. We are following up several leads. It takes time."

Fire on carrier Kitty Hawk kills 6, injures 38

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Fire broke out aboard the carrier USS Kitty Hawk at sea Tuesday, killing six crewmen and injuring 38, the Navy said.

The ship was about 700 miles east of the Philippines, steaming for Vietnam, when fire broke out in the main machinery room, according to a spokesman for the Pacific Fleet.

The blaze occured almost eight years to the day after a similar fire and in the same place. On Dec. 6, 1965, a fire in the main machinery room killed two crewmen and injured 29.

"The Kitty Hawk is still capable of performing its assigned mission. No vital functioning equipment was damaged," said Pacific Fleet headquarters in Honolulu.

The Kitty Hawk left San Diego Nov. 23, on its first voyage to Vietnamese waters since a race riot aboard the ship 14 months ago. After the fire, it was ordered to return to Subic Bay, in the Philippines, the Navy said.

The cause of the fire was not known. Four of the injured suffered minor burns and 34 minor smoke inhalation, the Navy said.

The names of the dead were withheld until their families have been notified.

The Kitty Hawk is 1,062 feet long, weighs 80,000 tons and carries 5,500 men. It is the flag ship of Rear Adm. Donald C. Davis.

In two days of fighting between white and black crewmen in October of last year, 46 men were injured. At that time it was also heading for Vietnamese waters from Subic Bay. Charges were brought against 29 crewmen, of whom 17 were convicted.

Face shot off in war, ex-GI's plight finally draws attention

CHICAGO (UPI) — Leroy Bailey's "face was shot off" in the Vietnam war in 1968.

For five years he survived on a liquid diet in a world of blindness, with little hope things would get better and no help from the Veterans Administration.

Then Pulitzer Prize winning columnist Mike Royko wrote about Bailey's plight and the veteran suddenly got action— from President Nixon.

An administration spokesman said the President became "quite angry" when he read Royko's column in the Chicago Daily News Tuesday. Nixon ordered VA Administrator Donald Johnson "to get this boy in a hospital."

Bailey, 26, was promptly admitted to Hines VA Hospital west of Chicago for whatever treatment he needs.

"I'm amazed at how quickly things can get changed around," said Bailey's brother, Eldon, who has housed him since they gave up on getting assistance from the VA two years ago.

"We've been living this way for two years," he said.

Following the 1968 explosion, Bailey underwent a series of operations at Hines VA Hospital for three years, then was told the VA could do nothing to help him.

But there was still something Bailey wanted—to be able to eat solid foods. He met a doctor who said she could make it possible.

The VA refused to pay the surgical fees, saying Bailey was not seeking treatment for a "service-connected disability."

Bailey went back to his brother's basement, where he knits wool hats and listens to the radio or a tape player, and continued to feed himself with a large syringe which squirts liquid foods into the hole where his mouth used to be.

"One of his (Leroy's) friends happened to meet one of Royko's assistants and they agreed to do a story on him," Eldon said. "Now the VA does find out that the injury was service-connected."

Eldon, 33, said "all I'm hoping for is that Leroy can get fixed so he can eat solid foods again. As long as those things get accomplished that's what counts".

Eldon added, however, that his brother had not give up hope on someday having his face reconstructed.

"In civilian prices in civilian hospitals, I would say it would cost $200,000 or $300,000," he said. "But the VA—it doesn't cost them so much. They've brought in top specialists.

Sole air crash survivor dies after 19-week fight for life

BOSTON (UPI) — Leopold Chouinard, who became engaged to wed the night before becoming the sole survivor of a Delta DC9 passenger plane crash, has lost his 19-week battle for life.

Chouinard, 20, Marshfield, Vt., died Tuesday night at Massachusetts General Hospital of complications resulting from "extensive and severe burns," according to a hospital spokesman.

The Air Force sergeant suffered third degree burns on 80 per cent of his body when a Delta jetliner crashed July 31 in dense fog on an approach to Logan International Airport. Killed in the crash were 88 persons.

He was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital where he remained in critical condition while extensive and elaborate treatment was begun to save his life. Shortly after he arrived at the hospital doctors amputated his legs because of extensive burns.

Chouinard became engaged the night before his departure on Delta's Flight 723. He left Burlington, Vt., for Boston enroute to Alaska, after a 30-day military leave.

His fiance, Brenda Newton, 19, who visited Chouinard often, said following the crash, "I love him. I can care for him forever." Brenda came to Boston last week as Chouinard's condition worsened.

Two La Villita proposals made; one for $75 million

POMONA — Two groups, each seeking selection as the developer for the multi-million dollar La Villita development in downtown Pomona, submitted tentative proposals Tuesday night to the Community Revelopment Commission for different and much larger projects.

The commission called for a special meeting next Tuesday at 7 a.m. at the Heritage House Coffee Shop, 1767 N. Garey Ave., for further consideration of the proposals.

A study envisions La Villita as a recreational, cultural, commercial and residential complex with a Mexican theme on 13 acres bounded by Garey, and Monterey avenues, Palomares Street and the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks.

But the two groups, Caesar C. Cantu and Associates, and the Spanish Speaking Management ând Construction Corp., said the 13 acres are not enough.

Rudy V. Linan, president of SSMACC, and Nat Winecoff, member of the same development team and former vice president of Disneyland, spoke in terms of an International Village concept on considerably more acreage with the project costing about $75 million.

Linan said the group also would be interested in other proposed projects downtown, such as a hotel and transportation center.

Linan said financing was available and expressed SSMACC's willingness to work with the city before boundary lines are established.

SSMACC's concept involves a number of villages, each representing a different country or historical period, with waterways, restaurants, and tourist attractions, with La Villita becoming one of the elements of the overall development.

Cantu saw La Villita as a trade center and as a nucleus of a complex that would include 400 stores, apartment housing, and a park.

He said a corporation is being formed that will include experts and professionals in the fields of architecture, engineering, construction and administration.

Cantu said the first phase alone would cost about $9 million.

Both groups each asked to be given an exclusive right of development to give them time to come up with more firm and detailed proposals.

Supervisor Hahn gets elusive chairmanship

LOS ANGELES — Supervisor Kenneth Hahn of Los Angeles who for more than two decades aspired to become chairman of the Board of Supervisors, was named to that post by his colleagues unanimously Tuesday.

KENNETH HAHN

He succeeds Supervisor Peter F. Schabarum of Covina, who has represented the First District, including the Pomona area, for the past two years and who served as chairman during the past year.

Despite his desire to become chairman, Hahn had refused the office last week when it became apparent that he would only win by a 3 to 2 margin.

Tuesday, the matter of the chairmanship was brought up once more at the weekly meeting of the board, when Schabarum noted that the supervisors had "failed to act positively" the week before and that the task was still before them.

"I am still sitting as chairman of the board as a result of no action last week," he reminded the board. "This is not a good or correct situation."

His comments precipitated the reopening of nominations and Hahn was the only nominee to the chairmanship. Scharbarum then wished him well.

Hahn represents the Second District, which takes in the central and much of the south Los Angeles area, including Carson, Hawthorne, Inglewood and Culver City.

Claremonter dies from crash injuries

POMONA — A Claremont woman died here Tuesday of injuries she suffered in a three-car traffic collision Monday.

The victim, Virginia Machesky, 48, 533 Guilford Ave., died Tuesday in the intensive care unit of Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Mrs. Machesky had suffered a skull fracture and injuries to her abdomen and pelvis.

She was the 16th person to die in accidents on city streets this year.

Mrs. Machesky was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Aloysisus Machesky, 48. Police said the vehicle was eastbound in Arrow Highway when it entered the intersection with Garey Avenue, hit a southbound car driven by Gayle L. Burhus, 22, 650 Clark St., and spun into a car driven by Thomas L. Bergstrom, 24, 5045 Orchard Avenue, Montclair.

Machesky suffered a head injury, broken ribs and a leg injury and was reported in good condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Miss Burhus was released after treatment following the accident.

ONTARIO — A 33-year-old Upland man suffered a head injury Tuesday morning in a collision in front of the Thunderbird Bowling Alley at 1333 N. Mountain Avenue, police reported.

John O'Neil of 705 Camphor Way, Upland, was taken to Kaiser's Fontana Hospital by ambulance for treatment of a head laceration. He was later released from the hospital.

Girl hurt crossing Pomona street

POMONA — A 15-year-old girl was injured slightly Tuesday afternoon when she was hit by a car while she was crossing Garey Avenue south of Lexington Avenue.

The girl, Linda Joy Thompson, 2051 Pinehurst Place, was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where she was treated.

The driver of the car was John A. Morrison, 16, 2507 S. Titus Ave. He said Linda was the last of two girls to attempt to cross the street ahead of his car.

Two men rob Pomona market

POMONA — Two men, one gesturing as if he had a gun in his pocket, robbed the 7-11 Market at 2280 S. Garey Ave. early Tuesday morning. The pair forced clerk David L. Plumb, 29, to lie on the floor after putting cash in a paper sack. Police believe the pair may have escaped on a motorcycle.

Wind and rain hit Washington

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Winds gusting to 75 miles an hour along with heavy, pounding rain battered western Washington Tuesday, scattering boats at anchor and flooding some coastal towns.

The Evergreen Point Bridge across Lake Washington between Seattle and Bellevue was closed to allow highway engineers to assess damage caused by the pounding waves.

On the southwestern coast, high tides whipped by the winds flooded much of Raymond and sections of South Bend. Water reached depths of up to four feet in the streets of the two towns.

Widow gives up fight to keep land

LORDSBURG, N.M. (UPI) — Rita Hill, the 71-year-old widow who went to jail instead of surrendering her land to the Highway Department, said today she gave up her fight and accepted freedom because of her health.

The frail, 100-pound woman spent 18 days in Hidalgo County jail for refusing to vacate a small shack she built last August in the path of an interchange on her land in southwestern New Mexico.

She was freed Monday night after agreeing not to interfere with the construction project on Interstate 10. If she hadn't stipulated her noninterference, she would have remained in her cell.

"For over two years I have fought the New Mexico Highway Department in its greedy, land-grabbing ways," Mrs. Hill said. "Now I must admit defeat and allow them to take the property which they decided to take."

She said failing health was the major factor in her decision to leave jail.

"I went to see a doctor while I was in jail and he told me my blood pressure was down. I was worried my health would get worse if I stayed any longer."

Mrs. Hill said she would accept the $29,966 the highway department agreed earlier to pay her for the 59 acres of land it condemned for the interchange.

Santa given okay to land helicopter

CLAREMONT — The City Council Tuesday night granted Santa Claus permission to land by helicopter at Claremont High School the morning of Dec. 19.

Associated Student Body President Chris Hammond explained to the council that Principal Alex Hughes had told him to contact the city about Santa's arrival. Hammond went to Mayor Craig McManigal who in turn asked the ASB president to bring up the matter before the council.

Councilwoman Claire McDonald at first objected to the council's granting permission for a helicopter in light of the council's response to Alton Sanford's request in 1972 for a helicopter pad at Griswold's Old School House a few hundred yards to the south on Indian Hill Boulevard.

"I don't think we should grant a special privilege to the high school when we wouldn't for Mr. Sanford," Mrs. McDonald commented.

City Manager Keith Mulrooney explained that the handling of requests for one-time helicopter landings was an administrative matter, and was done with the permission of the fire and police chiefs.

Councilwoman Bertye Smith said she would support the one-time request subject to any donditions set by the fire and police departments.

When Mrs. McDonald questioned the flight of the helicopter over residences, Councilman Frank Hungerford responded with, "He'll be coming in from the north, won't he?"

In other action, the council passed for first reading an ordinance which would amend the Land Use Development Code as to "for rent," "open house," and similar signs.

The council received and filed a letter from Realtor members of the Claremont Chamber of Commerce to the Planning Commission in which the Realtors urged that corner lots should be allowed to signs, and asked that the commissioners reconsider their stand on "open house" signs.

The letter said that three directional signs are often required to guide a prospect to an open house and one sign on the property is necessary to alert persons to the property.

The new ordinance will allow one "for rent" sign for each property, but a rider providing additional information may be attached as long as the whole sign is not more than six square feet in area, and not more than four feet in over-all height.

The ordinance also requires that the sign must be removed when the property owner is no longer soliciting the sale or rental.

Bob Omohundro, manager of Herbert Hawkins Realtors, said that the new ordinance is something that "we can live with."

Omohundro urged that the council look at the Realtors' recommendations. He said that Realtors like to post "sold" signs on a property because it shows the job has been done, but he explained," Lots of properties on which escrow opens are never sold."

City Atty. William Bergman said that leaving up a "sold" sign is advertising for the Realtor, and doesn't help the property owner.

Bonita School Board in energy-cut move

SAN DIMAS — The Bonita school board took steps Tuesday night to conserve energy and head off any shortages in vehicular fuel within the district.

By a 4-0 vote, the board adopted the following recommendations:

—To curb all unnecessary lighting.

—Lower thermostats to 68 degrees in all classrooms and offices.

—Lower thermostats as low as practicable over weekends and during holiday periods.

—Raise air conditioning levels to 78 degrees in all air-conditioned facilities.

—Establish a speed limit of 55 miles per hour for all district vehicles.

—Curtail all field trips and other bus usage, as necessary, to protect home-to-school and school-to-home transportation.

Thermostats, however, will not be lowered until Dec. 20 to give students and district personnel enough time to prepare for the adjustments.

Students will not be affected by the change until after the new year since the holiday vacation begins one day before the order to lower the thermostats goes into effect.

Initially, the fuel shortage has occurred in diesel fuel, but district officials admitted that "a very real potential" exists for a shortage in gasoline in the near future.

They said the district's gasoline supply is over 6,000 gallons, but a request for a partial shipment to "top off the tanks" was denied. By the time a full load could be delivered, they added, some type of rationing could be in effect.

In other business, the board approved a decrease in the price of milk from $.10 to $.08 per half pint effective Jan. 2. The board's action followed as a result of the legislature's reinstating the milk subsidy program, which will pay up to $.04 per half pint.

High school principal wins $356,000 in newspaper suit

FREDERICK, Md. (UPI) — A 50-year-old high school principal has won a $356,000 judgment in his libel suit against a weekly newspaper which rated him unsuited for his job in a 1971 article.

Attorneys for Montgomery County Sentinel publishers Bernard and Leonard Kapiloff, who were ordered Tuesday to pay $250,000 in compensatory damages and $100,000 in punitive damages, said they would appeal the decision. Former Sentinel editor Roger Farquhar was ordered to pay $5,000. Reporters William Bancroft, now employed by the Twin City Journal in Winston-Salem, N.C., and Robert Woodward, who joined in Watergate coverage which won the Washington Post a Pulitzer Prize last year, were ordered to pay $500 each.

The Circuit Court libel suit stemmed from a March 18, 1971, Sentinel which rated 22 county high school principals and included articles on each school administration. It rated Fred L. Dunn and one other principal "unsuitable."

Dunn testified in the seven-day hearing that he lost his enthusiasm for his work after publication of the rating, and added, "I had to fight the whole world to do anything."

'Crazylegs' sues over name use

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Elroy "Crazylegs" Hirsch, the former Los Angeles Rams professional football star, has filed a $1.1 million suit against the Johnson Wax Co., charging the firm named a women's shaving cream "Crazylegs" without his permission.

Hirsch, now the athletic director at the University of Wisconsin, claimed he earned the nickname on the gridiron. He also called the way the firm is using it an "indignity" which has caused him "embarrassment, humiliation."

"Everybody has been joshing the hell out of him" since the name first appeared, Hirsch's attorney said. "He can't walk around the block without 10 people yipping about it."

The attorney said Hirsch did not want to stop sale of the item, "but we just want what's coming to us."

Pope may cancel Yule eve mass

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Vatican Radio said Tuesday that Pope Paul VI may cancel his date to officiate at mass in St. Peter's basilica Christmas Eve if the government does not lift its 11-day long Christmas season driving ban.

The radio station said the Pope would call it off "to avoid imposing hardships on believers and an excessive mobiliztion of public transportation."

Not armed with gun—Brennan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan Tuesday threw open his coat at a Labor Department ceremony and said, in answer to a question, "I'm not carrying a gun now and you can come up and frisk me if you want to."

He declined, however, to say that he never carried a gun.

Aides to the former head of the New York building trades union disclosed earlier this year that he carried a pearl handled revolver at times even after becoming labor secretary.

Pat Nixon's holiday parties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pat Nixon Tuesday announced a series of Yule parties and said the White House will be closed to visitors for decorating until Friday.

She said the decorating of the White House and the trimming of the 18-foot Fraser fir Christmas tree in the Blue Room will be done under the supervision of J.C. Pennock of Philadelphia, who also handled the wedding of the Nixons' daughter, Tricia Cox.

The Nixons plan to spend Christmas day in the White House.

Mrs. Nixon said she will be hostess at the diplomatic children's Christmas party, Dec. 17; reception for White House residents and staff, Dec. 18; wives' tea, Dec. 20; and White House staff party, Dec. 26.

Ford, Soviet envoy confer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford met Tuesday with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin in Ford's office at the Executive Office Building.

A spokesman for Ford said the conference was intended mainly to let the two men get to know each other.

Ford's wife, Betty, meanwhile told an interviewer on ethe NBC network Today show that it would be "very bad for the country" if President Nixon resigned or was impeached.

"We have a very strong country and I think the President is going to go ahead and prove himself and do a very good job in the next three years," she said. "I hope that my husband will be able to help him and I'll be able to help my husband."

Handless artist gains degree

DETROIT (UPI) — Paul Kohler, who lost both hands in a machine shop accident, paints with brushes taped to his forearms. Tuesday he was awarded a master's degree in art from Wayne State University.

"Right after the accident happened I didn't know what I was going to do with my life," he said. "But within an hour I knew I was going to be an artist. I remembered they had these hooks and I knew I would make it work."

Kohler, 26, said he painted his first picture within weeks of the accident five years ago. It sold for $200 at the Macomb County Community College student art fair

Kohler, who is currently looking for a full-time teaching position, said paint brushes are not a problem for him, but door knobs, bottle caps and shaving pose the complications.

Murderer will be paroled

WILLIMANTIC, Connecticut (UPI) — Warren Kimbro, a former Black Panther convicted of murdering alleged police informer Alex Rackley in May, 1969, will be parolled next month, a three-judge panel ruled Tuesday.

Kimbro, originally sentenced to life imprisonment, became director of the Perception Drug House therapy center in Willimantic under a pioneering work release program.

Now 38, Kimbro was a star witness for the state in the trials of Ronnie McLucas, Ericka Huggins and Black Panther National Chairman Bobby Seale after he pleaded guilty to the Rackley murder. He has served three years in prison.

McLukas was released from Somers about a month ago.

Shopper's guide to services

Banks accused of 'questionable' practices in survey

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A consumer organization published today what it called the first "shopper's guide" to banking services.

The 63-page booklet contained an extensive study of charges made by competing banks for loans and services. It found, for example, that among 17 banks in the San Francisco area the cost of a loan could vary more than 100 per cent.

The study, titled "Break the Banks," was prepared by the San Francisco Consumer Action organization.

It found that to borrow $700 for one year under the same conditions; i.e., an unsecured personal loan, would cost the borrower $49 at one bank and $101.60 at another.

"Consumers have long needed price and quality competition among banks," the study said.

It also accused the banks of trying to hide some "unfair and questionable practices."

In gathering information for its survey, Consumers Action said it ran into "opposition and resistance from many in the banking industry, as well as the agencies which regulate banks."

A written request for information on such things as the cost of checking account services brought replies from only two banks, the group said. It took four months of probing to get data for the study, completed last July.

As of then, according to the report, a consumer seeking a new car loan could pay between 7.51 and 10.64 per cent, depending on to which bank he went.

A personal secured loan ranged from 6.50 per cent to 12 per cent; unsecured loans from 9.50 to more than 18 per cent. Some banks charged "transaction fees" as high as four per cent in addition to the interest, the report said.

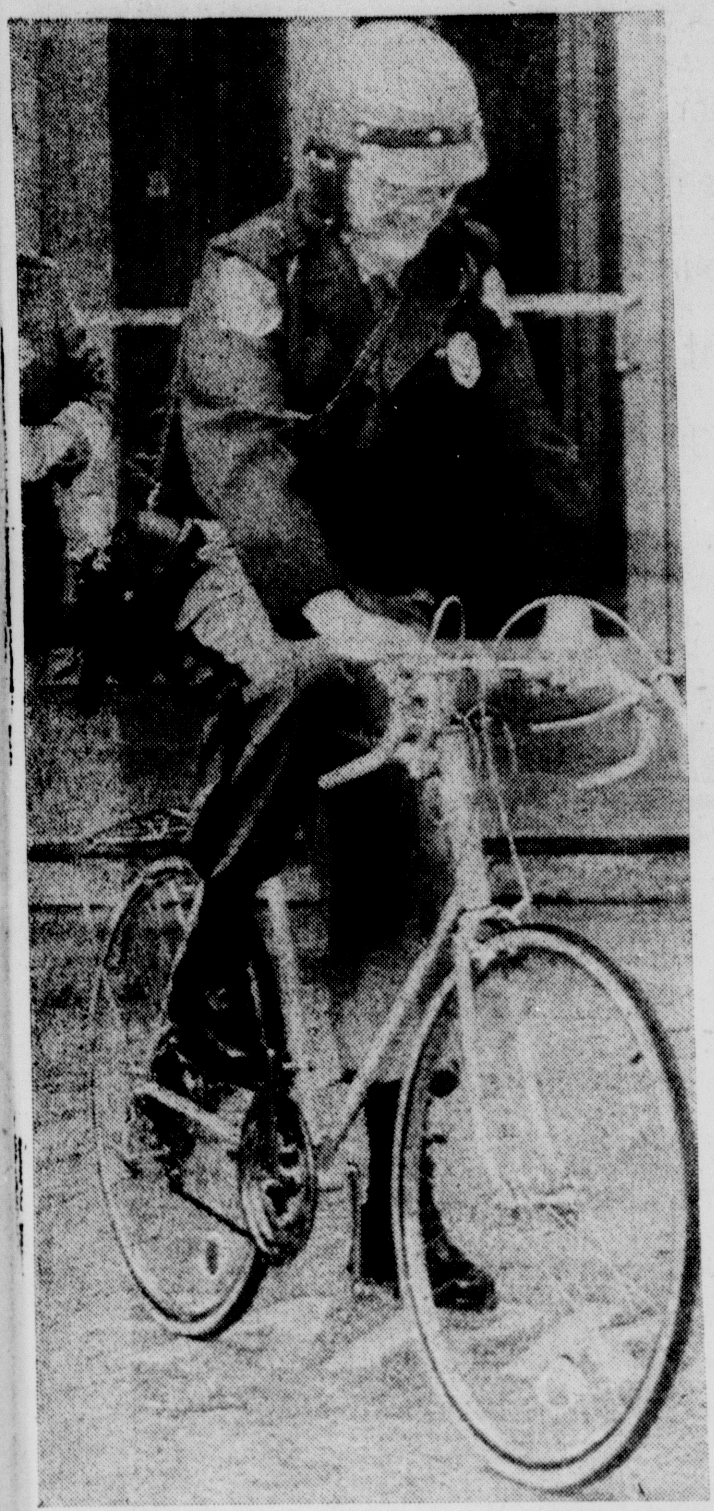
The consumer group criticized the "minimum balance" requirement on checking accounts. It said a person could have $2,000 in his account for 29 days of the month but if on the last day it dropped to $299, he would be charged for writing checks.

The study also accused the banks of violating the federal Truth in Lending Law by not disclosing to customers all the charges they subject themselves to by taking out an account or making a loan.

The author of the survey, lawyer Neil Gendel, said consumers also should remember "there are other factors besides price to consider in selecting the best banking services."

Wig blinded victim

The expression "to pull the wool over one's eyes" comes from the time when gentlemen wore white wigs, usually made of wool. Highwaymen would pull a victim's wig down over his eyes before relieving him of his watch and wallet.



PATROLING HIS BEAT — Richmond, Va., patrolman W. W. Fuller may be a bit shaky at first, but he — and fellow officers — is going to have to get used to making rounds on bicycle to conserve gas.

Smokers on airlines: big brother watching

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government employes are being urged to blow the whistle on airlines that don't segregate smokers from non-smokers.

In a memo to its 680 employes, made public Monday, the Civil Aeronautics Board urged the employes to act as "observers" for the board if they travel on airliners over the Christmas holiday.

Prompted by complaints from non-smokers, the memo asked for reports to the board's Office of Consumer Affairs of violations of the no-smoking rules, and what action, if any, the crew took to stop the violation.

Under a board regulation announced in July, airlines must segregate smokers from non-smokers. The ruling resulted from a long controversy sparked by consumer advocate Ralph Nader, who argued smoking was both a fire and a health hazard aboard the airliners.

"I am asking those members of our board staff who travel during the holiday season to take time to act as a board observer, and to note the flight number and the method of segregation of smokers and non-smokers, and the enforcement practices of flight crews," the executive director of the board, Harry J. Zink, said.

Zink said the board employes should get the "names of crew members, and note it in a report to be given to the Office of Consumer Affairs."

Zink said the employes should note whether the airlines conformed to the regulation which requires passengers be asked if they prefer to sit in the non-smoking section of the plane.

Sources said that most of the airlines are cooperating with the Board order, but that there were several that "are in continued violation of the rules."

Arabs forgot Hawaii was part of U.S.

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hawaii residents sometimes get highly upset when someone forgets or ignores that Hawaii is now one of the United States, but the most recent violation has been nothing but good.

The Arab nations apparently forgot that Hawaii is one of the United States because until recently Hawaii was not included in the Arab oil embargo.

However, the honeymoon is now over. "Someone spilled the beans," said a spokesman for Hawaiian Independent Refinery, the state's biggest importer of Arabian oil.

James F. Gary, president of Pacific Resources which is the refinery's parent company, said his firm now has been notified that Hawaii will be included in the embargo.

Rockefeller's 15 years as governor: unparalleled energy, achievement

HE'LL TRY AGAIN? — N. Y. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is shown in 1968 with Richard Nixon. Both were leading candidates for GOP presidential nomination. Some say Rockefeller resigned for his fourth attempt.

Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller, a millionaire Republican, was elected governor of one of the country's richest and most politically volatile states in his first bid for public office.

The 49th man to serve as governor of New York, Rockefeller, 65, is the country's senior governor in terms of length of service. In New York, he is second only to the state's first chief executive, George Clinton, who served for a total of 20 years and 10 months.

Rockefeller announced Tuesday he would resign the post he has held for almost 15 years.

The Rockefeller administration, which officially began Jan. 1, 1959, has been marked by an energy some view as unparalleled since the building of the Erie Canal in the administration of Gov. De Witt Clinton.

The Rockefeller programs in social welfare, education, the state university, highway construction, new buildings and virtually every other phase of state government have reached new highs.

The Rockefeller years also have been marked by quadrupled spending, which began with Rockefeller's first proposed budget of $2.041 billion through this fiscal year's $8.881 billion spending proposal.

State government employment, which was about 90.000 when Rockefeller took office, has risen to about 185,000, including employes of quasi-governmental authorities and commissions.

In terms of magnitude and lasting impressions, Rockefeller's drive to create a powerful state university system probably will remain his greatest achievement.

When Rockefeller took office, the system was a somewhat antiquated collection of "teacher and cow" colleges that since has been transformed into a 72-unit system with more than 235,000 fulltime students.

Educational spending has risen from less than $650 million to more than $2.8 billion.

A vast interstate highway network, much of it paid for with federal funds, connects the major population centers of the state and virtually is complete.

Despite the successes, there have been setbacks. Early in his career, for example, Rockefeller pushed hard for Civil Defense and bomb shelters to protect against nuclear attack— an idea that never got off the ground.

He has had two major defeats on bond issues, most recently this November, when he sponsored a $3.5 billion transit bond measure which was defeated soundly. In 1971, voters rejected a similar $2.5 billion transit spending proposal.

Although a newcomer to state politics in 1958, Rockefeller defeated incumbent Democratic Governor Averell Harriman by more than 573,000 votes.

His original and somewhat stiff "Call Me Nelson" approach soon gave way to the familiar "hiya fella," wink-and grin "Rocky" that proved a delight to political cartoonists and headline writers.

In 1962, Rockefeller turned back his first challenger, Robert Morgenthau. In the 1966 campaign, Rockefeller soundly beat Frank O'Connor, and he won his fourth term in 1970 by trouncing former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg.

Through all those years, Malcolm Wilson was his lieutenant governor. Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz, who was elected two years before Rockefeller, was the third member of the GOP's big three. Rockefeller has had a Democratic comptroller, Arthur Levitt, throughout his incumbency.

Rockefeller has made three major challenges for the GOP presidential nomination. In 1960, he was one of Richard Nixon's major challengers, but he withdrew early in the preconvention maneuvering.

Political observers say he waited too long in 1964, and the party's eventual candidate, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona, sewed up the nomination by early work with key delegations.

Many feel Nixon should pay, too

California's congressmen and its 2 senators pay state income taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unlike President Nixon, both of California's senators and all 43 of its congressmen pay California state income taxes.

Nineteen of them said Nixon should be paying California taxes, too. Seven said he should not. The rest either could not be reached or had no opinion when surveyed by UPI.

All members of the California legislative delegation who could be reached and aides to the others said Monday they pay California income taxes and will continue to pay them.

White House officials disclosed last weekend that Nixon paid no California state income taxes from 1969 through 1972, although he lists his San Clemente home as his voting residence. They said the President was unaware until Friday he had not paid the state taxes.

Aides said California law exempted him from state income taxes because his "domicile"—as distinct from voting residence—is in the District of Columbia. They said Nixon paid no D.C. income tax either, because D.C. law exempts elected federal officials from local income tax.

Responses from the California legislators ranged from Democrat Robert L. Leggett's: "I think we've got another grounds for impeachment" to Republican Andrew J. Hinshaw's opinion that the President is specifically excluded from California taxes.

Hinshaw said the President's situation is different from a congressman's because state tax provisions "specifically state that if a person is a resident of California or is domiciled in California and if he is outside of the state for a temporary or a transitory period of time he would still be obligated to pay California income taxes..." He said Nixon doesn't meet that definition.

Many said they were confused about the law which Nixon's lawyers cite as absolving him from California taxes.

Rep. William M. Ketchum, a freshman Republican, said, "It seems to me from a moral standpoint...we should try to support the states we live in. Everyone resides somewhere and anyone in political life ought to be setting the example by paying somewhere."

GOP colleague William S. Mailliard said, "It would seem to me a guy ought to pay state taxes somewhere."

Rep. Paul N. "Pete" McCloskey, a maverick Republican, said, "I paid $3,231 last year and he (Nixon) earns five times what I earn." He said Nixon "of course" should pay California taxes—"You've got to pay somewhere."

Republican Clair W. Burgener said he was confident Nixon was within the law, but he was still "surprised" to learn Nixon hadn't been paying state taxes.

"There may be a legal loophole," Democrat Charles Wilson said, "but I don't think it's proper for a man in his position" to avoid them. Californians "have good reason to feel offended" when neither the President nor the governor, Ronald Reagan, pays taxes. Reagan has claimed enough deductions in the past to avoid taxes.

Lionel Van Deerlin, a Democrat, said, "I think either he should or I shouldn't. Our posiiion is exactly the same."

Democrat Augustus Hawkins: "I think all residents of California should pay the tax. If he voted there, that follows he is a resident."

Republican Del Clawson: "If it's legal for him to get by without paying, that's all right. If there's a legal loophole, he's entitled to use it."

Democrat John Moss: "If there's a loophole, I think it ought to be closed. It creates a preferred class of federal officials."

Jerome R. Waldie, a Democrat: "I'd pay a lot less if the governor and President would pay theirs. Of course he should and it ought to hurt him just as it hurts me and every other Californian."

Ex-ballplayer Jerry Priddy found guilty

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former New York Yankees infielder Jerry Priddy was found guilty by a federal court jury Monday of attempting to extort $250,000 from a steamship company by threatening to blow up a luxury cruise ship.

U.S. District Court Judge Irving Hall set Jan. 16 for sentencing. Priddy—a veteran of 11 major league seasons and currently a self-employed advertising executive—faces a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Priddy showed no emotion when the guilty verdict was returned by the jury of 10 women and two men after three ballots and nearly five hours of deliberations Friday afternoon and Monday morning.

He admitted during the weeklong trial that he tried to get the extortion money from the Princess Lines because a mysterious caller had told him to, threatening harm to his family if he did not. Priddy, 53, said the explosives were aboard the Island Princess which was on a cruise to Mexico.

Two sealed packages were found aboard the ship, one in the engine room and another on the bridge. They were thrown overboard by ship officers before anyone could determine whether they contained explosives.

In his closing arguments Friday, Assistant U.S. Attorney Leslie E. Osborne Jr. said the scheme was Priddy's own idea and that he needed the money because of business problems.

Priddy also played for the Detroit Tigers, the St. Louis Browns and the Washington Senators. He can be sentenced up to 20 years in prison.

Car costs 13.6 cents per mile

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average cost of operating a standard size automobile in the United States is 13.6 cents per mile, the Insurance Information Institute said.

The most expensive factor is the auto's original depreciation, which the institute calculated at 4.4 cents per mile. The other five expense categories, figured on a per mile basis, were: maintenance, parts and tires 2.6 cents; gas and oil, 2.1 cents; parking and tools 1.8 cents; insurance 1.4 cents, and state and Federal taxes 1.3 cents.

ACTION LINE

To ask help in solving problems with which you have been unsuccessful, write to Action Line, The Progress-Bulletin, P. O. Box 2708, Pomona, Calif. 91766. Sign your full name, address and phone number and include copies (not the original) of receipts or other documentation possible. If your letter is published, only your initials will be used.

Run-around over tank a lesson in frustration

I took a diving tank to a store in Pomona for minor repairs three months ago.

The job was to take approximately three weeks and cost between $5 and $7.50. I was to be notified by telephone when the tank was ready to be picked up.

When I had not heard from the store a month later, I called. The tank had been sent to another location for the repairs and had not been returned.

At intervals of about once a week for the next month, I called to see if the tank was ready. Each time a different person told me it was not ready.

A month ago one of the employes at the Pomona store said the tank was lost. On at least three occasions after that I went to the store during working hours but it was always closed.

Then I learned that the store had closed and all the merchandise was being moved to Huntington Beach. After at least four phone calls, the manager there said he had found my tank. He wanted me to go to Huntington Beach for the tank or he would send it to me COD.

I objected to both proposals since I felt it was the responsibility of the firm to return the tank to this area.

The manager finally agreed to deliver the tank to the old Pomona address of the store. I was given an approximate date and told I would be called to pick it up on the day it was to be delivered. There was no call.

I have called Huntington Beach at least five times since then but the manager is never available to me.—A.B., Pomona.

It looks as if your problem had you submerged until you wrote to Action Line and we wrote to the Huntington Beach address.

Exactly a week after your first letter, we received a second one from you saying you had your tank.

The firm had shipped it to you without charge for either the repairs or shipping costs.

I hope you don't mind my writing without a complaint. I've read of so many bad experiences with mail order firms that I thought maybe people would be turned away from all of them. That would be too bad.

I've traded with Miles Kimball, Oshkosh, Wis., for many years and have always been pleased.

Nothing is "free," no sweepstakes, contests or prizes — just merchandise as described in the catalogue mailed the day the order is received.

I've never known anyone in the company. I'm just writing because I get tired of the negative side of everything getting attention and the positive side being ignored. — H. M., Pomona.

The Miles Kimball envelope you sent along with your letter was decorated with a Christmas angel. We are glad to help you polish the halo.

I know the answer to the question about setting a trap to protect one's property is correct. My questionis: Why are our laws set up to protect the criminal?

An innocent victim who is seriously injured by a criminal has no recourse by law. Why? — K. M., La Verne.

You refer to the Dec. 2 Action Line item headlined "Setting trap for burglar is flirting with civil suit."

Considering your first question, we remember news articles about individuals who have killed a member of the family by mistake.

Your second statement is based on a misconception. A victim of a crime can sue the criminal. Also, as noted in Action Line on Dec. 5, there is a law which permits the state to compensate victims of a crime in which injuries are received. Application must be made with the California Board of Control within a year of the date the crime was committed.

Board approves plans to revamp two old schools

POMONA — Preliminary drawings for replacement of earthquake vulnerable sections of Washington and Alcott elementary schools were approved Tuesday by the school board.

They were presented the board by Mark Horie of the architectural firm of Cashion-Horie.

Some $650,000 worth of construction is being planned at Washington where the main building — in use since 1913 — the kindergarten and one bungalow are to be replaced.

The timetable calls for completion of this work by July 1, 1975.

The original Alcott building, in use since 1927, is to be replaced at a cost of about $300,000. It will contain the administrative unit.

This work is scheduled for completion in the mid-1974-75 school year.

Both projects are being financed through a special 10 cent per $100 assessed valuation tax levied on district property owners and already in effect.

Final drawings will be brought back to the school board before they are submitted to the state.

State law requires that all public school buildings in use since before 1933 be replaced or brought to current earthquake safety standards by the end of this school year.

District administrators are working with the same architectural firm, Cashion-Horie, on plans to expedite the replacement of the burned math-reading resource center at Madison Elementary School.

The first advertisement calling for bids appeared Dec. 5 and a second advertisement was made today.

Bids will be opened in the board room on Dec. 20. Assuming that a satisfactory bid is received, a recommendation for awarding a contract will be made at the first board meeting in January.

The resource center was burned by fires deliberately set over the weekend of Nov. 10-11. Loss was set at $25,000.

District insurance covering fire loss has a $10,000 deductible clause.

MERRY-MAKERS

Laughter was the keynote at a retirement dinner for court clerk Hyman J. Bradofsky, center, put on by the Pomona Valley Bar Association at Griswold's Indian Hill, Claremont, Tuesday night. The event was billed as a "Hymie roast." Sharing a chuckle over one of several scrolls and proclamations presented to Bradofsky are Robert Firth, left, supervising judge of the East District Superior Court, and Superior Court Judge Glenn M. Pfau, "Hymie's judge." Bradofsky will retire Jan. 1, 1974.

'Hymie roast'

County court clerk gets plenty of short ribs at retirement dinner

By JOE FIRMAN
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — Some 150 members of the Southern California legal fraternity gathered at Griswold's Indian Hill Tuesday night to honor Hyman J. Bradofsky on the eve of his retirement after 40 years as court clerk of Los Angeles County.

Judges, lawyers, legal secretaries, commisioners, clerks and bailiffs turned out for the "Hymie roast," sponsored by the Pomona Valley Bar Association. Robert S. Hickson, president, presided, and Robert Weiss, vice president, served as master of ceremonies.

The dinner meeting was an occasion of laughter and seriousness, reunion and reminiscence, satire and sentiment among the men and women who had known Bradofsky through some or all of his long career.

Pomona City Manager Fred Sharp presented him with a proclamation from the city; Thelma Everette, president of the Pomona Valley Legal Secretaries Association, gave him an inscribed plaque. Ex-Congressman George Kasem made Bradofsky an "honorary Arab" and presented him with a fez and a scroll entitling him to 500 barrels of oil.

Much was made of Bradofsky's World War II rank of major in the U.S. Army Air Corps. One-time Cpl. Carlos Teran (now Superior Court judge), Lt. Gil Brookings, Pomona attorney, ("He always outranked me!") and Sgt. Bill Sharp, retired county clerk, all provided colorful anecdotes and jabs. ("When I first met Bradofsky in England during the war," Sharp said, "I was reminded of German Field Marshal Rommel — and nothing has changed since.")

Attorney Art Brooks presented a scroll making Bradofsky an honorary member of the class of 1937 at the Duke University law school, signed by "Richard M. Nixon." Brooks moved for "the adoption of the revolution."

Superior Court Judge Alfred Peracca told of being warned about Bradofsky by Judge James G. Whyte, when Peracca came to Pomona. "He doesn't actually own the courthouse," White told his successor, "but watch out!" Concluding on a serious note, Peracca said, "Hymie is a man of perfection, one who has performed a great service to the judges and lawyers of this county."

Other scrolls were presented to the retiring court clerk from the Superior Court Clerks Association, by chief deputy county clerk Edward B. Ramsay "saluting a county clerk par excellence," and from the county Board of Supervisors commending Bradofsky on "40 years of outstanding county service."

Attorney John Sloan offered a framed plaque from the Pomona Valley Bar Association, and Superior Court Judge Glenn M. Pfau, for whom Bradofsky clerks, presented him with an inscribed silver watch fob from the Superior Court judges.

Launching his address with a quotation from "Alice in Wonderland" ("The time has come, the Walrus said, to talk of many things . . .") Bradofsky recounted the highlights of his life in Pomona, where he arrived in 1933, his military career, and his 40 years with the county law activities.

"In that long stretch of time," he said, "I have been privileged to make friends with many hundreds of splendid men and women — young people, too. Equally rewarding was the opportunity to participate, in however modest a role, in some of the stirring and historic events of Pomona life of our time."

Bradofsky told his listeners that he was going to miss the courtroom atmosphere "because basically this is what my whole life has been about."

He concluded with an expression of thanks to the judges, attorneys, secretaries, public employes and the general public.

The audience gave Bradofsky a standing ovation when he finished his talk.

Pomona briefs

Youth commission to discuss Schoolwatch

POMONA — The Pomona Unified School District's "Operation Schoolwatch" against vandalism will be discussed at a meeting Thursday of the Pomona Youth Commission.

The meeting is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. in the city hall boards and commissions room.

The anti-vandalism campaign was discussed at a joint meeting Nov. 27 of the City Council and school board when the suggestion was made to ask for the commission's recommendations.

Other items scheduled for the commission meeting include discussions on a juvenile diversion program and on an invitation to attend a human relations workshop sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Inc.

Hamilton PTA to have Yule Program

POMONA — Hamilton School PTA will feature a bazaar of items made by school staff members and the PTA board at its Thursday meeting at 7 p.m. in the auditorium. Proceeds will benefit the sixth grade fund.

"Songs and Poems of Christmas from Many Countries" will include performers from every class. The program has been coordinated by Miss Linda Severson; Mrs. Linda Fletcher; Mrs. Isabel Heredia, PTA president; Mrs. Frances Marquez, bazaar chairman; Mrs. Delsina Frey, publicity; and David Burriel, principal.

Parking lot hours will be reduced

POMONA — Parking on a public parking lot located at the southeast corner of Gordon and Fourth Streets will be reduced from all-day to a two-hour limit.

A resolution calling for the change was adopted by the City Council on the recommendation of Vehicle Parking District No. 3.

Parking commissioners asked for the two-hour limit after attorney Vic Tessier, with offices in the Civic Center Building, 401 S. Main St., said the public lot was filled early in the morning and motorists arriving later were parking on his private lot, creating parking problems for the Civic Center Building's attorney, secretaries and clients.

Recipients were David Keach, Mark Comer, Sydney Cannon, Gregory Campbell, Mark Tilman, Vincent Walker, Cedric Julius, David Brown, Kenneth Brown, Greg Brown, Kenny Mogenson, James Mott, Ron Stires, Jim Thompson, Stephen Douglas and Jeff Davenport.

Three boys graduated from the pack. They are Ron Stires, Greg Brown and John Holt.

Ban proposed on realty displays

Hearing on home sale signs tonight

POMONA — The Pomona Planning Commission will conduct a public hearing tonight on a proposal to ban "for sale" signs bearing the names and addresses of realty firms at homes being sold.

The city planning staff had proposed the measure as a means of improving the neighborhoods. The high visibility of "for sale" signs in a residential area could create the impression of instability to persons driving through and thus make all homes in that locale more difficult to sell, the staff believes.

The hearing is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. in the City Council chambers.

Members of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors are expected to attend the session.

The proposed ordinance amendment would also restrict "for rent," "for lease" and "for sale" signs to one square foot with a limit of one sign per lot. These would show only sale or lease information and the name, address and telephone number of only the property owner.

In addition, the proposed ordinance change would allow one "open house" sign per lot not exceeding two square feet which invites the public to view the premises offered for lease, rent or sale provided the owner, tenant or agent is present.

Recommending approval for the amendments, the city staff said an element of panic selling will be reduced by eliminating the majority of "for sale" signs from residential areas.

Other items include a request by Robert Olin Jr. to construct a 103-unit senior citizen residential complex on the old Emerson Junior High School site at 755 N. Palomares St.; a request by Fredricks Development Corp. to build a 144-unit multiple family development at 450 W. Foothill Blvd.; and a request to allow a child day care nursery in a residential area at 1972 Wright St.

Works that will outlive us all

Although it will take another 13 years before Pioneer 10 crosses the orbit of Pluto, outermost planet in the solar system, and enters true outer space on its voyage into infinity, for all intents and purposes its mission is completed.

Having passed safely through the asteroid belt between Mars and Jupiter and survived the fantastically strong zone of radiation is reported around the giant planet, the probe is expected to encounter nothing but empty space the rest of the way.

There could be surprises of course; man's first, brief era of space exploration has been full of surprises. Scientists will continue to track Pioneer 10 until its steadily fading radio beacon finally dies in 1977.

It is impossible to comprehend the vast distances involved in Pioneer's space odyssey. It covered 620 million miles in its 21-month trip to Jupiter. It must go several billion more miles before reaching the rim of the solar system. Its radio messages from Jupiter, traveling at the speed of light, took 45 minutes to reach earth. Were they to continue beaming from as far as Pluto, they would take 12 hours.

These distances and times are as nothing compared to interstellar measurements.

Long after our sun dies, probably in a stupendous explosion as a nova perhaps 10 billion years hence, Pioneer 10 will continue its voyage through the galaxy. Long after the earth and all its life have perished, the tiny spacecraft will continue to carry its plaque bearing the figures of a man and a woman and a diagram telling of its origin for such other space-faring sentient beings as may exist on the other side of the universe to wonder at.

All human works will someday vanish as if they had never been. Pioneer 10 will endure for eternity.

Message for all: keep on truckin'

A truck driver's life is not an easy one. For them, the old saying about time being money is especially true.

Highway speed restrictions and fuel shortages, which necessitate more frequent refueling stops, along with higher prices for fuel when they can get it, have cut into their paychecks. Most people except possibly those motorists who have been stalled for hours on Interstate because of trucker blockades, sympathize with their plight.

Yet all of us, even if the more pessimistic predictions about the extent of the energy crisis don't come true, are going to feel the pinch. All of us are going to have to change our habits and ways of doing things, and all of us are going to be hit in our pocketbooks. The truckers just happen to have been the first to feel the impact.

It's too late to wish we had adopted the system they have in South Africa, where all intercity freight is carried by rail and truck deliveries are limited to 30-mile ranges.

If truckers are allowed to shut down such a vital part of the nation's transportation system, as a lot of them are threatening to do, what about workers whose earnings may be reduced, or jobs eliminated entirely, because of shortages of power or petrochemical raw materials?

If the protesting truckers get their way and are permitted to travel at 65 miles an hour (and there are conflicting arguments about whether diesel engines are more efficient at high speed), what about the salesman who must drive at 50 or 55 and to whom time is also money?

It's tough being a trucker. But it's tough all over, and likely will be for a long time to come.

Who'd forget Moon oil?

A lot of people may be wondering why now, of all times, a major oil company has launched a nationwide advertising campaign touting how "very friendly" its service station operators can be to those who patronize them.

According to complaints from around the country, a motorist is lucky these days just to get gas, let alone have his windshield cleaned and his oil and tires and battery checked by a smiling attendant.

It's a good question, says Dean Lind, manager of advertising and marketing services for Sun Oil Co.

"At first glance, it does appear sensible to stop advertising," he admits, "but we think an advertising moratorium now would create an identity problem after the shortage has passed."

Let other companies take note. If and when that happy day comes when it is again a buyer's market in gasoline, Americans will remember which stations were "very friendly" during the present crisis and which ones weren't.

Oil for Saigon despite shortage

WASHINGTON — Despite the critical oil shortage at home, the United States is able to spare more than 20,000 barrels a day for South Vietnam. Each barrel contains 42 gallons.

The fuel shipments to Vietnam have dropped only moderately since U.S. forces pulled out. At the height of our B-52 raids last January, for example, the Pentagon shipped 995,000 barrels of oil to Saigon. This dropped to 681,000 barrels in August and nearly 600,000 barrels in September.

But these figures, the latest available, don't reveal the full extent of the drainage. For the U.S. supplies much of South Vietnam's civilian oil needs, too. These figures, apparently, are known only to the oil companies.

We have determined, however, that the Agency for International Development shells out $80 million a year to purchase petroleum products for South Vietnam's civilians.

Of course, the bulk of U.S. oil shipments to Vietnam are used to fuel South Vietnam's war machine. At the height of our involvement in the Vietnam War, in 1969, we shipped nearly 44 million barrels to the Saigon regime. This figure dropped to 20 million barrels by 1972. During the 1973 fiscal year, 12 million barrels were delivered for military use.

The U.S. government is still handling fuel procurement for South Vietnam's armed forces, letting contracts to U.S companies. A Pentagon official told us that the amount of oil going to Vietnam hereafter will be determined by the scale of the fighting.

South Vietnam is bracing for a renewed offensive from the North. More than likely, it will take bigger oil shipments, literally siphoned from the gas tanks of American civilians, to keep the South Vietnamese tanks, trucks, ships and planes going.

FOOTNOTE: The civilian oil situation in Vietnam has become critical. Fuel was already rationed when a rocket attack wiped out 50 per cent of South Vietnam's civilian oil supply.

SECRET TAPES: Another set of secret tapes has turned up in the Watergate investigation. The prosecutors, however, don't know whether to believe what they have heard.

The tapes contain the monitored conversations of a banker, who boasted he handled a secret portfolio for President Nixon at Bebe Rebozo's Key Biscayne Bank.

The boast was made by Franklin DeBoer, who worked for awhile as vice president in charge of the trust department at Rebozo's bank. A White House spokesman and a source close to Rebozo joined in denouncing the statement as completely false.

DeBoer didn't know his words were being recorded as he talked freely on the phone and elsewhere about his banking business. We have now had access to the tapes.

'Substantial salary'

"I happen to work for Mr. Rebozo, Mr. Abplanalp and Mr. Nixon," said DeBoer. (Robert Abplanalp is another of the President's rich friends.)

"You work for Mr. Nixon?" asked a friend.

"Yes. . .," said DeBoer. "I happen to draw a substantial salary outside the bank from them, which is obviously what all these . . .s are trying to prove, too."

The tape is slightly garbled at this point. DeBoer said either "he" or "we" run "the private portfolios for these people in the bank. . ."

"You know," he continued, "I have a salary that is substantially greater than the bank pays me from these people. I don't go out and (spit) in their faces."

Blockade wouldn't work

I think that Mr. Williamson's idea of the Navy surrounding Arab countries would not work too well. For one reason, it would cause another war with the Arabs, and Russia would probably figure out a way to help the Arabs.

While we're fighting to get more oil, how would we fuel our ships in the meantime? —Lynda White, Claremont.

No Sunday driving

It's not enough that they (the gas stations) are not selling gas on Sunday. There ought to be a law banning driving on Sunday.

With the gas shortage, not driving Sunday would save gas. There are other means of transportation. There are bikes, roller skates, and feet. None of these make smog, or use gas.

Kids and animals could play safely in the streets. People could stay at home and enjoy the noiseless day. —Karren Dack, Claremont.

60 speed limit

I think the best way to use less gas is to cut the speed limit to 60 m.p.h. We should keep the same speed limit on buses and trucks because if buses and trucks went slower they would use more gas changing gears.

I also think there should be a higher tax on gas. That would generate enough money to develop the equipment to extract more oil — Steve Yale, Claremont.

Traffic jams at 50

I think the President should not change the speed limit from 75 to 50. If you go 50 where it used to be 70 or 75, it would cause traffic jams. Jams, being stop and go, would use more gas than going without stopping.

The longer you're on the road the more exhaust you're going to cause, and that in turn means more smog. Besides, it will take millions of dollars to change all the speed limit signs. So, if you have to go on the road, and I realize some of you do, you might as well go 75 m.p.h.—Ron Estes, Claremont

Stranded motorists

I think that gas stations, or at least one pump per gas station, should be open until midnight instead of 9 p.m. on Saturday so that people who get stranded don't have to wait until Monday to get gas.

Say you were traveling on a road that no one travels on and you know you can't make it to your destination on what you have. So then you start looking around for a gas station until you find one after about two hours. So you pull in and find it's closed. So now what are you going to do?

This is why I think gas stations shouldn't close until midnight on Saturdays. —Mary Naef, La Verne.

Teen Forum

Your column Teen Forum I think is a good one.

It helps people with problems. It helps them if they have someone to tell their problems to, and to get advice from someone outside of friends and family.

Sometimes you can't talk to your family about certain problems you have. For example, Teen Forum published the letters about kissing. Some people would be embarrased to talk to family or friends about that type of problem. That's why I think Teen Forum is a good column. —Carol Gallardo, Claremont.

Impeach the President

I think the President should be impeached because he's made the American people lose faith in him. He has had bad judgment on several matters, and the government is falling apart.

He also hasn't told the truth about the Watergate breakins, and evidence indicates he is involved in the coverup. Finally, there are serious questions of dishonesty on his part. —Leslie Robison, Claremont.

Nixon's doing fine job

I think the President should not be impeached. We elected him and we should accept our own decisions.

What would the other countries think? They would wonder what kind of country we are running, and whether we have a weird goverment that every time we finally find something to convict him of, we grab it and hang on.

It might have taken the President long to get the POWs home, but he did it. He also stopped the war. I think that the President is doing a fine job. —Liddy Duncan, Claremont.

Gas for the rich

I think that the oil companies should not raise the prices of gasoline, because if they do then the rich people will buy most of the gas and the poor people will not be able to afford it.

I don't think they should ration the gas, either, because if someone has to go a long way it will be wasting their limit and they won't have any left.

However, I like the idea of putting the speed limit at 50 m.p.h. so that we won't be wasting as much gas. —Mark Sturgis, Claremont.

Woman's enemies

Football, basketball, baseball and bowling are all a married woman's enemies. Whenever that pigskin starts flying past that 24 inch TV screen, a man's mind is completely engulfed in clashing heads and piled up bodies.

This is the time that the wives of America to to their secret places where they hide their money and go out and buy fabulous jewels and miniskirts and try and bring their husbands out of their trance.

Then when they think they have accomplished their exhausting feat, baseball starts swinging their husband' minds back into their dazed staring trance.

When there is finally no hope for the poor, ignored wife, there comes a time when there isn't anymore sports on TV. The wife rejoices, but woe. Their husbands always manage to find a channel which shows nothing but reruns of the husband's greatest pastime, sports.

And so I write this biography of a married woman's life on behalf of all those young women in America who think of getting married and I leave this piece of priceless advice, don't. —Richard Radvanji, Claremont.

Michigan vs. Ohio

I think that Michigan and Ohio should have another playoff game because they tied the game and it's unfair to both teams. It will probably make Ohio feel down for the game.

Michigan's quarterback probably feels it's all his fault that they aren't in the playoffs. Michigan's second string quarterback would probably do a better job than usual because he owes it to his team and especially to the first string quarterback.

Both teams probably feel they can beat each other anyway, so they would want a fair chance to go to the playoffs. —Andy Weinberg, Claremont.

Daylight saving

I think we should go on daylight saving time because we would cut down on lighting. If we have daylight saving we won't have to use so much light.

If we save on electricity, we could use it on street lights to help stop murders and muggings. We also wouldn't have to use our car lights, and there wouldn't be as many crashes.

We could have football games in the daylight and we would save on stadium lights. We wouldn't have to use as much lighting in our factories.

We will also cut down on heating. We wouldn't use our heaters as much because it wouldn't get dark so early. —Dan Black, Claremont.

Gossip for today

Don't blame it on the Arabs! The real reason we are having an energy crisis here in the United States is because of the average American's aversion to making use of human energy. For years we have stocked up on power-driven equipment designed to help us avoid all types of physical effort. Then we have invested more money in power-driven equipment to help us effortlessly take off the excess weight our inactivity has brought about. By refusing to ship us the necessary fuel oil to keep all that power-driven equipment operative the Arabs have undoubtedly done us a tremendous favor. Whether we like it or not, we average Americans are now being forced to shape up in spite of ourselves. In time we may even become normal human beings once again.

INSIDE REPORT

Power struggle in energy crisis

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Within two days of his appointment as new energy czar, Deputy Secretary of the Treasury William Simon was the target of a humiliating and massive put-down by Roy Ash, fast-rising and highly controversial head of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB).

Ash, skilled as an enemy-picker and bureaucratic infighter both within the administration and on Capitol Hill, told Simon that he, Ash, and his OMB staff would "run" the energy program—and that Simon would handle "policy" matters.

Moreover, one inside operative told us that Ash's OMB men had pulled the energy-crisis files accumulated during ex-energy czar John Love's ill-fated five-month tour in the hostile White House, at least temporarily denying the files to Simon.

But Simon is no one's patsy. When told to his face by Ash that his duties would begin and end with "policy" he replied with two old and honorable Anglo-Saxon words: "Bull s—t." The power struggle, one of an unlimited number of lesser struggles by which Ash has managed to elevate his power, then went to President Nixon.

But Mr. Nixon, preoccupied by self-preservation and notoriously uninformed about the energy crisis, won't have to settle it. That will be done by Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz.

Cutting Ash down

Shultz, who was instrumental in having his deputy, Simon, put in charge of the energy crisis, has no intention of permitting Ash to interfere with Simon's operations. The word in the White House late this week was that Shultz will cut the mighty Ash down to size.

He'll have plenty of help both inside the administration and in Congress. When Ash testified before the Senate Government Operations Committee Thursday, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, a key energy expert, tried to make him squirm.

Was it not true, he asked Ash, that the White House had impounded some $40 million last summer that the Democratic Congress had appropriated in a vain effort to force the administration to step up research and development on new fuels? Well, Ash replied, the money was "reserved," not "impounded."

Jackson and other congressional energy experts blame Ash for undercutting former White House energy czars James Akins (now ambassador in Saudi Arabia) and Love. Ash's personal lobbying in Congress against Jackson's Alaska pipeline bill amendment (to restore investigatory powers to the Federal Trade Commission) angered congressional leaders. They accuse Ash of trying to persuade Mr. Nixon to veto the pipeline bill in the interest of big business's fear of the Jackson amendment.

Within the administration, Ash's OMB infuriated the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and its hard-pressed boss, Russell Train. OMB slipped a White House position paper to Congress seeking more delay on automobile clean-air emission standards without first clearing it with EPA.

But in taking on the redoubtable Simon, whose neat hair-part and trim Wall Street appearance conceal a toughness of total self-confidence, Ash may have stuck his neck out too far.

Senator Richardson?

A serious proposal that former Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson consider moving his official residence next door to New Hampshire from the ancestral home in Boston, and run for the Senate next year, has been made by pro-Richardson New Hampshire Republicans.

Richardson was non-committal when one leading New Hampshire Republican broached the idea soon after Richardson was victimized by the White House in the Saturday Night Massacre of Oct. 20.

A frequent, long-time New Hampshire skier and summer visitor, Richardson would run for the seat of retiring Republican Sen. Norris Cotton. Two of the state's most prominent Republicans are eyeing Cotton's seat: Rep. Louis Wyman will definitely run; former Gov. Wesley Powell is considering running. Some Cotton intimates think he might wind up running himself.

A Senate seat for Richardson would give the former Secretary of Defense, Health, Education and Welfare, and Attorney General a public showcase, Republican friends say, in case he wants to run for President in 1976.

Six youths arrested in Montclair store robbery

MONTCLAIR — Six juveniles, ranging in age from 14 to 17, have been arrested on suspicion of armed robbery in connection with the robbery of the 7-11 Market at 10132 Central Ave. Dec. 1 during which a store clerk was struck over the head with a tire iron.

Police Officer Jim Baily said the six youths were arrested at their homes and schools in Ontario, Montclair and Pomona Monday and Tuesday following a two-week investigation into the robbery. Three of the juveniles have been petitioned to Juvenile Hall pending disposition on charges of armed robbery and three have been released to their parents.

Police believe three of the youths walked into the store about 4:30 p.m. Dec. 1. One of the youths distracted the woman clerk for a moment and the second youth struck the woman in the head with a tire iron. The third youth stood by the door as a lookout.

Baily said the youths took money from the cash register, several six-packs of beer and some wine before leaving. Police said the trio got into a car waiting outside with three other juveniles and drove off.

The store clerk was treated for a minor head wound at Doctors Hospital and was later released.

The certificates cite Robert Lock, who is the manager of an electronics shop in Rosemead, Michael Lock and Giacopuzzi, both employes of the shop, for providing information to police about the source of a bomb found Aug. 9 at Los Angeles International Airport with an extortion note attached.

By going through the shop's files, the men were able to provide authorities with a complete description of the suspected extortionist.

The elder Lock served as mayor of Montclair from 1960 to 1962, and served on the City Council until 1968. His son is a 1971 graduate of Damien High School in La Verne.

United Way goal passed easily

ONTARIO — The West End United Way's 1973 fund-raising campaign went over the goal when the contributions totaled $420,793 during the recent Harvest Victory luncheon held at the Ontario Elks Lodge.

The goal was $400,000, and this year's effort marks the first time in many years that the donations have topped the objective on the target date.

"We aren't finished yet," said Dale Eckrote, campaign chairman. "More funds will be forthcoming from areas not yet reported. By the end of December, we should have everything cleaned up.

"This campaign has been a success because a lot of people — over 700 volunteers — have done outstanding jobs. I'm awfully happy it happened at this time."

Chino school board favors giving school strip to city

CHINO — Over the protests of member Al McCombs, the school board here voted to declare its intent to dedicate 30 feet of land along the eastern boundary of the Magnolia School site to the City of Chino Tuesday night.

The vote was 4-1 with McCombs dissenting after lengthy discussion on the matter that had been tabled from the Nov. 27 meeting. The action served as a proclamation of the board's intent to dedicate the land to the City of Chino for the purpose of drainage and future street development.

This latter purpose was the point that McCombs belabored in debate with Supt. Royce Lapp, architects Dan Carmichael and Dick Kemp, engineer Jim Skinner and other board members.

The dedication would allow the city to take steps for solution of the drainage problem in that area for both the school district and a subdivision being developed by Griffith Developers and built by Chevron Construction. Portable classrooms and trailers are presently on the site for the projected elementary school and these serve as the location for Buena Vista High School at the present time. However, if and when the elementary school became a reality, a street could be constructed on the eastern side and allow access on a residential side rather thar a major highway side.

"If we grant their request we're proceeding on the assumption that we want a street there," McCombs began. "My own feeling about the matter is we don't need a full street back there. It only means something to the subdivider to gain access to the cul-de-sac there. We have a case of some burden being put on the school district to put in a street for a developer. If there is to be a street, we should try to get the subdivider to put in the whole street."

Lapp explained that the board had granted easements to the city six months ago on both the southern and eastern boundaries of the site. The southern easement was rescinded at the Nov. 27 meeting and the question of the eastern dedication was still in a state of abeyance. He recommended the adoption of a resolution of intention to dedicate, the public hearing on the matter and final approval of the dedication.

"I see no reason whatever to unnecessarily tying our hands by having access to the school on only one side. I would not want the only access on Magnolia. It is to our advantage to create a situation where we have pupil pedestrian access from as many points as possible," said Lapp.

McCombs replied that if a residential street were used as a frontage for the school site, it would prove inadequate for school buses.

"I don't see any particular need for that street as far as access is concerned," McCombs stated.

Board President Charles Smith asked the architects for an opinion on the matter. Dick Kemp pointed out that it is better to have a school frontage on a residential street rather than a major or secondary highway, particularly for matters of student safety, unhampered flow of traffic and convenience to parents dropping off children.

Jim Skinner, engineer for Chevron Construction Co. and Griffith Developers, also spoke in favor of the dedication.

Smith then called for a roll call vote. The matter will be considered in a hearing at the Jan. 8 meeting of the board. The next school board meeting scheduled for Christmas Day is canceled.

In other action, the board:

—Approved a motion by McCombs for compensation of school board members. Each member will receive "$20 for each regular or special meeting of the board actually attended, not to exceed $120 in any month."

—Authorized Carmichael-Kemp to proceed with working drawings for the completion of Magnolia Junior High School.

—Received a draft copy of the master plan study from William Skinner and associates of Irvine and Carmichael-Kemp.

—Declared "its intent to enter into a year round school program in one or more district schools effective July 8, 1974."

Air-conditioning pact let for Upland school

By PATRICK SPENCER
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND — Although the expenditure represents nearly 40 per cent of available capital outlay funds, the Upland school board agreed Tuesday to award an air conditioning contract for Foothill Knolls School.

After a lengthy discussion period, trustees voted unanimously to award the $30,987 contract to Triangle Mechanical Inc. of Riverside for the installation of six air conditioning units in two large kindergarten classrooms and four regular classrooms at the school.

Trustees were somewhat alarmed when Business Manager Glenn M. Hardy reported initially that the lowest bid amounted to $50,821. Hardy pointed out, however, that the figure covered the cost of air conditioning all 13 of the school's classrooms.

Hardy said an agreement had been reached whereby the cost of seven units and their necessary electrical wiring would be deducted from the figure, thus bringing the actual cost down to $30,987.

That amount, plus an estimated $2,750 in architectural and electrical and mechanical engineering drawings, would put the project some $2,400 over the $31,300 presently budgeted, Hardy said.

The most expensive portion of the project, he said, would be modifications necessary to increase electrical power to the school to run the additional cooling units.

After exploring the cost breakdown and some of the electrical modification necessary, the board agreed with President William Rugg that "we sure aren't going to get it any cheaper."

When the project is completed, only three other schools, Upland Elementary, Baldy View and Sierra Vista, will remain without air conditioning in the district.

In other matters, Dist. Supt. Bill Blaster announced that the district's application for $100,000 from the state Department of Education to finance a Professional Renewal Program for teachers is expected to be acted on and approved this week in Sacramento.

Under the program, the staffs of Cabrillo, Upland Elementary, Valencia and Foothill Knolls schools will receive 20 days of intensive training provided by professors from the UCLA School of Education and four specially trained district master teachers over a six-month period beginning in January.

The voluntary program, Plaster said, will give the teachers "greater sophistication in the science of teaching."

In other business matters, the board adopted a policy granting workman's compensation payments for approved volunteer workers in district schools.

A policy extending group health and accident coverage to regular employes working three or more hours daily was also accepted and approved on a first reading.

Ask Dr. Brothers

The stingy suitor

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I know I'm neurotic about money, but hard as I try, I can't seem to change when it comes to dollars and cents. My miserly attitude has been at the root of the breakup of at least two friendships and it really interferes in my relationships with women. I know I shouldn't let other guys pick up the check at lunch or when I'm on a double date, but if the other man is generous, I simply don't argue. I've never admitted this before but it pains me to pay for my date's dinner or an evening on the town. Lately, I go through a whole routine discussing women's liberation with my dates on the pretext of supporting it, when actually all I support is the idea that the gal should pay for her own meals and theater tickets. I don't understand how I can be so aware of this problem and still not be able to do anything about it. I hate myself but it doesn't stop me from behaving in the same old chintzy way.— P.T.

Dear P.T.: Sometimes people find it so difficult to break habits and attitudes about money because their ideas are rooted in the past and usually go back to early childhood training.

Your reluctance to part with money, for instance, may well be traced to a strict, rigid, punishing attitude toward toilet training.

Some children may feel that if so much attention is focused on the process of elimination, then it is better not to part with anything. This may result in compulsive collecting of even valueless things — newspapers, string.

There is a kind of childish defiance and rebellion in giving as little as possible. An employee, may give as little of his service and time; he may withhold himself. A man may withhold money from his wife and dole it out in tiny amounts so he can maintain control, and also because this habit of withholding is unconscious and dates back to his early childhood.

Money can also mean physical and emotional security. To children and adults, the giving of money represents an expression of love and affection. Some adults want to go back to the secure role of childhood where everything was automatically provided and where they didn't have to worry about paying for food and clothing. They may unconsciously want to push their friends into the comforting role of parents who provide.

This may be in your unconscious when you allow your friends to pick up the check. What you're doing is asking for complete love and acceptance; you're acting out some of the unresolved conflicts about love and security that go back to your early life with your parents.

Because these patterns of insecurity are so old, they are hard to change, but this doesn't mean change is impossible. It might be wise to get professional help to solve these emotional problems now so that your miserliness doesn't increase and ruin your chances of happiness. Since you've already lost some friends because of your difficulties with money, it is important to correct this now before you lose more. It would also be valuable to overcome this difficulty before your marry.

Add spice

To add a little spice to the great American classic, the home seamstress can run up shirtwaist dresses in true autumn shades — like a bright primary or a jewel-toned dark. Or pick a plaid in tomto, shamrock and crayon yellow. Or choose a check in teal and redwood brown. For a little eye-diversion, sew the top in a stripe and pair it with a skirt in a polka dot or a herringbone. Keep the designs small, though, so they don't become overwhelming or fight one another.

Asbestos in nation's water pipes hit as cancer risk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Further production of asbestos cement waterpipe for drinking water should be banned because the 200,000 miles of it that already exist in this country may be exposing Americans to a needless cancer risk, according to a group of researchers.

The request for a ban, lodged Monday with the Environmental Protection Agency by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, brought an immediate counter attack from the asbestos industry which says there is no evidence to link watercarried asbestos to cancer or any other health problem.

The center told the EPA that decades of exposures may pass before cancer starts showing up but "the problem of limiting the public's exposure to asbestos calls for immediate action." The group previously asked the Food and Drug Administration to ban the use of absestos filters in food and beverage preparation because it said fibers of the mineral are escaping into the food supply.

Asbestos is fairly ubiquitous in the environment. In airborne form in heavy concentrations it has been known to cause lung cancer and other problems, although there is less known about its effects in food or water.

Barry Castleman, a researcher for the center, said in an interview "there's no proof that the levels (of asbestos) in water represent a hazard to health, and maybe the population can tolerate it." But he said there is no reason the public should continue to be exposed to it and "I think there is a very good case for not making anymore of this pipe."

Warning by petroleum executive

Dirtier air, less gas may be price for keeping lights on

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The price of keeping the electrical generators turning may be dirtier air and even less gasoline for motorists, a leading petroleum executive has warned the City Council.

Fred Hartley, president of Union Oil, also warned that oil refineries must be exempt from the "rolling blackouts" the city is planning on as a last-ditch measure. Otherwise, they will have to close down completely, he said.

Hartley and D.A. Sedgwick, vice president of Texaco, appeared at City Hall before the Ad Hoc Committee on Energy Conservation.

Union can provide 5,000 more barrels of oil a day to the Department of Water and Power for the city's electrical generating plants, Hartley said.

But, he said, it would be high sulfur content oil—the type currently barred by air pollution regulations—and producing it would cut into Union's gasoline-making capability.

Gasoline production would drop by 200,000 gallons a day, he said, and if all California refineries made such a switch, the impact would be to slash gasoline supplies by 2.1 million gallons a day.

He said cuts in electricity to the refineries would lead to no gas or oil for any use.

"If you want to slow us down 25 per cent (in electricity) beyond the 20 per cent slowdown already resulting from the Arab boycott, we would have to shut down," Hartley said.

If rolling blackouts of three hours a day hit the refineries, he said, it will take two or three days after each blackout to get them working again, and since the blackouts would occur every day, they would effectively shut down production of all petroleum products.

Union could begin "tomorrow" turning out high sulfur oil for electrictl generating use, he said. California oil companies do not produce such fuel in any considerable quantity now because there is no market for it, since its use is banned by air pollution laws.

If all the state's refineries were to join in, they could produce 18 million barrels a year of high sulfur content oil, Hartley said. That would be a "major step" toward easing the shortage, he said.

The DWP has already asked the county Air Pollution Control District for permission to burn high sulfur oil to avoid blackouts.

Hartley suggested that the generating plants store the high sulfur oil and the low sulfur oil in separate tanks, and burn the high sulfur oil on "good days" when air pollution is not a great problem, saving the cleaner oil for "bad days" when the smog thickens.

Hartley's own suggestions for cutting back on every usage included closing all shopping centers on Sundays; forcing the Los Angeles Times not to print its Sunday edition, and limiting the hours of radio and television broadcasting.

Bradley said that the crisis is so serious that it will affect everyone, and "What people want to be assured of is that they're going to be treated fairly."

Mariner picks up exciting information

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Mariner 10, a tiny unmanned spacecraft launched 38 days ago, has not reached its destination of Venus and Mercury yet, but it has already excited scientists by picking up unexpected transmissions from a stellar body deep in outer space.

The transmissions Mariner picked up were ultraviolet emissions and they came from a nebular cloud—an enormous mass of glowing gas — 128 light years from Earth, scientists reported. The emissions showed hydrogen and helium originating in the nebula, known as the Gum Nebula, never before measured.

Dr. A. Lyle Broadfoot, principal investigator of ultraviolet spectoscopy, said it was too early to evaluate the significance of the measurements, but he said they indicate "there is apparently less hydrogen in interstellar space than we had thought." The emmissions could therefore alter the basic theory of the nature of outer space.

A colleague, Dr. Bruce C. Murray of Cal tech, said it was only 11 years ago that the first measurements of infrared pentetrations of the solar system from stellar space had been discovered and predicted the new data would be of tremendous importance.

Mariner 10, the first spacecraft to use the gravity of one planet to reach another, will sweep by cloud-shrouded Venus at a distance of about 3,300 miles Feb. 5 and then will bend on a trajectory taking it to within 621 miles of Mercury on March 29.

Murray said the excellent quality of television pictures indicated that some of the most significant data of space exploration to date would come when Mariner relays closeups of the surface of Mercury.

The topograpy, craters and atmospheric measurements, compared with similar studies of the Earth, the moon and Mars, should furnish a whole new bank of knowledge about the manner and timing of the formation of the solar system, Murray said.

Six in car die in train crash

KITTRELL, N.C. (UPI) — The engineer of a freight train that struck a car Sunday, killing its six occupants, told officials the vehicle stopped at a crossing then without warning pulled into the path of the train.

A mother, her three children, and two teen-age boys were killed returning from church when the 25-car Seaboard Coastline train rammed into their vehicle.

The engineer, Daniel E. Mathhews Jr., 60, of Cary, N.C., told police the car darted into the path of the train without warning and that it was dragged about a half mile from the rural crossing one mile south of U.S. 1 before he could stop the train.

An answer to too much sweetness

Dry and not very sweet, Italian Anise Cookies provide welcome variety to all the rich cookies at Christmas time.

Roasted chopped natural (unblanched) almonds give these toast-like cookies plenty of crunch. They are delightful "dunkers" for coffee or wine. For informal refreshments, you might offer them with small glasses of Sherry.

ITALIAN ANISE COOKIES

3 cups sifted unbleached flour
1 cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1¾ teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
2 to 3 teaspoons anise seed, crushed
4 eggs, well beaten
2 tablespoons cream
1 cup chopped natural almonds, roasted

Sift flour with sugar, baking powder and salt. Mix in lemon rind, anise seed, eggs and cream to make soft dough. Divide in half. On floured pastry cloth roll each half of dough into 10 x 8-inch rectangle. Sprinkle each rectangle with half of almonds and roll up as for jelly roll starting from 10-inch side.

Slide onto greased cooky sheet. Flatten to 1-inch height. Bake at 350 degrees 20 to 25 minutes, or until lightly browned. Cook slightly; cut into slices about ½-inch thick. Place on baking sheet and toast in moderate oven 4 to 5 minutes. Makes about 4 dozen.

SPICY MOLASSES COOKIES

Cream ½ cup softened butter, ½ cup softened shortening and 1 cup sugar until fluffy. Add 1 cup light molasses. Mix well, then add 3 slightly beaten eggs. Sift together 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon and ginger, ½ teaspoon each nutmeg and ground cloves. Stir 1 tablespoon vinegar into 1 cup undiluted evaporated milk. Add dry ingredients alternately with evaporated milk to molasses mixture. Mix well. Stir in 1½ cups raisins and 1 cup chopped nuts. Drop by spoonfuls onto buttered baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 8 or 10 minutes or until golden brown. Cool, then frost with favorite vanilla icing.

Salad with every bite a surprise

A fresh salad with a surprise taste with every bite peps up traditional festive meals. One such is a Mushroom Sukiyaki Salad inspired by the growing interest in Oriental foods. This combines fresh mushrooms, slivered cooked chicken, crisp vegetables and a dressing of salad oil, lemon, soy sauce and ginger. This is a salad for all seasons.

MUSHROOM SUKIYAKI SALAD

½ pound fresh mushrooms
1 pound (2½ cups) slivered, cooked chicken.
1 cup diced Chinese or green cabbage
½ cup shredded carrots
½ cup thinly sliced celery
½ cup bean sprouts, bamboo shoots or sliced water chestnuts
1-3rd cup sliced scallions
2-3rds cup salad oil
¼ cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons imported soy sauce
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground ginger

Rinse, pat dry and slice fresh mushrooms. In a large salad bowl combine mushrooms, chicken, cabbage, carrots, celery, bean sprouts and scallions. Combine remaining ingredients; blend well. Pour over mushroom mixture; toss well. Makes 4 to 5 portions.

DOUBLE HOLIDAY TREAT

Plan ahead to enjoy your own holiday parties. These two dishes can be made ahead and brought out at the last moment for a buffet. To make the Holiday Ambrosia, top, stir 1 cup dairy sour cream until soft and smooth. Fold in 1 cup cream, whipped, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon ginger and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Combine with 3 cups of oranges, pared, cubed and drained, a 1-pound, 4-ounce can pineapple chunks drained, ½ cup flaked coconut and ½ cup miniature marshmallows. Spoon lightly into glass bowl or compote. Garnish as desired with additional orange segments and long-stemmed maraschino cherries. Makes 8 servings. For the Cheese and Vegetable Salad Loaf, combine 2 envelopes plain gelatin, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup dry white wine and 1 teaspoon chicken — seasoned stock base. Stir over medium heat until dissolved. Mix in 1 pint small curd cottage cheese, 1 cup grated carrots, 1 cup grated zucchini, ½ cup grated radishes and ½ cup chopped green onions. Then fold in 1 cup cream, whipped. Turn into a loaf pan or any seven-cup mold. Chill about 3 hours until firm. Unmold onto a tray and garnish with fresh vegetables and salad greens. This recipe will serve 8 or 10 and is a fine contrast to the Ambrosia.

It's not too late to make fruit cake

Have you been too busy to make a fruit cake for Christmas?

Well, it's not too late if you use this recipe for California Christmas Cake. It needs to stand only a day or two before serving. Rich and moist, it is full of almonds and fruits and has a subtle orange flavor.

if you have a cake dome, use it instead of wrapping the cake so you won't disturb the Rum Syrup glaze; and if you can spare the room in the refrigerator, let the cake rest there. It will be easier to cut chilled.

CALIFORNIA CHRISTMAS CAKE

1 cup slivered almonds
2½ cups flour (unsifted)
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup butter or margarine, softened
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 eggs
1½ cups buttermilk
½ cup golden seedless raisins
½ cup mixed diced candied fruits
Rum syrup (reccipe follows)

Chop almonds; mix with flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Cream butter with 1 cup sugar; beat in orange and lemon rinds and eggs until blended and smooth. Beat in almond mixture alternately with buttermilk. Beat in raisins and candied fruit. Turn into well-buttered and floured 9-or 10-inch tube pan or any pan or mold that holds at least 3 quarts.

Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour and 10 minutes or until a pick inserted into center comes out dry. Remove from oven and pierce at 1-inch intervals with pick. Slowly pour Rum Syrup into cake in pan. When cool, loosen sides with narrow spatula and remove cake from pan. Place under cake dome or wrap and let stand for 1 or 2 days before serving.

RUM SYRUP: Combine ½ cup sugar, 1-3 cup orange juice and 2 tablespoons lemon juice in saucepan; heat, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Stir in 2 or 3 tablespoons rum or 1 teaspoon rum extract. Makes 12 to 16 slices.

Indian bureau boss sees new power for job

PHOENIX (UPI) — The Interior Department's new commissioner of the Bureau of Indian Affairs says his post has a lot more muscle now to do battle for American Indians.

Commissioner Morris Thompson, an Athabascan Indian from Alaska, said that his interior post was recently elevated to rival an assistant secretaryship, a move he said should give him far more power than previous commissioners.

Thompson, sworn into office two weeks ago, was here to attend the annual National Tribal Chairman's Association.

He promised tribal chiefs that he would consult with Indians throughout the country — among them the militant American Indian Movement leaders — before the agency charted any new course.

"Indians," Thompson said, "have the right to expect an efficient and responsive bureau." And the federal agency, controversial for decades, has a "great opportunity" to finally change its image in the coming years, the commissioner said.

Some tips to follow when choosing a side of beef

Buying a side of beef?

Do you know what to look for? Do you understand beef quality grades, yield grades, and the differences between buying beef in bulk and in the supermarket?

If you're uncertain, here are some tips from the U.S. Department of Agriculture:

— Look for the USDA Quality Grade: Be sure of the eating quality. The USDA quality grade is a good guide. There are eight USDA grades covering the entire range of beef quality — Prime, Choice, Good, Standard, Commercial, Utility, Cutter, and Canner. Federally graded beef will be identified by a red shield-shaped stamp enclosing one of these eight grade names. Not all beef is federally graded, but the first three — Prime, Choice, and Good — are readily available. USDA Prime is the highest quality. USDA Choice is very high in quality and is the one most commonly found in supermarkets. USDA Good is quite satisfactory to most beefeaters.

— Know what you're paying for: Carcass beef is sold by its "hanging weight" meaning you pay for the whole thing, including the fat and bone that is trimmed away when it's cut up. Here's an example:

If you bought a 300-pound side of beef you'd probably receive about 225 pounds of retail cuts to take home, but you would pay for the entire 300 pounds including the 75 pounds of fat and bone that were removed. This makes the actual cost per pound of take-home beef considerably higher than the listed cost per pound. And remember that a side of beef is not all steak. A rule of thumb is that the average carcass or side will yield about 25 per cent steaks, 25 per cent roasts, 25 per cent ground or stewing beef, and 25 per cent waste.

— Look for the USDA yield grade: Some carcasses have much more waste than others — and this is very important in determining their value. To determine about how much waste you'll have to pay for, refer to the USDA yield grade. The highest — Yield Grade 1 — will yield about 80 per cent or more retail cuts to take home, compared to the lowest — Yield Grade 5 — which will yield about 66 per cent or less retail cuts.

Bulk beef buying usually involves a considerable amount of money. Learn all about it before you buy. Write for a single free copy of "How to Buy Meat for Your Freezer" (G-166) to: Office of Communication, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250. Please include your zip code.

Before the lid goes on

When you pick out a can of vegetables at the store, are you ever curious about what work goes into making up that can?

Take asparagus for example. Asparagus is cooled immediately after harvesting even if it is to be canned in just a few hours. The first step in processing is to cut off the tough butt end. Next, the asparagus is put through two washing periods.

And, if a canning plant uses the continuous inspection service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, an Agricultural Marketing Service inspector is on hand through all these steps and more. He checks the quality of the product and the cleanliness of the equipment and the plant.

After the washings, the asparagus is blanched. This means that it is partially cooked, quickly, in boiling water or steam. This is a further cleaning step, and it also softens the asparagus so it is more easily handled in the rest of the processing.

If the asparagus is being packed as cut spears or tips, it is put through a cutting machine. Plant workers sort the asparagus for quality and remove any undesirable pieces.

Whole spears are packed by hand into cans. Cut spears and tips are put into cans on a circular filler. The cans are moved under holes in the filler and the plant worker helps fill the asparagus into the cans.

The cans are then automatically filled with a little hot water and put through a machine that exhausts the air from them. More hot water and a little salt are added, and then the lids are automatically sealed on the cans.

The cans are then placed in a retort, a machine that resembles a large pressure cooker. They are cooked at a high temperature. This is what sterilizes and preserves the product.

After the processing is completed, the USDA inspector takes samples of the various types of asparagus packed so he can certify its quality.

He checks on size, odor, color, taste, degree of tenderness, and freedom from defects. Asparagus can be packed as U.S. Grade C or Standard . . . that's good quality; or U.S. Grade A or Fancy — that's top quality. If you see a can with U.S. Grade A or Fancy on the label, you can be sure that there's high quality under the lid.

MAKE FRIENDS WITH YOUR FREEZER

The ingenious American housewife has found many ways to economize and still provide her family with protein in these days of high meat prices.

Some have substituted other protein-rich food for higher priced meat cuts — or even meat itself.

Substitution, however, is not always a welcome alternative to a family used to eating meat regularly. Many families have turned to home freezers, particularly in recent months, to be able to buy less expensive meats and other foods in quantity, for use in a wider variety of dishes over a longer period of time.

Freezer storage gives the buyer great flexibility. He or she can buy in quantity or when the price is down.

Freezers can be a boon or a bust, depending on how savvy you are in selecting the right freezer, and preparing your food to be frozen properly.

Consumer research publications are a good guide to the selection of a freezer. These magazines are available at most newsstands or public libraries. Remember, select a freezer that's large enough to quick-freeze your food and keep it cold — in the quantity you're likely to use.

Where you put your freezer will have something to do with its ability to keep food cold. Don't place it next to a hot water heater, the furnace, or where the sun can beat on it during the day. Leave enough space so the air can circulate around it to dissipate any heat radiated from the refrigeration coils.

Limit the amount of food you place in a freezer at any one time to the quantity that can be frozen in 24 hours. This usually will amount to two or three pounds per cubic feet of freezer capacity.

Freezing slowly, above 0 degrees Farenheit, impairs the texture and appearance of meats, and they may lose liquids.

Your supplier may wrap and quick-freeze your meat for you. Although the price is certain to be more, this will save you the effort of preparing and wrapping the food for freezing, and you won't have to risk over-loading your freezer during the process.

If your freezer does not have an interior thermometer it's a good idea to buy one. They are inexpensive, and will give you a quick way to check the temperature. You can therefore avoid running your freezer at abnormally low temperatures, using expensive and scarce energy, or keeping it set too high.

Foods selected for freezing should be of good quality and wholesome. If you are really trying to economize, you may want to buy less than the highest or fanciest quality. Remember though, no method of storing will improve the quality of meats and poultry. Freezer storage only increases shelf life — not the quality of the product.

Inspect meats and poultry for freezing with care. All meats sold to the public must be federally or state inspected for wholesomeness. However, meat can become damaged in transit or through bad handling.

U.S. Department of Agriculture grades for beef, veal and lamb are helpful guides to quality. The grading of meat by USDA is purely voluntary — at the discretion of the packer.

If you are buying frozen meat for your freezer, make sure it is hard frozen. Don't take soft packages — their contents may already be deteriorating.

Select your meats just before leaving the store and get them home quickly. Prepare them for the freezer as soon as possible.

Common-sense hygienic practices are good guides to sanitary food preparation. Wear clean clothes . . . wash. hands with soap and water thoroughly . . . wash all knives and other utensils. When finished cutting up one package of meat, wash the knives, forks and your cutting surface before starting on another package. This will prevent your cross-contaminating your meat or poultry.

All meat should be wrapped in moisture and vapor proof packaging materials. Aluminum foil is excellent for wrapping irregularly-shaped packages. The objective is to exclude as much air as possible. Air causes oxidation, impairing the appearance, flavor and texture of meats.

Frozen meats can be stored indefinitely, if held at 0 degrees or lower temperatures. Eating quality and nutritive value do change, but very slowly at 0 degrees or below.

Rate of change increases rapidly as the temperature rises. The loss of quality in storage is directly related to the temperature and time food is held above zero.

Meats can be cooked with or without thawing. Starting with a frozen piece of meat does not materially affect it's taste or texture. But, insert a meat thermometer as soon as the meat is softened enough, so you can check on the internal temperatures to know when its properly cooked.

When thawing meats for cooking, thaw in the refrigerator at below 40 degrees to prevent bacterial contamination. Remember, all meats contain some bacteria, and become further contaminated during handling. Freezing and cooking meat at the proper temperatures prevents bacterial growth.

If thawing in the refrigerator is too slow, place the meat in a tightly wrapped waterproof package in cold water or under running old water.

Follow these hints and let your freezer help you save money on frozen meats and poultry.

A cold ride, but fruitful

VALLEY SPRINGS (UPI) — Edwin Smith didn't stop to think about his attire when he tried to prevent a man from stealing his small pickup truck.

Smith, of Sacramento, was ready to retire for the night while visiting friends in this small Calaveras County community when he looked out a window and saw a man trying to drive off in his truck.

Clad only in underwear, Smith ran out of the house and jumped into the bed of the truck as the thief started to drive off. Smith pounded on the cab and yelled, but the thief continued to speed down the highway, authorities said.

For 12 miles Smith shivered in the back of the truck as the man drove in 30-degree weather toward San Andreas.

Finally, the thief saw a highway patrolman, stopped the truck and fled on foot.

Both Smith and the patrolman chased the man through the woods but failed to catch him, authorities reported.

Do appliances add to energy crisis?

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than a third of the 820,000 portable electric dishwashers sold in the United States in 1972 were shipped during the last quarter of the year, in expectation of Christmas business.

While a dishwasher may not be everyone's most cherished Christmas present, portable electric kitchen appliances are a consistently popular gift, says the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers (AHAM). The trade group estimates that about half of all such articles are sold at this season — ranging from 20 per cent of all blenders to more than 50 per cent of corn poppers, coffee urns, electric knives, hot plates, griddles and fondue units.

How much this contributes to the growing energy crisis is hard to determine. A spokesman for the Chicago trade association said fuel for cooking represents only five per cent of the total energy picture. Home heating and lighting, for instance, use much more. The spokesman also said it's probably more economical to use small appliances than range-top and oven units for many jobs, unless you cook an entire meal in the oven.

On the other hand, devices such as yogurt makers, electric can openers, ice crushers and popcorn poppers are about as essential to most of us as a third hand. Convenient, yes. Necessary, no.

Yogurt is easily made in Mason jars kept warm in inexpensive, insulated picnic bags, or in vacuum bottles.

An electric can opener is a necessity for someone with hand disabilities, but not for the able-bodied.

Ice trays that make chips or cracked ice in an ordinary refrigerator-freezer unit are widely available at a fraction of the cost of electric crushers, whose chief demerit in my book is not so much cost and energy demand as noise pollution.

A pressure cooker with its sealing ring and pressure gauge removed makes an excellent range-top corn popper.

Some electrical gadgets burn less wattage than a standard light bulb but others use 500 or more watts. The cumulative effect of using manual substitutes can help save energy, just as lowered heating thermostats and turned-off light bulbs do.

At the same time, some portable electrical appliances represent economical, useful buys for many households.

A toaster-oven that preheats in two minutes instead of the 10 to 15 minutes required for full-size ovens can roast or bake a casserole for a one or two-member household, make toast, bake or heat small quantities of rolls and cookies.

A blender, like a toaster-oven, is a high-wattage user, but its operating times are so brief that it represents no serious energy drain. In seconds, it can puree cooked vegetables and fruits to make small servings of soup from food that might otherwise be thrown out.

A blender can also puree freshly cooked fruits and vegetables for homemade baby and junior foods before seasoning is added for adult members of the household.

Hollandaise sauce that takes 10 minutes or more to make on a range-top can be blended in a small fraction of that time, with butter quickly premelted.

Homemade blended nut butters often are cheaper than their commercial counterparts and can be made in small quantities to assure freshness.

An electric food grinder can pay for itself quickly in terms of purchase price and operating costs if you use it to grind raw meat instead of buying the ready-ground kind at markets. Its other advantages include absolute control of fat content, and meat blends tailored to your family's tastes. Some grinders have optional salad maker attachments that grate, shred or slice raw fruits and vegetables faster and with greater safety than old-fashioned hand-graters.

The list could go on and on, and the lesson is obvious. Before you choose a portable appliance, ask yourself how it will be used and how often. A portable electric dishwasher is a luxury if you run it with partial loads, says the manufacturers' association. But if it is always fully loaded, the cost of operation in terms of water usage and power to heat the water i sless than is needed to wash the same number of dishes, glassware, cutlery and pots and pans by hand after every meal.

Mom's lucky no traffic on road

CAGLIARI, Italy (UPI) — Police said it was a good thing for Rachelle Marganelli, 37, that she went into labor on Sunday when pleasure driving was banned.

"In normal conditions the baby might well have been born on the trip," said the patrolman who drove Mrs. Marganelli to a hospital in time for her to give birth to a son.

Meat prices drop for fall parties

It is indeed a joy to again see meat cases everywhere filled with a wide selection of beef cuts. The substantial drop in the retail prices of beef happened just in time for the round of fall parties. Many hostesses have come to rely on the great popularity of beef and choose it for the starting point of their menus.

For an appetizing, inexpensive way to serve beef for special occasions, we suggest this flavorful Beef in Green Peppercorn Sauce. Green peppercorns are not to be confused with dried black peppercorns which most everyone uses with a free hand, whole, freshly ground or cracked depending on the dish. The flavorful whole green peppercorns come canned in brine or packed in vinegar in jars. You'll find them in the spice section of gourmet food stores. Green peppercorns have long been used by chefs in famous French restaurants. Cooking connoisseurs know them well, too.

The beef used in this party entree is economical eye of round. It is a lean solid muscle from the bottom round, often cut for steaks and roasts. For this recipe the beef should be sliced very thinly. To make it more tender pound with a mallet to flatten. Then cook very quickly in hot olive oil, remove the beef and deglaze the pan with wine and broth. Add the green peppercorns and the other seasoning. Simmer, thicken a little and the sauce is ready for the beef. Browned small whole potatoes would go well with the beef in green peppercorn sauce. Plan the rest of the menu to fit the occasion.

BEEF IN GREEN PEPPERCORN SAUCE

1 pound beef eye of round, sliced thinly
2 to 3 tablespoons olive oil
½ cup dry red wine
1½ cups beef broth
1 large clove garlic
1 bay leaf
1 tablespoon green peppercorns
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon butter
Salt to taste

Have butcher slice beef very thinly if possible. To slice it yourself, partially freeze beef before slicing. Pound slices between pieces of waxed paper or plastic wrap until flattened. Heat small amount of olive oil in skillet over high heat. Fry beef briefly on both sides, adding small amounts of remaining oil as pan dries out. Remove beef from skillet to plate. Pour wine and all but 2 tablespoons beef broth into skillet. Add garlic, bay leaf and peppercorns. Heat to boiling scraping up drippings. Reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes. Discard garlic clove and bay leaf. Mix cornstarch with remaining beef broth. Add to hot mixture along with butter and stir until sauce is thickened. Return beef and juices to skillet and heat through. Season with salt to taste. Makes 4 servings.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The market's third rally in a row was spurred on by news that the Committee on Interest and Dividends had asked several banks to justify their latest hike in the prime rate and some conciliatory statements by the Saudi Arabian oil minister, according to E.F. Hutton. "The advance not only makes the market turn last week look more sigificant but also suggests that we will get a full technical correction of the steep six weeks 200 point decline," the firm says. Such a correction would carry the market back to the 890 area of the Dow Industrial Average, it adds.

Scout caretaker receives plaque

CLAREMONT — George Gale, 120 Pomello Drive, was a recent recipient of a plaque from the Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council.

Mrs. Gerald Weber, first vice president of the council, gave Gale the plaque for his years of taking care of the council's scout house, La Casita, located next to his property.

Gale provides on-the-spot protection by being certain that only those persons who belong in the scout house are there.

Scripps helps train women as managers

CLAREMONT — Scripps College is one of 16 throughout the nation participating in a new two-year program of administrative internships for young women in college and university administration.

The program, funded by a $290,000 Carnegie Corp. grant and administered by Cedar Crest College, Allentown, Pa., is designed to provide a pool of trained women administrators for colleges and universities. One or two graduates under age 30 from each of the 16 institutions will be assigned, following a 15-day workshop, to work directly with a senior administrator at a cooperating college.

Upon completing the internship, the women will be assisted in seeking positions or further training by a placement service. They will also be included in professional rosters and their availability will be advertised in appropriate academic media.

DMV advice

Store extra car or pay registration fee

Families owning two or three vehicles who plan to store one during the energy crisis should have those automobiles off public streets by Dec. 31.

Otherwise, these vehicles will have to be registered for 1974, aid Robert Cozens, director of the state Department of Motor Vehicles.

Many persons have the erroneous impression their present auto registrations are good until the Feb. 1 deadline, he added.

"But this is just not the case. Our registrations are actually on a calendar year basis, due and payable on Jan. 1. The extra month is simply a kind of grace period."

Any vehicle parked on a public street is subject to a registration fee, even if it isn't driven, he said. Stored vehicles should be put on blocks to preserve tires and battery cable disconnected.

Blood donation role spotlighted

A domumentary on the blood donor program in Southern California will be presented on Medix, Channel 2, Sunday at 1 p.m., after the football game.

The prgram, originally scheduled on Nov. 25, was pre-empted by President Nixon's talk on the energy crisis.

The program demonstrates the protection provided the public by the blood program. It will illustrate the collection, processing and distribution of blood.

Erma Bombeck

I was retrieving a week's supply of underwear from under my son's bed the other morning when my husband admonished. "How old does a boy have to be before he begins picking up his own clothes?"

"Thirty five?" I asked.

"This isn't a quiz," he said angrily. "It's an indictment against our children and you!"

"How did I get into this?" I asked.

"Because you're not firm. Given two weeks, I could have these kids leaving their rooms like the foyer of a model home."

"How?" I panted.

"It's very simple. Every time I see something on the floor, I hide it. When they finally run out of clothes, they come to me and ask where it is, and that's when I lay it on them. From here on in anything that isn't picked up and deposited where it belongs, disappears."

The first few days weren't bad, but by the end of the week the entire house was in chaos.

When the younger son found his gym clothes in the desk drawer and his jacket under the cushion of the sofa, he immediately assumed it was the work of his brother and retaliated by hiding his tennis shoes on top of the hot water heater and his books in the mailbox.

Their sister, upon finding a pair of trousers under her waterbed, reciprocated by hiding a record album under the bookcase and a basketball in the clothes hamper.

They in turn hid her billfold in the tea canister and her gloves in the woodbox.

Things came to a head one night when I reached out to pick up my needlepoint and it wasn't there.

"You shouldn't leave things laying around," said my son.

"Just hold it," I shouted. "It wasn't my dumb game, but if that's the way you want to play it . . . " (I hid his bicycle lock in the oven.)

By the beginning of the second week, the entire house was paralyzed. No one could go to school because they couldn't find books or leave the house because there was nothing clean to wear. My Car keys had been gone for four days.

We approached my husband as a group. "We give up," we said. "From here on in, we're reformed. We pick up everything and when it is dirty, we put it in the clothes hamper. What's the matter?"

"My car was towed away today," he said numbly. "It was illegally parked."

The last time I saw a look like that on a face, we rubbed the puppy's nose in it and put him outside.

Appeals expected to delay execution of three blacks

TARBORO, N.C. (UPI) — The lengthy appeals process is expected to postpone the executions scheduled next month of three blacks found guilty of raping a white woman.

Defense attorneys for the three defendants said Monday they plan to begin appeal procedures, and a state Supreme Court official said the process could take months.

In an unusual Sunday court session, Vernon L. Brown, 22, Bobby Hines, 23, and Jesse Lee Walston, 23, were found guilty of raping Deborah Tostoe early on the morning of Aug. 5.

Superior Court Judge John Webb pronounced the mandatory death sentence, bringing to 18 the number of persons facing the death penalty in North Carolina.

During the trial each of the defendants said they had sexual relations with the woman, but said she consented. Miss Tostoe, as a prosecution witness, denied she had consented to the act, saying she had feared for her life.

The last execution in North Carolina was in 1961.

Cal Poly seminar on economic situation set

POMONA — Phase IV, an overview of the economic situation today, will be discussed by Dr. Marvin Kosters, counselor to the chairman, Cost of Living Council, and Peter Schabarum, chairman of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, at a seminar Dec. 18, at Cal Poly's Kellogg West.

Barry Rans, chief of statistical division of Interanl Revenue Services; and William Henderson, comptroller of Cinch-Graphik, will also speak on the effectiveness and results of Phase IV price regulations.

Area businessmen and women will have an opportunity to discuss individual problems with IRS representatives in workshops covering wholesale-retail and manufacturing-services operations and the petroleum and construction industries. A special session covering Phase IV forms and reporting procedures will be conducted by IRS personnel.

The seminar is scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. A $15 registration fee includes materials, parking and luncheon. Interested persons may register by calling 595-7511, ext. 271.

Klassen vows all Yule mail to be moved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postmaster General E. T. Klassen, pledged Friday that all Christmas mail will move out of the post offices and their bins will be empty at quitting time on Christmas Eve despite growing problems caused by fuel shortages.

"We don't plan to get caught like we did last year," Klassen said at a news conference. "We are committed that on Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, our post offices will be free of mail."

Klaassen said that meant there may be late mail in the "pipelines" but there will be none left behind in the post offices themselves.

'74 car sales? how do we handle crisis?

DETROIT (UPI) — Confusion over the energy crisis and uncertain economic conditions could push new car sales down as much as 12 per cent in 1974, General Motors Chairman Richard C. Gersstenberg said today.

In a year-end statement in which he predicted sales may drop as low as 10 million U.S. and foreign cars from this year's record 11.5 million, Gerstenberg urged the Nixon Administration to "fashion a coherent and realistic national energy policy."

"With uncertainty about the duration and economic impact of the (oil) embargo it is hardly surprising that the consumer is confused and is likely to be confused until our government establishes clear cut policy directions to meet this emergency," Gerstenberg said.

The confusion already has sent sales of new cars slipping, especially the larger models. Sales were off nearly 13 per cent in November as automakers found themselves unable to meet demand for small models. About 200,000 auto workers face layoffs before and after Christmas because of the slump.

To meet the increased demand, Gerstenberg announced two more assembly plants are being converted to production of small cars in addition to four which are being changed over by Jan. 1. The first West Coast production of the subcompact Vega will begin at the Van Nuys, Calif., assembly plant next July as will production of compact Novas, Venturas and Omegas at the GM plant at Tarrytown, N.Y.

Car sales this year will be about 11.5 million, 5 per cent over last year's record, but below the 11.8 million cars expected earlier. Sales next year could end up between 10 and 10.5 million cars, Gerstenberg said.

Truck sales will continue strong in 1974 with total sales of 3 million trucks almost equaling this year's record 3.2 million, he said.

"This would be a good year for the industry by most standards—above sales in any year prior to 1972—although clearly not a record year," Gerstenberg said. "Once adequate guidelines have been established—guidelines that the American consumer understands—we are convinced that our economy will adjust and resume its forward momentum."

Coffee break

Louisiana claims the popular tradition of the American coffee break originated in New Orleans over 40 years ago when a major importer began the Brazilian custom of allowing employes a few minutes off each morning and afternoon to sip a cup of coffee.

For Thursday, Dec. 13

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may feel lucky where chance is concerned, but optimism isn't justified. It's not your day for what appears to be a sure thing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try not to boast when talking to others about your family or possessions. You'll impress them but not the way you'd like to.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today you'll be tempted to make hasty decisions. They'll not represent your best thinking. Errors will result. Be factual in what you commit to paper.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You must be very cautious at this time if handling someone else's money or goods. Misuse could have legal complications.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll base important decision today upon the way you'd like things to be, rather than the way they are. Be more realistic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're susceptible to flattery. Someone who wants something knows this. He'll use it as a tool to manipulate your generosity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're likely to devote far too much time today to less-productive interests. Later you'll race to catch up on what you should have done.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today you'll feel a need to exaggerate a bit to justify your position because one you want to impress makes you feel insecure. Be yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Screen any advice you get from others very carefully. Someone has some big ideas for you. They won't serve your needs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't court embarrassment today by asking to borrow something you could be turned down on. Make do with what you have.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your generosity will get out of hand today. You'll wonder why you made such a lopsided bargain. Let the other guy make some concessions.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This will be one of those days when you'll want to sweep work that should be done now under the rug till later.

Your Birthday Dec. 13

This will be a restless year, with more travel and new contacts than usual. Before it's over, many of your views will have altered considerably.

Crime spree sends bowler down gutter

FOSTER CITY (UPI) — A bowling buff who turned to burglarizing other bowlers during their nights out was shot to death by police, officials said Wednesday.

Charles W. Tibbets 23 who police said maintained an average of 187 at a local alley was shot when he tried to flee a police stakeout after burglarizing the home of a bowler here.

Officers said Tibbets a medical orderly had a list of 50 families, all bowlers, and that 23 names had been crossed off the list. It showed what nights they bowled they said.

Officers said they found $5-000 in cash and checks in Tibbets' home. Police said it had been looted from the homes of several bowlers.

Russ testing natural gas automobiles

MOSCOW (UPI) — Five experimental vehicles using natural gas instead of gasoline are being tested on Moscow streets, the Tass news agency said Saturday.

Engineers found them reliable and needing only "insignificant" adjustments, Tass said in reporting initial results.

The vehicles, manufactured at the Gorky auto works, are similar to automobiles, except their fuel tanks are replaced by a cylinder with liquefied gas.

The advantage of the natural gas vehicles is that they do not pollute the air and are cheap to operate.

The first natural gas vehicles were tested in the 1930s, but they were crude and at the time there was a shortage of natural gas, Tass said.

The Soviet Union has large gas deposits in Siberia and Central Asia.

By 1976, Moscow will have about 35,000 natural gas cars, trucks, buses and taxis operating on its streets, Tass said.

Improving the environment has also prompted development of electric vehicles, the agency said. Already being tested is a minibus seating seven passengers capable of a top speed of 50 miles per hour.

Tass said the electric vehicle is still in the distant future while the natural gas vehicle is in the near future. Planners are preparing for mass production, Tass said.

Crisis is only one-way street

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — Supervisor James Mayfield, 32, mindful of the energy crisis, pedalled a bicycle almost 60 miles from Apple Valley to attend a recent meeting of the county board of supervisors.

Supervisor Dennis Hansberger arrived in a horse drawn carriage, covering 20 miles from Yucaipa.

But after the meeting, they both went home by car.

Treatment of GI addicts criticized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A leading House proponent of mandatory treatment for drug addicted veterans said today the government has "callously disregarded" the needs of returning drug casualties, causing a "national disgrace."

Basing his comments on a 90 page General Accounting Office (GAO) study he requested, Rep. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., said he would propose legislation to rectify the problem, since administration plans for handling G.I. addicts have ranged from "ineffective to disastrous."

His legislative proposals, he said, would include, when necessary, mandatory civil commitment of drug-addicted servicemen to a federal program of treatment for up to 42 months of medical aid and rehabilitation.

Murphy said because there was no effort to rehabilitate or treat service-connected drug addiction, veterans returning from Vietnam and other parts of the world are unable to get jobs, promotions, education, or licenses to practice a trade.

He also said that, "most tragic of all, many of these men who fought honorably in the war in Southeast Asia are unable to discontinue drug use because they are unable to find any treatment at all."

"The administration wanted to give them 24 days of detoxification and get them out of the Army," he said. "All this accomplished was to enable the addict to support a state-side habit."

Murphy said the military's program to review drugconnected discharges for possible recharacterization was a "worthy goal," but the GAO report showed the program "is severly deficient."

New legislation is "sorely needed," Murphy said, because, "the problem of military addiction cannot be solved by quietly slipping a detoxed serviceman back onto the streets and alleys of our cities. It hasn't worked and it won't work."

New satellite will dip into atmosphere

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Space agency plans to launch a new type Explorer satellite late Thursday that will swoop in and out of the upper fringes of earth's atmosphere on command from ground control stations.

The 1,450-pound spacecraft will spend a few days at a time in an orbit coming within 72 miles of the earth to study the atmospheric regions where interaction with energy from the sun has a key role in earth's weather.

The satellite is to be launched at 10:13 p.m. PST from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., into an initial orbit ranging from 93 to 2,590 miles high. After a few weeks, small rockets aboard the satellite will drop its orbit to as low as 72 miles high.

The Explorer cannot stay that low for more than few days because of high heating from air friction, and because the draft of the atmosphere would slow it so it would gradually drop deeper into the atmosphere. The rockets will then raise it to a higher orbit. The dips will be repeated several times.

LANCASTER, Calif. (UPI) — It may not be true that you can't go home again but at the very least it's good advice for an escaped convict.

Robert Aden, a convicted burglar, escaped five weeks ago from the Mira Loma Detention Center's honor farm. He appeared at the center Sunday night, using a fictitious name, to visit an inmate friend. An alert deputy recognized Aden and quickly returned him to the other side of the bars.

Oil pinch puts Tokyo Jews in middle

Businessmen accept new pro-Arab policy

TOKYO (UPI) — The Jewish business community in Tokyo is reacting calmly to Japan's recent shift to a pro-Arab policy.

Approximately 450 Jews live in Tokyo and half of them are in the import-export business, but none seems to be considering retaliatory action against Japanese exporters because of the shift in government policy.

The change was outlined Nov. 22 in an official statement by Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka. It urged Israel to withdraw from all Arab territories occupied during the 1967 Six-day war and warned that Japan "would have to reconsider" its relations with Jerusalem if the Israelis did not comply.

"I feel the Japanese are between the devil and the deep blue sea and have no option," said one Jewish metals trader.

"I sympathize with them. Their oil supply is infinitely more important to them than their tiny trade with Israel. It is not an anti-Israeli step. If they don't obey they can't do any business with us anyway because they won't have any oil."

The Jewish community of Japan, in keeping with its lowkey attitude, decided at a meeting not to issue any statements on Japan's new businessmen contacted by UPI asked that they not be quoted by name.

"As residents here we are limited," one importer said.

Another metals trader remarked "the Japanese have a serious problem and they are handling it in a very Japanese way—overreaction to extremities because of inability to project long term, which is a national characteristic."

"But," he said, "the Jewish Community in Japan is an infinitessimably small dot in world trade. Our feelings have no influence, power or leverage."

A Jewish auto and electronics exporter, also requesting anonymity, said, "I think that the effect of the policy shift will be relatively minor on exports, although imports could be affected."

He said the Jewish community "is not a cohesive body. They are mostly agents for principals abroad or controlled by home offices. If the whole Jewish community in Tokyo got together and ballyhooed, there's not a single thing they could do."

Asked if he thought his firm would stop trading with Japan if Tokyo broke diplomatic relations with Israel, one exporter said:

"Not really. We are tied to Japan in so many ways, we've been here a long time. The Japanese have no love for the Arabs, you know. Actually, Japan has a lot more in common with Israel politically and culturally."

European summit floating on oil

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

COPENHAGEN (UPI) Nine worried men will sit down for a "fireside summit" in this Scandinavian capital this week to try to save the dream of European unity.

The summit on Dec. 14-15 will bring together the presidents or prime ministers of the nine European Common Market nations. At the top of their agenda will be oil and how to get it without ransoming Europe as an independent power.

Or rather it would be at the top of the agenda if they had an agenda.

The leaders have billed this summit as a "fireside chat" and have dispensed with such trappings as agendas, communiques and position papers— all in an attempt to avoid being pressured into making decisions.

They already have been criticized by politicians and newspapers who feel some hard decisions are needed. But the last European summit meeting —in Paris last year—took too many decisions and Europe has spent the past year trying unsuccesfully to live up to it.

That summit proclaimed the target of a "European union" by 1980. Toward this end, it ordered the Common Market to come up with an energy policy, a social policy, a scientific policy and an industrial policy by the end of this year. As it stood then, the Common Market was only a customs union with a much-criticized agricultural policy. No more.

Bureaucratic infighting after the admission of Britian, Ireland and Denmark to Common Market membership took up the first third of the year. Successive crises over money, inflation, food shortages and oil deflected other planning.

In the end, all the policies that were to have been in place by now either did not get done, or were erected in name only, with no meat on their bones.

Even the centerpiece of Europe's economic unity—the transition at year's end from the first of the second stage of economic and monetary union— has foundered on the year-long monetary upheavals and has been postponed in fact, if not in name.

In October, the oil crisis rolled into this embarrassing situation. Its arrival provided the first external challenge to European unity. In the eyes of many critics, Europe flunked.

After the Middle East war, the Arabs cut back oil production to all European countries and embargoed Holland entirely, to punish the Dutch for earlier pro-Israeli statements.

Alarmed, the nine Common Market countries responded with their first major exercise in coordinated foreign policy—a statement tilting heavily toward the Arab side.

The Arabs eased the cutbacks to eight Common Market nations, but maintained the embargo on Holland. The Dutch, facing an oil drought, pleaded for oil-sharing or some other form of solidarity but their partners refused.

The Times of London accused the eight of helping the Arab world boycott one of their own allies. West German Chancellor Willy Brandt said that, unless the Common Market nations come to Holland's aid, "Europe is nothing."

The leaders also will issue a declaration on "Europe's identity,' the values and beliefs on which the Common Market is based.

But unless the issue of solidarity with Holland is settled, the declaration may be an ironic exercise that will have little effect on an increasingly skeptical European public.

Another summit topic is Europe's relations with the United States. Oil has badly complicated that relationship, too, and an "Atlantic Charter" which Europe and the United States have been writing is hanging fire.

The summit meeting was suggested by French President Georges Pompidou as a means to frame a European policy toward the Middle East so strong that it cannot be ignored in the peace talks. Pompidou acted after the superpowers, Israel and the Arabs behaved during the war as though Europe did not exist.

The summit will be held at the Bella Center, a sprawling, modern exhibition hall, in Copenhagen because Denmark is the current chairman of the Common Market's ministerial council.

Essential minerals in short supply

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. Geological Survey reports that in addition to the nation's other shortages many minerals that are essential to industry are also in short supply.

In critically short supply are ores of aluminum, chromium, manganese, mercury, silver, tungsten, asbestos and nickel. Joining the critical list soon will be lead, zinc, titanium, uranium, barite and high quality clays.

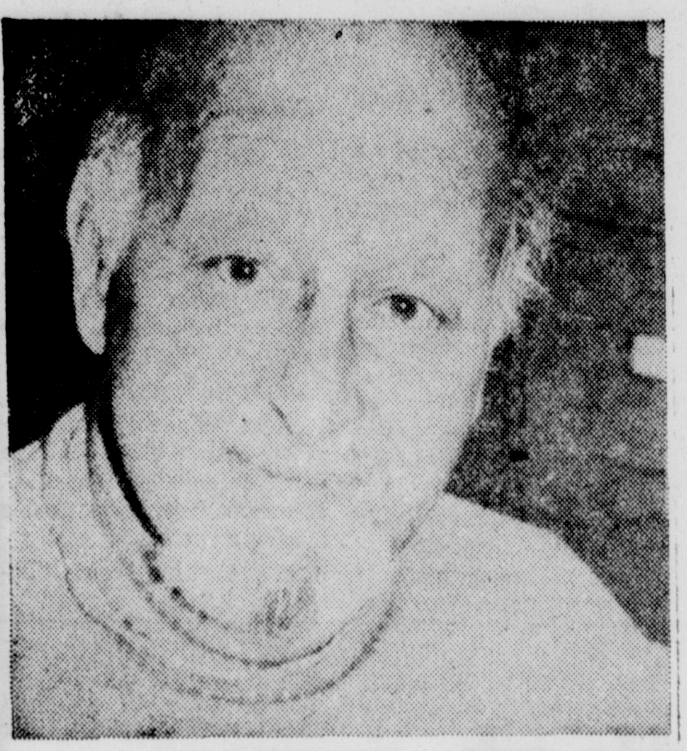
Drawing doctor says, art will give peace of mind

By RALPH NOVAK

WARWICK, N.Y. (NEA) — Frederick Franck possesses a talent that is rare in the boom and rattle of modern society: he knows how to find peace of mind.

For instance, he says, when he first heard of the outbreak of the recent Mideast war, he was stunned.

"I am allergic to war anywhere and this made me feel almost suicidal," he recalls. "But I went for a walk to a field near my home and I began to draw. I began to draw grass, nothing more. But to draw it I had to look at it and soon I began to see everything more clearly again."



DR. FREDERICK FRANCK

Franck, a Holland-born 67-year-old doctor, dentist and artist, is no escapist. He worked for three years as an oral surgeon with Dr. Albert Schweitzer's hospital in Gabon, he is the author of 15 books and his art is displayed in more than 20 museums around the world.

"Art is subersive," he says. "Through art you can get outside yourself and really get to know something. And it is very hard to destroy something you have drawn and come to know."

Frankc settled in Warwick 10 years ago, rebuilding an old hotel and grist mill into his present home and a small, nonsectarian meditating chapel he calls "a sacred space." The chapel, named "Pacem in Terris" after the second Vatican council, is also used for plays and concerts and is the tourist attraction in this calm, wooded town about an hour's drive from New York City.

Franck himself now spends most of his time writing and drawing and has just published a book, "The Zen of Seeing: Seeing-Drawing as Meditation."

"I have learned," he writes, "that what I have not drawn I have never really seen, and that when I start drawing an ordinary thing I realize how extraordinary it is, sheer miracle: the branching of a tree, the structure of a dandelion's seed puff 'mouse is miracle enough to stagger sextillions of indidel's,' says Walt Whitman."

"While drawing a rock I learn nothing 'about' rocks but let this particular rock reveal its rockeyness. While drawing grasses I learn nothing 'about' grass, but wake up to the wonder of this grass and its growing, to the wonder that there is grass at all."

Franck concedes that 220 million Americans could not, say, solve the energy crisis by sitting down nsemble to draw petroleum, but he argues that the drawing itself makes people better able to understand and cope with their own reactions. And, he adds, what and how well you draw is irrelevant.

Moscone campaign underway

By CARL INGRAM

PLACERVILLE (UPI) — Sen. George Moscone offered his hand to the leathery oldtimer on Main Street and introduced himself as a candidate for governor.

"You're the one who wants to take guns away," the man said.

"No, that's Joe Alioto," Moscone replied. "I don't want to interfere with people's rights to go hunting or have gun collections. I'm against the 'Saturday night special.'"

Stuffing his hands into bib overalls, the man tartly told Moscone, "I won't support anybody who wants to take our firearms away, and I'll tell you that for sure."

"Nice to talk to you, sir," the lawmaker responded, turning to another passerby, offering his hand and announcing, "I'm Senator Moscone and I'm running for governor."

George Moscone, urbane 44-year-old liberal Democrat from San Francisco, was prospecting for votes in the fiercely independent and politically conservative California Motherlode.

He visited the sparsely populated communities of the Gold Rush country in a fourwheel drive vehicle as part of a border-to-border 2,500 mile preprimary campaign tour of California.

Moscone, running fourth in a recent public opinion poll in a field of seven Democratic gubernatorial contenders, started Nov. 26 in the tiny Siskiyou County community of Hilt and plans to finish Dec. 15 at San Ysidro on the Mexican border.

While other gubernatorial hopefuls are concentrating their campaigns in major metropolitan areas such as Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco and Sacramento, Moscone headed into the back country with only occasional campaign runs into the cities.

He intends to campaign hard in the cities after the first of the year, but n the meantime is on what he calls a "listening" journey through rural areas where gubernatorial contenders seldom venture.

"People up north, they really feel government doesn't exist for them except for their longtime district representatives in the legislature," Moscone said as his borrowed four-wheel drive truck pushed deeper into the Motherlode.

Moscone, leaning to wave at a passing Highway Patrolman, explained to his passengers, "These people have to know you care. You have to make yourself available and let them speak at you. There has to be the picture of a complete candidate and not of a political strategist."

At Sutter Creek, he was greeted by Mayor Frank Benjamin and City Clerk Bob Grover who colunteered to newsmen that they were "tickled to death" with the state's new conflict-of-interest law sponsored by Moscone.

Then the campaign moved to a lumber will employing about 500 workers and more hand shaking with hardhat employes. Several told Moscone they had seen him on television.

As the contender moved from one hand to another, Leonard Randolph, who works in a plywood shop, told newsmen, "The only thing I've got against him is he is on the wrong side of capital punishment. I think if a fella has done something wrong, he should pay for it."

Later, Moscone, who opposes the death penalty, said he had "no real problem" with the capital punishment issue during the tour. "I just tell people I don't believe in killing people. I say some people ought never to get out. A Manson ought never to get out," he said.

At the Preston School of Industry near lone, a stateoperated reform school, Moscone met with California Youth Authority staff members for an hour and a half on budget issues, problems, and then headed into Jackson, a once roaring gold camp where prostitution lingered longest.

At the Wells Fargo Bar, the piano player broke into "I Left My Heart in San Francisco," and somebody good-naturedly called out, "Who is that Republican?"

Crooked tail often heritage from mom

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Orpheus has a very bad bend in his tail near the tip. Would it be better to have the tip of the tail cut off even though it doesn't seem to bother him? Orpheus had a Siamese mother and has never been bothered by that tail since he was a kitten as far as we know. But if it is better to chop it off, we'll chop it off. Whatever you say.—T.A.

Dear T.A.: Such tail tip idiosyncracies are particularly common in Siamese or part-Siamese kittens. Trimmming these twisted tail tips is seldom necessary or advisable when it is a hereditary defect. Fractured tails frequently require amputation, however, as they are more likely to cause severe interference with the circulation to that portion of the appendage beyond the fracture.

DEAR DR. MILLER: It is kind of a shock to see how attached my mother is to our new puppy. She never liked dogs before. She has suddenly become an authority on dog raising and insists that I should be giving this pup the most expensive canned dog food. It is a straight meat thing. She says she will even pay the difference between that and the cost of the puppy meal I am now giving. Is there any reason why we should switch to that when Ms. P is doing so well on the meal? She eats it well, elimination if perfect (and plentiful) and she looks very healthy.—G.J.

Dear G.J.: Ms. P's performance to date indicates her present diet agrees with her. Her own veterinarian is the one to make specific recommendations concerning diet change though he would probably agree with me that none is indicated. Puppies on the "all meat" food may frequently suffer from indigestion and weight loss which is primarily due to the inability of a puppy's digestive tract to handle such a diet properly.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Malcolm, our myna bird, has bad breath. Assuming bad teeth aren't causing the problem, what's left?—F.Y.

Dear F.Y.: It's a mighty safe assumption Malcolm myna is without teeth or problems related thereto. Most likely cause for his halitosis would be a localized infection in his mouth, sinuses, or throat. A local bird-oriented veterinarian is the one to cure the problem—and clear the air.

Natural gas shortage? incredible

NEW YORK :UPI) — Proved reserves of natural gas in the 50 United States dropped during 1972 for the fourth time in the last five years, the American Gas Association reported.

At year-end in 1972, reserves were estimated at 266.1 trillion cubic feet, a decline of 4.6 per cent from 278.8 trillion cubic feet at the close of 1971, the Association said.

In 1970, reserves posted a gain as the result of 26 trillion cubic feet of new gas found in Alaska's North Slope, it added.

Catering course to be offered at Cal Poly

POMONA—Catering management, part of Cal Poly's hotel and restaurant mangement program, will be offered for the first time by the university during winter quarter of classes beginning Wednesday, Jan. 2. This is the first time this course has been offered by a four-year California university.

Jack Travis, food and beverage director of the university's Kellogg West center for continuing education, said the combination lecture and lab course will offer students classroom exposre to practical problems.

Due to the uniqueness of the course, Travis said he had to structure it himself completely from top to bottom. The course will deal with all aspects of catering service, from fast food dining to formal banquet dining procedures.

"You definitely need a checklist when you're catering," said Travis. "First you have to determine what a client wants, then you deal with all the practical problems. You must consider the type of group you're serving, the price range the type of food desired, what type of preparation is requested, and the facilities you have to work with."

He feels that the university provides an abundance of facilities presenting practical catering situations. The class will observe and participate in preparations at Los Olivos Commons (the six residence complex dining hall), Campus Center (dining area for commuter students, primarily fast food service) and Kellogg West (formal dining area for conferences and meetings and a coffee shop).

Noting that students will be directly involved in catering procedure, Travis said they will "get into both the manufacturing and creative end to it. We'll work with airplane catering, mobile catering and all tthe newest advances in the field."

Woman has last words in fight over her name

ROSEVILLE, Mich. (UPI) — Mrs. Pamela Lutz of Roseville wanted to use her maiden name, McCabe, as the middle name of her driver's license, but the state stuck by the law and insisted she go by "Pamela Jean Lutz."

Mrs. Lutz retaliated.

A spokesman for the Secretary of State's office said she didn't do anything illegal but she might have some trouble cashing a check.

She signed the license "Donald Duck."

$565,000 grant to aid drug program

By TONY AULT
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — More than half a million dollars recently granted the West End Drug Abuse Control Coordinating Council, Inc. (WEDAC) by the National Insitute of Mental Health will greatly expand the drug rehabilitation services available to West End residents.

Joseph Espinoza, executive director of WEDAC, a nonprofit corporation, said the $565,000 received Dec. 1 will fund the drug rehabilitation and after-care programs, which include "Straight Ahead," "Reach Out West End," Jerico House, La Casa De Fe, "Project Social Action" (PAS), and the Chino council of Social Services. It will allow WEDAC to extend aid to nearly 1,400 persons addicted to or otherwise adversely affected by the habitual use of dangerous drugs.

The six drug rehabilitation and after-care programs contracting with WEDAC are aiding 103 West End addicts and drug abusers in their attempts to break the habit and become productive citizens.

Espinoza said the grant was obtained by promising the National Insititue of Health, under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), that WEDAC and its contracting agencies would provide a matching amount of money through "in-kind" services to addicts and drug abusers, believed to total more than 10,000 in West End.

WEDAC itself, governed by a community-elected board of directors, will provide contact and intake services for the six West End drug rehabilitation programs and administer the mental health grant. The cost of administration is estimated at $69,368 over a 12-month period.

Drug addicts or drug abusers seeking help in breaking their habits may go to WEDAC offices at 309 N. Euclid Ave. in Ontario. They will be interviewed by counselors and referred to the program that would be most beneficial to them. Addicts or drug abusers are informed of WEDAC's services in hospital's prisons and jails, said Espinoza.

Those needing help may also visit any of the contracting rehabilitation program offices for counseling, particultry PAS at 869½ E. Foothill Blvd., Upland and the Chino Council for Social Services at 5219 D St. in Chino.

Directors of the six drug rehabilitation and after care programs in West End recently explained the functions of each program.

John Bowler, director of the "Straight Ahead" program, said it will be able to provide 10 detoxification beds and 30 residential beds at the center in the old Casa Blanca Hotel in Ontario with its share of the grant to total $87,808. The program usually begins with the addict being placed in a detoxification bed in virtual isolation for approximately eight days until he can stablize his condition.

The person later moves into the residential center for 30 days under the strict supervision by trained counselors who give him a battery of psyhcological, vocational and academic tests. In that period he will receive both group and individual counseling that hopefully will make him aware of his particular problem, regain his self-respect, and reduce his physical and psychological need for drugs. He will not be permitted to go outside of the center.

After the first 30 days, center counselors will aid the individual in finding employment in the community. He will continue to attend group counseling sessions in the evenings. Finally, after about 60 days he will be permitted to leave the center to find housing. He may return to the center for further counseling or crisis intervention whenever he feels the need, said Bowler.

Al Hutton, executive director of Reach Out West End, said his program is directed towards the younger drug addict or drug abuser. He operates a 25-bed residential center.

The residential program includes group and individual counseling, restricted group activities and family counseling. Youths are generally restricted to center activites for the first 30 days, and later allowed to live at home and return to work or school with evening group counseling sessions.

Reach Out West End also provides services to the contact, intake and after care programs of WEDAC through its walk-in center at 404 W. D St. in Ontario. Reach Out West End is budgeted for $63,566 for both the residential and walk-in programs.

Sonny Navarro, director of Jerico House at 5151 F St., Chino, said its $34,010 share of the grant will help them expand their "crisis center" for "hard core" drug addict on probation from jails and prison, and may allow extension of services to other individuals in trouble with drugs. Jerico House has 12 beds available. Persons at Jerico House participate in group and individual counseling, religious services and Bible study to help them get off and stay off drugs and to maintain employment.

David Scott, director of La Casa De Fe, "The House of Faith," said its portion of the grant, totalling $51,236, will help maintain the residential center in Ontario that includes stabilization, group and individual counseling and vocational training. Some women at the center are employed and have means to pay for part of their room and board.

Gustavo Ramos Jr., director of PAS, said its part of the grant totals $38,818 will aid in their after care and crisis intervention program. After care centers specialize in finding housing and employment for ex-addicts.

The Chino Council for Social Services, according to director Pat Schaarsmith helps the ex-addict find employment and housing in the Chino area and provide crisis intervention. It has been budgeted $28,368.

Espinoza said that the health institute grant provides only a part of total funding needed to maintain the various programs. Private donations are still needed.

A child is waiting

2 brothers need an understanding family

By CHARLOTTE LOBB

The family that adopts Tim and Kevin will add a Little League infielder and a Boy Scout enthusiast to their household.

Tim, 11 is the more competitive brother. He enjoys sports of all kinds.

He often displays his mechanical aptitudes by taking apart his bicycle and interchanging parts for unusual combinations.

Tim's low self esteem does not help his school work where he is enrolled in Educationally Handicapped classes. His adoptive family will have to help him to understand his own value as a person.

Kevin, 9, prefers camping and scouting activities to competitive sports. His school work is average.

Both boys are easy to get along with and are not behavior problems. Kevin is more apt to reach out for parental affection than is Tim.

The adoptive family should be experience with children so that they can appreciate both the boys' differences and their similarities.

"The boys, particulary Tim, will probably test a new family with defiant behavior," says their social worker. "The mother should not expect a close relationship from the boys at first. Both parents should be able to accept the academic limitations of their new sons."

To add variety to your family's life call the Department of Adoptions, Margaret Sikkens, 338-8461 x 271.

Food shortage 'scare story,' claims Butz

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz labeled testimony before a Senate hearing which predicted food shortages for Americans a "scare story" from a highly political organization.

Butz said persons who foresee such shortages and claim they will result because farmers are not making a profit do not understand basic economics.

The Hoosier native criticized testimony before the subcommittee hearing during a news conference and the 55th annual convention of the Indiana Farm Bureau.

Butz labeled the group foreseeing shortages—The Food Action Campaign—as a "highly political organization" and called John Hightower, its coordinator, "the Ralph Nader of agriculture."

"If you read his statement, he was taking off on the profit structure in agribusiness and attacking profits. This morning he said the reason we are short of petroleum is because the petroleum companies are making profits.

"Nothing is further from the truth," he added. "It takes profits to get investment. By the same token, he was inferring that because large farmers and agribusiness concerns are making profits we are headed for a food shortage. Again, nothing is further from the truth."

Inventory helpful for insurance

NEW YORK (UPI) — You don't expect disaster to strike but you have insurance for losses from same — just in case. But do you have an inventory of what is in your house?

You should have in inventory of all property, written down and complete with photos to help in the event of a loss, says Georgia Skinker, extension family economics and management specialist, University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Keep the inventory in a fireproof place, perhaps a safety deposit box.

Top schools listed in new study

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a major new study of the nation's 1,180 professional schools, released by Change Magazine, the top five schools in each of the 17 professions are ranked for the first time.

Of the 85 schools cited as top-rank, the four leading universities with the largest number of outstanding professional schools are the University of Chicago, Columbia, Harvard and the University of Michigan. Harvard was cited seven times out of 17 professions studied, and the University of Chicago, six out of 17. Change is an education journal. The study it published was done by two Columbia University sociolcgists, Rebecca Zames Margulies and Peter M. Blau. Prof. Blau is a nationally known authority on organizational structures and currently is president of the American Sociological Association.

Expect to 'scramble' for gas, says oilman

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Gasoline rationing or "scrambling" for fuel will face motorists soon, Union Oil vice president John M. Hopkins said recently.

The motorist will pay more and get less gasoline, he said.

"One of two things will happen," Hopkins said. "One, we'll have rationing, with the coupon books, like in World War II, or two, very severe allocation procedures will be instituted, and drivers can scramble for what gas they can get," Hopkins said.

John R. McMillan, who joined Hopkins in outlining the energy situation for business and industrial leaders, predicted, "It's going to get worse before it gets better."

McMillan, president of the Western Oil and Gas Association, said the west coast's supply outlook had worsened.

"We thought we would only be 14 per cent short on the west coast, compared to 17 per cent for the rest of the country, but information I saw a couple days ago now indicates we'll be 17 per cent short here too," he said.

He noted Congress was considering a plan to require that areas with fuel surpluses transfer stocks to hard-hit areas.

MacMillan also said domestic producers were drilling around the clock in efforts to ease the crunch.

"Every rig in the country is busy now," he said. "You can't get a rig. You have to wait your turn. You can't get casing. You have to wait your turn."

Fixing the pipe

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Man and boy I have smoked a pipe for more than 30 years, so naturally I was titillated to learn from Dr. Eleanor Criswell of Sonoma State College, that women consider pipe-smokers sexy.

In the innocence of my youth (I was through puberty before I knew what it was) I had bought my first pipe with, I suppose, some curiosity as to what it was like to smoke one, as well as a notion that it would make me look more mature. (I didn't shave until I went in the Army.) But the thought of increasing my sex-appeal, such as it was, never crossed my mind. Or did it (I was a very young man.)

Dr. Criswell, at the behest of a pipe manufacturing firm, conducted a survey to find out why more and more women are buying pipes for their husbands and boyfriends. A majority of the Ms types reported that a pipe enhanced the male image as "handsome, attractive and sexy." (Golly, I'm starting to blush.)

I don't consider myself sexy, but what's MY opinion against 5,000 Sonoma State coeds (This pipe rated X.)

Smoking a pipe is a simple and rewarding pastime. To start, buy three or four pipes of various shapes and sizes, ranging from $10 to $30. Buy several different cans of tobacco, a tobacco pouch, a package or two of pipe cleaners, a reamer, a tamper, a humidor, a lighter, some fluid, and a large ashtray with one of those cork knobs in the middle. The initial investment in improving your sex image shouldn't run over $100.

Put a little tobacco in the pipe, light it evenly, and puff contentedly. The pipe goes out. You light it again and puff some more, coughing slightly. It goes out again. You re-light it and drag furiously. This stings your tongue and makes your eyes water. Tap out the ashes and start again.

When you have got to where you can keep a pipe going for more than a minute, be off to a party to check out your new sex image. A pouchful of tobacco and a couple of pipes in your new suit makes it look like a Salvation Army reject, but it's one of the penalities of pipe smoking. You always look like a barracks bag.

At the party, be suave and sophisticated. You fill your pipe nonchalantly, spilling tobacco all over the hors d'oeuvres. You burn your finger lighting up, and fill your corner of the room with a pungent smokescreen. You are not the only one with tears in his eyes. Sparks land on your suit and tie, leading to a spirited dance of brushing and slapping. And now the pipe has gone out.

If this elaborate and messy ritual enhances the sex image for the Sonoma State girls, things must be in bad shape in Northern California.

The doctor comments

Some measures help with hiatal hernia

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently my husband has been bothered by chest pains, numbness in the arm, and stomach disorders.

He went for a check-up and the doctor told him he has a hiatal hernia. Could you give us any information you have about this ailment? His doctor said very little could be done about it except to raise his head up while sleeping and to take medication for the acid in his stomach. He is 37 years old.

DEAR READER — I have discussed this problem before, but since there are still so many letters asking about it, I'll hit the highlights.

It is best described as an enlargement of the normal hole in the diaphragm where the esophagus tube passes through it to the stomach. As a result a portion of the stomach literally herniates through the hole into the chest cavity. There is normally a complex closure mechanism at the top of the stomach. When it herniates through the diaphragm, this closure mechanism is faulty. When you lie down, then the contents in the stomach tend to leak backward into the lower esophagus.

The acid stomach contents in the lower esophagus area cause "heartburn." The hernia can sometimes cause aching in the chest and even pains in the arm. However, this must be separated from heart problems. It can also cause faintness. These symptoms occur when the stomach is actually pushing through the enlarged hole.

So, what can you do about it? Raising the head of the bed is important. In fact, any time the person lies down the head should be elevated in such a manner that the chest is up higher than the abdomen. The whole idea is to make it difficult for the stomach, or a portion of it, to slide through the hole into the chest.

Medicine to control the stomach acid is also helpful. In that way, if anything leaks back, it won't burn as much.

Then a person should be careful to eliminate all measures that will compress the abdomen. That means not wearing tight belts, girdles, or constricting garments.

Then it is important not to bend over. Any movement that compresses the abdomen or lowers the chest is apt to cause the hernia to occur and cause symptoms.

It follows that these people should only eat small meals, perhaps at more frequent intervals, and that last meal of the day should be low in fat and of small volume. That is so the stomach will empty completely before going to bed. It is best not to lie down until at least two hours after any meal. If there are any foods that form gas or distention, they should be eliminated from the diet.

Finally, any obesity should be eliminated. And in selected cases when the problem warrants it and there are no other important problems, surgery is sometimes useful.

Now, I can't verify your husband's diagnosis. An examination is necessary to establish that as the problem. If this is his difficulty, these measures should help him to get along better.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on low blood sugar, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Blood Sugar" booklet.

Cites need for tax reform by own experience

LOS ANGELES UPI) — William Matson Roth, a wealthy San Francisco entrepreneur who is a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said that he paid no federal income taxes from 1962 through 1965 arguing that his own experience proves the need for tax reform.

Roth said, "I paid no taxes in those years because I took all of the lawful deductions available to me."

Roth's gross adjusted income totaled $648,000 for the five years in which he paid no federal income tax. He said his deductions for taxes, interest as well as investment, management and trust fees, together with charitable contributions, offset his liability in the years he paid no taxes.

Roth made his income tax disclosure after questions were put to his campaign staff.

Roth also said he paid no state income tax for the year 1970.

"The inequity in the tax system is to be found in the fact that a person in my income bracket and with my form of investments could, until recently, comply absolutely with the law and still owe nothing in certain tax years," he said.

Poly, Notre Dame play in 1976

Cal Poly has found a new athletic rival.

However, it may be a little unfair. Poly is bigger then its opponent.

Poly has 10,500 students while Notre Dame has only 8,054.

It just doesn't seem fair that a California state university would be picking on a parochial school.

No, Poly isn't going big time in football. Thanks to Indiana native Allen Van Winkle, the Broncos are tentatively slated for a 1976 basketball visit to South Bend.

This year's freshmen will get the chance to sample the famous Notre Dame spirit in person and get the goose bumps when "The Victory March" is played.

It's not official yet since all Poly athletic schedules must be approved by President Robert Kramer but Van Winkle, Poly's new assistant basketball coach, has lined up Notre Dame, Dayton and South Carolina in 1976 following Houston and some other biggies in 1975.

Head coach Don Hogan has a live one in Van Winkle, who is obviously no relation to Rip. The young, energetic assistant is handling scheduling and out-of-state recruiting for Poly.

Van Winkle has been around.

After his high school days in basketball-happy Lafayette, Ind., Van Winkle played ball at a Florida junior college and advanced to Southwest Louisiana.

Van Winkle learned a lot as a player and assistant coach in SW Louisiana but was out of a job when the NCAA banned basketball at the Southern school for several violations.

So the young Hoosier joined Hogan's Heroes. His next task is finding the talent to compete against the likes of Notre Dame but the future schedules should help attract ambitious players.

Dr. Bill Arce, athletic director and baseball coach at Claremont-Mudd, was recently given credit by 20-game winner Jim Colborn of the Milwaukee Brewers for his success in a recent article sent by the Associated Press.

Colborn, a former Whittier College star, said Arce gave him his chance in pro ball by contacting Gordon Goldsberry, who scouted for the Chicago Cubs, of La Verne.

Goldsberry took a look at Colborn and signed him. But Colborn didn't make it big until the Cubs sent him to Milwaukee in 1972 for outfielder Jose Cardenal.

In the AP article, Goldsberry was quoted as saying, "I had seen Colborn at Whittier but I was scared off because he had had knee injuries. But Dr. Arce had taken him to Holland on a baseball team the previous summer and spoke so highly of him that I decided to talk to him again."

San Diego State has good reasons to be unhappy about its snub from the wire service rankings and the bowls.

The Aztecs enjoyed an outstanding 9-1-1 campaign, losing only to Houston 14-9, and had the nation's top passer in Jesse Freitas.

But San Diego stays home while teams with four losses take part in the bowl celebrations.

To combat this and to get TV money, San Diego State is considering some afternoon games next season. Aztec officials feel they will get more media exposure in the East by playing day games.

Tourney of Champions

San Dimas features better balance

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

SAN DIMAS — The big names may be missing, but you can bet the competition in this year's San Dimas High School Basketball Tournament of Champions will be furious.

The presence of several High School All-American highlighted last year's inaugural tournament, but those big names have graduated—leaving the T of C with just eight super teams with a little better balance.

The individual stars are gone for this year's classic, but the names of the schools competing will have college scouts and coaches flocking from all around the state.

Competing this year is defending 4-A champion Verbum Dei, which has now won five consecutive CIF championships, defending 3-A titlist Murphy, which is returning the famous Ollie Matson Jr., CIF 4-A runnerup Pasadena, defending T of C champion Morningside, CIF quarterfinalists Covina and Ganesha and St. Elizabeth from Oakland. And of course host San Dimas will also see action in the tourney. The Saints reached the semis in the 2-A playoffs last year.

When you look at last year's records of the eight teams involved, you can't help but believe that these eight are probably the best in California.

Verbum Dei finished the season last year with a 29-2 record, Morningside capped its 1972-73 campaign with a 28-1 mark, Pasadena recorded a 29-3 season, Murphy finished 27-4, Covina was 28-3 on the year, Ganesha whipped up a 23-6 year, St. Elizabeth ended the season with a 29-2 record, and San Dimas flashed a 20-6 mark.

All total, the teams competing this year had 213 victories and only 27 defeats.

There are a few changes this year in the tournament.

Upland, Damien and San Joaquin Memorial are not in the classic this year and have been replaced by Ganesha, Covina and St. Elizabeth.

"We don't have four All-Americans in the tournament this year," stated tournament chairman Jim Lough, "but we'll have more balance."

Lough was speaking of All-Americans Clifton Pondexter from Memorial, Lewis Brown from Verbum Dei, Jackie Robinson from Morningside and Terry Tate from Murphy.

The confrontation between Pondexter, who is now playing for Long Beach St., and Brown, playing from Nevada Las Vegas this season, was the high spot in the tourney last year.

But last year there were a few weak teams in the eight-team classic and it took away from the overall competitiveness.

"We try to get the best teams around to play," Lough continued. "And with only eight teams in this tournament, you've got to figure that better teams get eliminated in this one tournament than in 90 per cent of the other tournaments played this year. To show how tough this tournament has been, take a look at last year's Memorial team. They lost two games here and then went up north to win the Tournament of Champions up there."

Some of the toughest teams in Southern California have turned down invitations to the tournament simply because of the rugged competition.

"We've invited teams like Katella, Marina and Long Beach Jordan to play in the tournament," noted San Dimas coach Bob Espinoza, "but they say 'no way.' They feel the caliber of play is equal to the post-season playoffs."

The tournament begins next Monday night with host San Dimas opening playing against Verbum Dei at 7 p.m. That game will be followed by Ganesha-Pasadena game at 8:30 p.m.

Tuesday night Murphy will face Morningside at 7 p.m. and Covina will battle St. Elizabeth at 8:30 p.m.

There will not be any tournament action Wednesday since Mt. San Antonio College, where the tourney is being held this year, is hosting a game of its own that night.

Verbum Dei, under new head coach John Sneed, is returning four lettermen in David Greenwood (6-10, 210), Roy Hamilton (6-1, 165), Mike Lewis (6-0, 154) and Reggie Bowie (6-3, 172).

Morningside, also under first-year coach Ron Jacobs, is only bringing back one letterman from last year's championship team in guard Oscar Williams. Pasadena is in the same boat as Morningside, as the Bulldogs are also returning just one lettermen—6-foot-1, 154 pound Michael Grey.

Murphy boasts the return of Matson, who averaged 14.6 points per game last year and was named to the All-CIF 3-A team. Covina is checking into its first Tournament of Champions with one of the tallest players this year in Rod Littlepage (6-10), while Ganesha is bringing back three lettermen from last year's 23-6 team which finished runnerup in the San Antonio League. The Giants have already put one tournament championship under their belts this year—winning the Upland-Montclair Tournament last weekend.

Kunzman injured at OMS

ONTARIO — Lee Kunzman, 29, one of United States Auto Club's top sprint car racers was critically injured Tuesday morning when his Eagle-Offy went out of control on the first turn of the Ontario International Speedway and slammed into a concrete wall at a speed estimated at 190 miles per hour.

Kunzman, from Guttenberg, Iowa, was listed in "poor condition" at Upland's San Antonio Community Hospital with a severe head injury this morning. Doctors at the hospital reported that his vital signs were okay and X-rays showed no fractures. The doctors said Kunzman apparently suffered a severe concussion. He had not regained consciousness by this morning.

Kunzman was doing some tire tests at the time of the accident, said Jim Cook, OMS general manager.

According to Ontario Police reports, Kunzman was travelling about 190 miles per hour turning eastbound into turn number one on the 2.5 mile oval track. Officer Joe Hatton in his report said, "He came low into the groove, about one quarter of the way into the turn and went into a slide. He went high out of the groove, hit the wall, looped, and crashed backward into the wall again."

Officer Hatton said the fuel tank on the Indianapolis type racer was punctured in the crash and gasoline leaked out from under the vehicle. He said a small fire started on the right rear wheel, but track safety officers quickly extinguished the blaze before the gasoline ignited.

Kunzman was carefully lifted out of the racer and given emergency first aid by an ambulance crew called to the scene. He was then rushed to the Upland hospital in "critical" condition.

Cook's eyewitness account differed slightly from the Police reports.

Cook said, "Kunzman appeared to lose control of the car in the second turn of the 2.5 mile oval track. The car rapped the wall, did a complete turn and the left rear section hit the wall. The car skidded quite a ways down the track."

There has not been a fatal accident at the Ontario Motor Speedway since it opened in 1970.

Kunzman, according to race track officials, was testing Firestone tires for the Phoenix based Fletcher racing team when the accident occurred.

REGISTERS PANIC

Cleveland Cavaliers' Jim Cleamons registers panic as Lakers' Elmore Smith blocks his path to the basket. But Lakers are now in a panic after losing fourth consecutive game in Cleveland.

Fading Lakers need victory vs. Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers lost a heartbreaker to the Cleveland Cavaliers Tuesday night, running their losing streak to four games and dropping them behind Detroit's Pistons in the NBA's won-lost percentage race.

The 101-100 overtime loss, coming after the Lakers had squandered a 13-point halftime lead, was the sixth defeat in the last seven Laker starts.

The Pistons, who Los Angeles plays tonight, now have the fourth best record in the Western Conference, at 18-11. The Lakers, now 17-13, will have to finish in the top four to make the post-season playoffs.

It was a 12-foot jumper by Cleveland's Fred Foster with 1:02 remaining that beat the Lakers Tuesday and snapped a two-game Cleveland losing streak.

The Cavs were 16-for-53 in the first half as the Lakers raced to a 48-35 advantage. Cleveland emerged from the locker room and outscored Los Angeles 37-19 in the third quarter to take a five-point lead.

With 1:26 left in regulation play, rookie Jim Brewer scored to give the Cavs a 93-89 lead.

Jerry West, who lead all scorers with 32, came down and scored on a jumper to make it 93-91 and Gail Goodrich tied it after the Lakers got possession with 37 seconds left.

West had a chance to end it at the regulation time buzzer but he missed an 18-footer.

The lead changed hands three times in the overtime period before Goodrich sank two free throws to give Los Angeles a 100-99 lead.

Wilkes claims Bruins are ready

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — If North Carolina State thinks it's going to sneak up on UCLA at St. Louis Saturday, it better think again.

The defending national basketball champion Bruins, says quiet-spoken forward Keith Wilkes, definitely will be ready.

"We might have taken Maryland lightly but we're not taking North Carolina State lightly," Wilkes said.

"North Carolina State was unbeaten last season and we're playing them away from home. We can't expect anything but a tough game."

However, the 6-7 senior doesn't subscribe to the theory that North Carolina State will play the Bruins any tougher than Maryland (a 65-64 thriller at Pauley Pavilion here) because the Wolfpack are expected to handle the Terrapins in the Atlantic Coast Conference race this season.

"I don't think you can make comparisons," Wilkes said. "Our game with Maryland doesn't mean a thing as far as Saturday's game is concerned."

The Bruins will take a 78-game victory streak—18 games better than the University of San Francisco's old college basketball record, which UCLA broke last year—to St. Louis.

"Honestly, I don't think about the streak that much,"said the Santa Barbara, Calif., product. "None of us do. It really doesn't motivate us.

"You know what motivates us? Knowing we can lose any time we step out on the court. The only way you can avoid losing is to go out there and playgood ball."

In three games, Wilkes is the Bruins' No. 2 scorer behind Bill Walton with a 14.0 average. He averaged 13.5 points as a sophomore and 14.8 as a junior.

As a senior, he's one-half inch taller and five pounds (180) heavier.

"I'm a little bigger and a little more experienced," he replied when asked if he was a better player than a year ago.

Although he is a senior, Wilkes won't become 21 until May 2. There could be even some more growth.

"I haven't thought about pro basketball," he declared. "I'm not going to jump ahead of myself. This season plus my final year at UCLA are enough to think about right now."

Energy crisis affects valley

POMONA — Chaffey College guard Pierre Rankin and Pomona-Pitzer forward-center Geoff Northrop were selected Players of the Week at Tuesday's weekly basketball luncheon at The Castaway Restaurant.

Rankin, a sophomore from Fontana, had nine steals and scored 18 points to lead Chaffey to a 67-49 win over MSAC last week. Northrop, a freshmen from La Jolla, scored 23 points and grabbed 15 rebounds in Pomona-Pitzer's 81-64 triumph over Cal Lutheran.

The energy crisis is starting to affect Pomona Valley sports.

Because the Claremont Colleges have decided to save energy by extending the Christmas vacations, both Pomona-Pitzer and Claremont-Mudd have been forced to switch their Jan. 5 games.

Pomona-Pitzer has postponed its Jan. 5 game at Whittier to Feb. 9 while the scheduled La Verne at Claremont-Mudd game on Jan. 5 has been switched to the Bonita High gymnasium. La Verne will play at C-M on Jan. 22.

Poly hopes to announce grid coach by January

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

POMONA — The green light is finally on for Cal Poly in its efforts to hire a new head football coach.

Athletic director Don Warhurst is finally able to pursue a new gridiron leader.

Even though Roy Anderson announced publicly his retirement two weeks ago, he didn't submit his official letter of resignation until this week.

Anderson will be leaving Poly in February when his contract expires.

"Naturally, I'm sorry to accept Anderson's resignation," Warhurst said. "I appreciate all he has done for us. I wish him well in whatever he decides to do."

After five years at Poly, Anderson has decided to take life easy for awhile before looking for another position in football or business.

Warhurst has already been busy talking to candidates.

More than 30 persons have expressed interest in the Poly job. Included on the list is assistant coach Marv Weetman, who is Anderson's recommendation. Other possibilities include college, junior college and high school coaches.

Warhurst hopes to name a new coach by Jan. 1 and to present the final three candidates to Dr. Robert Kramer, the Cal Poly president, within 10 days.

"I would say a person with college coaching experience would have an advantage," Warhurst added, "but I wouldn't rule out anybody because of that. We're looking for a man who can recruit and raise funds."

Poly isn't the only Southern California university looking for a football coach. UCLA, Long Beach State and Cal State Los Angeles are also busy interviewing candidates.

Raiders picked over Broncos in battle for AFC West title

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders were listed as eight-point favorites over the Denver Broncos for Sunday's AFC's Western Division championship game.

The San Francisco 49ers were eight-point underdogs in Saturday's game at Candlestick Park, according to Harrah's Tahoe Racebook listings released Tuesday.

Other pro odds: Minnesota 14 over the New York Giants; Washington 13 over Philadelphia; the New York Jets two over Buffalo; Kansas City 14 over San Diego; Atlanta 14 over New Orelans; Baltimore two over New England; Green Bay five over Chicago; Cincinnati 18 over Houston; Dallas 14 over St. Louis; Los Angeles 10 over Cleveland and Miami 8 over Detroit.

Western Kentucky was two over Louisiana Tech for Saturday's Camellia Bowl game in Sacramento, Calif.

Rams seeking club record for victories

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams dispensed with their normal day off Tuesday and conducted a brief practice session, later viewing films of their 40-6 win over the New York Giants Monday night.

The Rams, now 11-2 and guaranteed a spot in the post-season playoffs, will be out to set a team record for most wins in a season when they meet the Cleveland Browns here Sunday.

Cleveland, 7-4-2, needs a win to keep their longshot playoff hopes alive.

The Rams' previous best years were 1967, when they were 11-1-2, and 1969, 11-3.

The ground-oriented Rams should easily eclipse the NFL rushing attempts record of 632, set in 1934 by the Detroit Lions and equalled in 1949 by the Philadelphia Eagles. Los Angeles now has 614 attempts in 13 games, an average of more than 47 carries per contest.

The Rams will begin full workouts Wednesday in preparation for the Cleveland game.

SCORES TWO — Pomona-Pitzer guard Norm Carter scores two points on a layup in the Sagehens' victory over Southern California College at Memorial Gym Tuesday night.

'Hens hone game, stagger, then win

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — Pomona-Pitzer played a great first half and then got careless Tuesday night at Memorial Gym.

Fortunately, the Sagehens were so good the first half they built up a 37-18 lead. It reached 51-24 eventually. Thus in spite of 21 turnovers and being outscored 25-4 in nine-and-a-half minutes in the second half, they still came out a 64-57 winner over visiting Southern California College to deal the visitors their third loss against five wins.

They played excellent ball in the first half against the Vanguards. With freshman Brandon Boyd leading the way with 11 points, the 'Hens connected on 17 of 26 field goal attempts while SCC could make only nine of 40.

Those per centages figure out to 65.3 for the Pomonans and 22.5 for the Vanguards.

The Sagehens continued the onslaught for the first six and a half minutes of the second half. Scott Pease's bucket at 13:21 made it 51-24, Pomona-Pitzer.

With 13:10 left, Bob Hoehn picked up his fourth foul and coach Les Nagler began a massive substitution that eventually saw all 14 players see action.

SCC began a full court press and the 'Hens began turning the ball over with great frequency. When Tim' Bergerson, the visitor's 6-8 forward, sank a basket with 3:49 left, it cut the lead to five points, 55-49.

Nagler got his first string back in the Bergerson drew his fifth foul with 3:33 left. He had 21 points at the time and was the game's leading scorer.

The 'Hens steadied and began to successfully move the ball. George Northrop got open and was immediately hit with good passes twice. Two layups and four points were the net result and the heat was off.

In the locker room, a happy Nagler grimmaced when he saw the turnovers, nine in the first half and 21 in the second for a total of 30.

"We hurried too much," he grunted, then brightened. "We played a great first half and we got to see everybody play. We have to see what they can do and the players learned a lot out there." The Sagehens, now 3-2, host L. A. Baptist Friday night and defending District Three champion Westmont Saturday.

Soccer loop moving West

NEW YORK (UPI) — Commissioner Phil Woosnam Tuesday announced the expansion of the North American Soccer League to 12 teams for the 1974 season with the awarding of four franchises to West Coast clubs.

New franchises were awarded to Los Angeles, San Francisco, Vancouver and Seattle, while Baltimore was awarded a franchise last week.

Woosnam, speaking in a telephone hookup between the four cities, said, "We look on today as the most important day in the growth of soccer in the United States.

"If I can draw a parallel, I should like to look back 10 years to the American Football Congress. Nobody gave the New York Titans, later to become the Jets, much chance of survival, but today we have a very healthy NFL in addition to super bowl."

Damien booters win, 2-0

LA VERNE — Damien's soccer team ran its unbeaten streak to three Tuesday night with a 2-0 win over La Salle.

Stags drop third straight

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

CLAREMONT — Claremont-Mudd wasn't really caught looking ahead to Azusa Pacific, but the Stags sure were caught looking behind at Chapman Tuesday night as the visiting Panthers cruised to a 77-65 victory before a disappointing and disappointed crowd.

The loss was the third straight for Ted Ducey's crew but they won't receive any sympathy from Chapman as the visitors snapped an incredible 23-game losing streak for the Orange Countians, including three losses to start this year.

The game was close for the first 10 minutes as the two clubs traded baskets, with Chapman scoring first and Claremont repeatedly responding to tie things up. In fact, the Stags led only once, at 18-16, and at that point C-M star forward George Glonka suffered a knee injury and the Panthers were off and running.

Sparked by the play of big men Jeff Cable and Steve Nycum and superlative perimeter shooting from Mark Holland, Chapman rolled to a nine point cushion at halftime, 43-34.

The story of the first half was the ability of Nycum to move inside the man-to-man defense of Claremont, especially in the later stages of the half with Glonka on the bench.

Ducey substituted taller Dave Willhite, but as the Stag coach said afterwards, "It was tough for a Freshman (Willhite) to tangle with a Senior (Nycum). Overall, I think he did a credible job."

It was feared at first that Glonka might have dislocated his right knee, but he just received a hard knock on the point and was okay for the second half.

Whereas the Stags had played sound fundamental ball in the opening 20 minutes, they were guilty of 10 turnovers in the first eight minutes of the second half and Chapman took advantage to open up an insurmountable 63-44 lead. Claremont never got closer than the final 12-point margin.

Chapman, always a tough, physical ball club, won the battle of the boards easily. The Panthers grabbed 39 rebounds while C-M settled for 31.

Glonka paced the Stags with 20 points while Norm Richards added 14. Kim Cheatum was the leading rebounder with 12.

Things aren't going to get any brighter for Claremont as the Stags must turn right around and prepare for powerful Azusa Pacific Friday night at Stag Gym.

Highlanders reach Norco semifinals

Upland High advanced to the semifinals of the Norco-Corona Basketball Tournament Tuesday night, but Pomona didn't have the same kind of luck in the tourney.

Upland, having come off a third-place finsh last weekend in the Upland-Montclair Tournament, used a fourth-quarter blitz to run away from co-host Norco and post a 57-41 victory Tuesday evening.

But Pomona, playing Alta Loma for the second time in three games, couldn't handle the Braves this time around and dropped a 65-61 decision at Corona High Tuesday afternoon. The Red Devils defeated Alta Loma for the consolation championship over the weekend in the Upland-Montclair Tournament 69-51.

Upland will now play El Modena Thursday night at 8 p.m. at Norco High in one semifinal game, while Pomona shoots for a fourth-place playoff when it battles Cajon at 4:45 p.m. Thursday afternoon at Corona High.

The tournament takes a day off Wednesday.

In other high school action around the valley Tuesday, Damien whipped Glendora, 76-53, to record its first victory of the season, and Rowland opened the Valencia Tournament with an 82-58 loss to El Dorado. Western Christian fell short of victory against Pasadena Poly in a low-scoring contest, 49-36.

Upland couldn't pull away from Norco for the first three quarters of there contest in the tournament, but it a 20-point fourth quarter by the Highlanders to finally dump the Cougars. Norco had taken a 15-14 lead in the second quarter, but that was the only lead the Scots forfeited to the co-host. Curt Oldenkamp led the Upland attack with 16 points, while teammate Stu DuVall added 13 to the winning cause.

DuVall had nine of the Highlanders' 20 points in that big fourth quarter. Upland is now 5-1 for the year.

Pomona held a slim 35-31 halftime lead over Alta Loma in their afternoon contest and even had a one-point lead going into the fourth quarter, but the Braves outscored the Red Devils 18-13 in the final eight minutes to gain revenge.

Pomona forward Jerome Holliman dumped in six of Pomona's 13 fourth quarter points, but Alta Loma's Kula Kuresa (eight points) and Bob Wineman (six points) supplied the big punch.

Damien put together a strong second quarter and then kept pulling away from Glendora to record its first win in four games. The Spartans were paced by John Pignotri's 20 points and Cornell Kasbergen's 12. It was Kasbergen's first appearance as a starter for Damien. Forward Larry Pekarcik, who scored eight points in the game, led the Spartans in rebounds with 14.

Tall Toreros demolish little Leopards

By SCOTT POINDEXTER
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — At the close of La Verne College's basketball game Tuesday night at Bonita high, a Leopard fan might have cause to celebrate, seeing a score of La Verne 68, University of San Diego 34. But wait! It just so happens that there should be one in front of the 34. In other words USD 134-La Verne 68. Custer had it better.

The tall Toreros utterly demolished the much smaller Leopards, having six players score 13 or more points, while La Verne had two men score 12 apiece.

Pete Cosenza led in scoring, hitting 11 of 15 shots, and sinking one free throw for a total of 23. San Diego also depends on the name Smith, three of them in fact. Robert and Ken start with Joe in support. Ken was hurt early in the contest, but Robert finished with 20 and Joe 18.

Chuck Davis and Joe Edmonds led the Leos with 12 points and Tom Jones got 10.

La Verne led at one point in the game 6-2, but the Toreros then went on a blitz outscoring the Leos 33-12. Cosenza had 18 of his points in the last 11 minutes of the first half.

At half time, Jones was the La Verne leader with six points. The Leopards were behind at halftime by 36, and never came within 34 points from then on.

San Diego came out just as rough and tough in the second half as they had in the first. In fact, the Toreros scored more points, 31 in the second half than La Verne scored all night.

Ron Modic, reserve guard came in the last eight minutes of the game to score 13 points. Just those 13 points were almost more than the Leopards scored in those same eight minutes.

Ken Lipkin, leading scorer for La Verne prior to this game, was held to just eight points. If nothing else, Coach Art Bias was able to let his whole team get in playing experience.

La Verne will be off until the Cal Baptist Tournament which begins next Wednesday, the 19th.

Ex-MSAC star Freed traded to Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds and Cleveland Indians completed a trade on the minor league level Wednesday, the Reds obtaining outfielder Roger Freed in exchange for pitcher Steve Blateric.

Freed, 27, was the minor league player of the year in 1970 at Rochester of the International League when he hit .334 with 24 home runs and 130 runs batted in. He played at Mt. San Antonio College.

Last season, after being traded from the Philadelphia Phillies to the Cleveland organization, Freed batted .278 with 30 homers and 96 runs batted in with the Indians' Oklahoma City club of the American Association.

Blateric, 29, a righthander, was 9-5 last season at the Reds' Indianapolis club, also in the American Association. He had an earned average of 2.97.

Freed has been placed on the Indianapolis roster by the Reds and Blateric on the Oklahoma City roster by the Indians.

Santo to pay friendly call on Bill Melton

CHICAGO (UPI) — The first entry in Ron Santo's social calendar as a new member of the Chicago White Sox is to pay a call on Bill Melton.

"That's the first thing I want to do," Santo said Tuesday when White Sox introduced him as their latest addition after a trade with the Cubs, who got four players in return.

Melton is as highly prized a third baseman with the White Sox management and fans as Santo used to be with the Cubs. Melton, 28, missed a lot of last season with a back problem, but he belted 33 home runs in 1970 for a team record and hit 33 again in 1971 for an American League season high.

"I know how Melton would feel if the positions were reversed," Santo said. "I know Bill and the first thing I want to do is to talk to him about this deal."

Santo, 33, was the first player to invoke what may come to be known as the "Santo Clause," which provides that a player of 10 years' major league service and the last five consecutive years with the same club must grant permission to any trade before it is finalized.

The Cubs tried to send him to the California Angels last week, but Santo said he would never leave Chicago. He let it be known he would like to join the White Sox, and, luckily, Cubs General Manager John Holland had eased the way by having all National League teams waive on Santo late last summer.

"I'm as elated as a newborn kid," he said. "I had nothing against the Angels. For reasons of my family, myself, I didn't want to leave Chicago."

He said his business sidelines "had nothing to do with it. It was Chicago or no baseball at all."

"When I heard the White Sox wanted me, it made me feel happy. Then when I knew they really were interested in men I was elated and excited."

White Sox GM Roland Hemond said he and Manager Chuck Tanner plan to work Santo into the lineup so that he'll get about 600 at-bats next season, alternating at third with Melton, at first with with Richie Allen or at the plate as a designated hitter.

Santo said he harbors "no hard feelings" against the Cubs.

"I understand what they're trying to do. I want to thank them for 14 fabulous years, especially Mr. Wrigley (owner Phil Wrigley)."

Going to the Cubs in the deal are pitchers Steven Stone, and Ken Frailing and catcher Steve Swisher and a player to be named later.

Notre Dame tough in basketball play

By United Press International

It looks as if Digger Phelps is looking to duplicate Ara Parseghian's performance this season.

The Notre Dame football team went unbeaten this year and Phelps' Fighting Irish basketball team is keeping that winning attitude.

Seventh-ranked Notre Dame, with John Shumate scoring 26 points, took a quick lead and never relinquished it Tuesday night en route to a 73-67 upset of No. 3 ranked Indiana. Reserve Billy Paterno added 16 points and freshman Adrian Dantley had 15 as Notre Dame ran its record to 5-0.

Though Notre Dame led all the way, Indiana didn't go down easily. The Irish moved out to an 11-point lead in the first half but Indiana, with Steve Green leading the way and 17,463 fans screaming their support, cut it to three at the half. Notre Dame boosted its lead to 14 points in the second half but the Hoosiers came back again to pull within five points twice.

Green led Indiana with 21 points and Scott May had 14.

In other action involving ranked teams, Maryland (5) crushed Georgetown 115-83, Vanderbilt (19) upset Memphis State (9) 75-71, Kansas State (14) blasted Iowa 105-67, New Mexico (16) edged New Mexico State 72-71 and Wake Forest upset Pennsylvania (17) 69-61.

Maryland, with John Lucas scoring 28 points, Tom McMillen 23 and Len Elmore 22, crushed crosstown rival Georgetown and Lee Fowler scored 19 points and Jan van Breda Kolff grabbed 12 rebounds, many off them crucial, in leading Vanderbilt over Memphis State.

Danny Beard's 22 points paced Kansas State to its rout of Iowa and sub Rich Pokorski's free throw with no time left enabled New Mexico to hold off archrival New Mexico State. Bobby Dwyer's five foul shots in the last two minutes, his only points of the game, enabled Wake Forest to upset Penn.

Elsewhere, Mel Utley's 28 points carried St. John's to a 94-78 victory over Davidson and Joe Newman had 27 points and 14 rebounds as Temple downed Navy 52-41. Phil Sellers and Vinnie Roundtree combined for 35 points as Rutgers downed Princeton 62-55 and John Garrett had 17 points to lead Purdue past Missouri 79-66. Pacific, led by guard John Errecart's 19 points, downed Santa Cltra 80-73.

In other games, Virginia beat Lehigh 87-60, Iowa State ripped San Jose State 83-60, Purdue topped Missouri 79-66 Arizona crushed San Diego State 101-79 and Colorado State beat Air Force 62-46

Chamberlain loses battle to play

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wilt Chamberlain, off to a rocky start as the rookie coach of the ABA San Diego Conquistadors, just lost the best player he might've had — himself.

With the news that arbitrator Peter Seitz had rendered a decision in favor of the Los Angeles Lakers' claim that they had properly exercised their option rights regarding the former NBA superstar, Chamberlain can now look forward to earning the $600,000 he is being paid this year solely as the world's tallest coach.

If the layoff doesn't take too much off Chamberlain's 37-year old body, he will be back in uniform next season, earning the remainder of his $1.8-million three-year contract as a player-coach.

"We're studying the issue to determine what in fact we could do," said Seymour S. Goldberg, Chamberlain's attorney in Los Angeles. "But as a practical matter the season is running, and it's problematical as to whether we could get a hearing in time for it to be meaningful."

"We got him as a coach for the first year and a player-coach for the next two," said Conquistador General Manager Alex Groza. "Anything above that was a bonus. We were just trying to see if we could get him to play this year."

The Lakers, who knew they had lost Chamberlain's services for good in any event, refused to allow him to play for the rival league. When Chamberlain jumped to San Diego last summer after leading Los Angeles to one league and four Western Conference championships in five years, the Lakers obtained an injunction in Los Angeles County Superior Court prohibiting him from playing for any other team.

The court directed the Lakers and Chamberlain to agree upon an abitrator who would then decide whether the option clause in Chamberlain's contract had been properly executed.

"I awarded the case to Los Angeles," Seitz said here Tuesday, "because I decided the Lakers had properly exercised the option right by offering him a contract for one more year comparable to the one he had been receiving."

There was a curious and, as yet, unexplained lag between the time of Seitz' decision (Dec. 3) and its public disclosure Tuesday. "I was surprised that I hadn't seen it in any of the papers," Seitz said. "I can't imagine why it wasn't made public."

Chamberlain's signing by San Diego was considered a great coup by the ABA, which had hoped to boost attendance around the league by his on-court presence. It was also felt that with Chamberlain in a Conquistador uniform, San Diego voters would be more likely to pass a referendum to supply funds for construction of a new sports complex. While Chamberlain remained on the bench, the voters decided against the complex last month.

"When the contract was signed," said ABA commissioner Mike Storen, "we understood that the likelihood would be that Chamberlain wouldn't be able to play. So I'm not really upset by the ruling."

The Conquistadors certainly could have used Chamberlain as player. The Q's are mired in last place in the ABA West with an 11-18 record and the worst team defense in the league— they've given up an incredible 117.7 points per game.

"We preferred he play because we thought we had a good chance as a contender for the championship," Groza said. "Now we'll have to take our chances."

Several attempts were made by UPI to contact Chamberlain about the arbitrator's decision but Wilt, ever the individualist even as coach, was unreachable at the Le Baron Hotel in San Diego while his players were 2,000 miles away in Indianapolis preparing for Wednesday's game against the Pacers.

Long Beach frosh helps beat Loyola

By United Press International

Much-heralded freshman Clifton Pondexter strutted his stuff for Long Beach State Tuesday night as the 49ers blasted Loyola 84-58.

The 6-foot-8 phenom from Fresno hit 20 points and grabbed nine rebounds while 6-8 Leonard Gray was adding 16 points and seven rebounds and Clifton's "big" brother, Roscoe, who stands 6-6, had 12 points and six rebounds.

During one stretch, Long Beach scored 22 points in a row.

Meanwhile, Pacific, perhaps Long Beach State's toughest challenger in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, ran its record to 5-1 with a solid 80-73 win at Santa Clara. John Errecart of Pacific and Remel Diggs of the Broncs both had 19.

In intersectional contests, Bakersfield State never got it going at Illinois State and fell 82-69 although Ken Shiloh had 34 and San Jose State fell 83-60 at Iowa Statefor the Spartans' first loss.

Arizona took care of San Diego State 109-79 before more than 10,000 fans with Brad McNamara topping the losers with 17.

In other action, Quentin Braxton poured in 33 as Portland downed St. Martin's 95-84 and Jack Smoot hit 27 from the backcourt to lead Whittier past Point Loma 93-80.

John L. Jones MVP

Trojans, Bruins visit Garey High

POMONA — John L. Jones, the All-San Antonio League linebacker who averaged 12 tackles per game, was named Garey High's Most Valuable Player for the varsity football team Monday night at the Vikings' fall sports banquet.

Jones, who was only one of two Vikings who made the All-SAL first team this year, was the main key to the defense which led the Pomona Valley this year. The Vikings only gave up an average of 8.9 points per game during the course of the year.

Guest speakers at the banquet were University of Southern California stars Anthony Davis, Allen Carter and Charles Anthony and UCLA place-kicker Efren Herrera.

Carter, a former Bonita High Star when the Bearcats competed in the San Antonio League along with Garey, got the biggest negative reaction of the night when he jokingly questioned his presence at the banquet.

"I really don't know why I was invited here," Carter smiled. "I said to myself 'Why would Garey High invite me to their banquet.' You see, I remember when we used to play Garey in the SAL. And I remember when the Green Machine gave y'all a whoopin." After getting a moan from the crowd, Carter added, "but I hear they're not doing as well now and Garey would probably give them a rough time."

That pleased the crowd.

Anthony was asked why he thought USC beat UCLA this year. The Trojan linebacker said, "We were hard on the Wishbone all year. We held Arkansas to seven points, we held Oklahoma to seven points," and then turning to Herrera he added, "and what was the score in our game?"

That broke up the crowd again.

Davis was the crowd's favorite.

He answered the only question about USC's upcoming Rose Bowl game against Ohio State. "I'm kind of glad Ohio State is coming back," Davis said. "I kind of like Woody (Hayes), especially when he hit that guy on the sidelines."

Other awards for the night went to Fred Perez as the varsity's Most Improved Player and Ron Rodriquez received the Coaches' Award.

Larry Baird received the Most Valuable Player award for the sophomore football team, while Tommy Larry was named the Most Improved Player and Victor Williams received the Coaches Award.

In cross country, Danny Rosales was the Most Valuable Runner, Henry Castillo was the Most Improved Runner, and Steve Trenholme received the Coaches' Award.

Cedeno held on manslaughter charge

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — Houston Astros centerfielder Cesar Cedeno was questioned today in criminal court here on his role in the fatal shooting early Tuesday of a 19-year-old girl in a local motel room.

Judge Socrates Diaz Curiel began questioning the young ballplayer about 9:50 a.m. EST after he was taken to the 4th circuit court from police headquarters were he had been held since he turned himself in Tuesday morning.

Cedeno, 22, was charged with voluntary manslaughter, the equivalent of second degree murder in the United States.

But District Attorney Maximo Henriquez Saladin, who filed the charge, indicated it was simply a formality.

A police report issued after informal questioning of the baseball star said, "It has not been possible to fix any blame on Cesar Cedeno." The police said, however, the case was submitted to the courts to get a full hearing.

Cedeno, one of the best young players in baseball, was arrested Tuesday morning and charged with "voluntary manslaughter." Legal experts in San Juan said it was similar to the charge of second degree murder in the United States.

Police said Cedeno, a native of the Dominican Republic, spent the night at the Enssanche La Fe Prison, two blocks from Quisqueya Stadium, the scene of his early exploits as a baseball player.

The examining magistrate said he would also question an unidentified witness to the shooting today before winding up the official interrogation— the first step in Dominican judicial proceedings.

Legal experts said the magistrate would then hand the case over to a police court judge with the authority to release Cedeno on bail.

An employe at the Keko Motel told police Cedeno and Altagracia checked into a bungalow early Tuesday and asked for two bottles of beer. He reported hearing a shot about 10 minutes later.

He said Cedeno called the motel office to report the shooting and then left in a sports car. The baseball star returned with his father later and handed himself over to police.

A police colonel said Cedeno told authorities the girl had picked up his .38 caliber pistol to admire it and the weapon went off when Cedeno tried to get it away from her.

John W. Mullen, the Astros' assistant general manager, met with Cedeno at a Santo Domingo police station and quoted the star as saying the gun went off accidentally.

"The word is that this was an accident—that's what Cedeno said," Mullen reported. "He had a gun. He has a permit for it. She asked to see it. He said no. And she tried to wrestle it away from him and it went off."

North Stars keep winning over Kings

BLOOMINGTON, Minnesota (UPI) — The Minnesota North Stars are not the toughest team in the National Hockey League if only standings are considered, but the Los Angeles Kings would dispute that point.

Since March 28, 1970, when Los Angeles beat Minnesota 4-2 at home, the Kings have lost 17, tied four, and won none in 21 meetings with the North Stars.

Loss No. 17 came quickly Tuesday night when Bill Goldsworthy scored three goals in the first 7:25 of the game. The North Stars went on to a 6-3 win, breaking a three-game King winning streak.

Goldsworthy, who leads the NHL's West Division with 19 goals, was assisted each time by Dennis Hextall. Hextall leads the division in points with 34, one ahead of Goldsworthy.

The win moved Minnesota ahead of the Kings into fifth place in the West, with a 7-13-7 record for 21 points. Los Angeles is 8-15-4 for 20 points.

After Goldsworthy's opening flurry made it 3-0, the teams traded goals to make it at the end of a wild first period.

Kings' rookie Phil Hoene scored on a penalty shot to make it 4-2 at 6:53 of the second period but Danny Grant and Dennis O'Brien added second period goals for the Stars to put the game out of reach. Goldsworthy and Hextall each assisted on Grant's goal, giving each a total of four points for the night.

The Kings return home for a Thursday night meeting with the New York Islanders. They play Montreal at the Los Angeles Forum Saturday night.

Sports news in brief

SUGAR RAY SEALES, 150, Tacoma, the only U.S. Olympic Games boxing gold medalist of 1972, remained unbeaten as a pro Tuesday night as he pounded out a unanimous 10-round decision over Jose Miranda, 148, Mexico City at Civic Auditorium in San Francisco.

GAVILAN COLLEGE Tuesday was stripped of its Coast Conference football title because of transfer rule violations but the school said a court injunction "will be sought" to stop the action. The action was taken by the California Junior College Association.

THE ENERGY CRISIS will make itself felt next spring in the Pacific 8 Conference with a revised baseball schedule drawn on regional lines. The league voted during its annual winter meeting to revert to a Northern and Southern Division schedule in baseball next spring.

JOHN BRODIE will play at quarterback for the first one or two series against Pittsburgh Saturday at Candlestick Park and then be removed in favor of Steve Spurrier, according to 49er coach Dick Nolan.

JOHN P. CURLEY, who brought Boston College to national prominence in football during 28 years as manager of athletics, died Tuesday following a lengthy illness. He was 82.

KEN ROSEWALL, Australian pro tennis star, Tuesday signed a one-year contract as player coach of the Pittsburgh Triangles of the new World Team Tennis League.

UPLAND — Don Higgins of Alta Loma upset Pomona's Bill Garrett to win the advanced mens title in the Upland Invitational Table Tennis Tournament Sunday afternoon at Upland High.

Higgins defeated Garrett by winning three of the five games in a close battle. The scores were: 21-17, 15-21, 24-26, 24-22 and 21-19.

In other results, Higgins defeated Dan Banach of Buena Park for the senior men's title. Tony Wicher of Ontario won the regular men's prize by beating Bob Riesing of La Puente while Mary McIlwain of Alta Loma downed Linda Tom of Los Angeles for the women's crown.

Harold Kopper and Dave Mead of Riverside won the doubles competition by defeating Garrett and Banach.

Recreation

Basketball has certainly grown as a recreational activity the past few years. Pomona will have close to 2000 youths and adults involved in some type of roundball program. Less than half that many participated three years ago.

Almost 600 men and women will play in the Civic Leagues. There is still the possibility of even more. Openings exist for additional teams in the Women's and Slo-Break Leagues.

The Pomona Park and Recreation Department's youth organization league will put approximatly 200 boys on the court. Churches, Boy Scout troops and the like play in this program. Registration closes on December 21, so a group may yet sign up.

The Pomona YMCA has gotten into the act this year. They have 68 boys playing on eight teams.Four of the squads are in the 7, 8 and 9-year-old category, while the remaining are 10, 11 and 12-year-old teams.

Denny Palmer, Physical Director of the "Y", has plans to add a junior high division that would combine with Claremont for a league. The more teams the better.

The largest program is the local Park and Recreation Departments' leagues for boys and girls. At least 900 youths will participate with the prospects of going much higher very good.

There are two divisions for both the boys and girls. The girls division one is for 7th, 8th and 9th grade girls. Division two is for the 4th, 5th and 6th graders. The boys have the same breakdown except that division one doesn't include 9th graders.

Players may register now at all of the elementary and junior high schools after school recreation programs. Students who attend private schools should register at the area closest to their residence.

Games will be played on Friday evenings and during the day Saturdays beginning on Jan. 4. Before that the players have the benefit of a long Christmas vacation highlighted with daily workouts and skill development.

Pomona divides their youth basketball program up into six areas. This cuts down on cross town travel and in general is more convenient for both parents and participants.

The hub of each area is a junior high school. Games are played there along with most of the practical sessions. The recreation leader at those areas serves as the league director.

Every boy and girl who signs up is placed on a team and most play at least one half of each game. Rosters are limited to between eight and ten players.

Coaches needed

The key to the success of this program is securing volunteer coaches. Knowledge of the game is nice, but the most important quality is the desire to get involved with the kids.

A clinic for all the volunteer coaches is planned. The staffs at each of the junior high recreation programs will assist in the skill instruction. So all the volunteer really needs to do is keep the youngster organized.

The purpose of the program is to offer each boy and girl the opportunity of playing on a basketball team. That will be achieved if there are ample volunteer coaches. If you are interested, contact the Pomona Recreation Department at 620-2321.

The leagues discussed above won't be the only recreation basketball activity this season. Contests for free throw shooting, one on one competition and all around skills have been planned for the latter part of January and early February.

There is one event planned between now and the end of the year. Cal Poly's Optimist Club and basketball team, along with Pomona Park and Recreation Departments will hold a skills contest on Thursday, Dec. 27 beginning at 9 a.m.

Registration forms and information on the events will be in the hands of your local recreation leader next Monday. Participants must pre-register with the leaders. This should be an outstanding activity.

The top three finalists receive trophies. Al of the participants will receive passes to the Cal Poly and Purdue (Calumet) game on Saturday, December 29. The skills winners will be crowned at half time of that game.

There is little doubt that basketball has become a major sport in Pomona. If space will allow, the growth will continue.

Texas Speedway halts auto racing

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Texas World Speedway Tuesday announced it has ended motor sports at the speedway until the end of the energy crisis.

"It is with great reluctance that we announced that Texas World Speedway is cancelling all of its 1974 events," said Dan W. Holloway, president of the facility.

"We were quite enthusiastic about our 1974 season due to the two prestigious events planned and the potential they offered us."

The speedway had scheduled four days of National Championship American Motorcycle Association events for May and the Texas 500 race for Indianapolis Speedway cars on Sept. 1.

"We wish to make it clear that the energy crisis was not the only deciding factor," Holloway said. "Establishing the two new events would be difficult under normal conditions, but during the energy crisis would be almost impossible.

"We felt that to sit out the crisis was the only alternative. We are looking forward to resumption of normal activities."

USAC worried about 'crisis'

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) United States Auto Club officials said Monday the "most significant problem" the club faces for 1974 is the energy crisis and resulting governmental regulations.

In a letter to USAC members, President Reynold C. MacDonald and Executive Director William J. Smyth said USAC will continue its efforts "to assist in obtaining the fuel necessary for our racing schedule."

"One of the areas foremost in the public's mind will be the amount of fuel consumed by leisure time activities," they said. "This includes travel, recreational activities and sporting events.

"Our goal is to make sure that all leisure time activities are considered equally and fairly by the public."

MacDonald and Smyth said USAC is continuing to investigate the feasibility of reducing horsepower, speed and possibly costs.

They reported that a new 355-cubic inch Chevrolet engine has been completed and was tested recently. Furthermore, they said additional testing is being conducted in the area of turbocharged engine manifold pressure relief devices.

USAC previously adopted a number of safety measures to reduce the speed and horsepower of Indianapolis-type cars and anti-pollution requirements for stock cars.

Officials estimated a change in fuel limitations alone would cut the horsepower by about 25 per cent for championship-type cars.

They also reiterated a move to go to stock block engines—like the Chevrolet power plant—would be pursued in an effort to reduce the cost of that phase of racing.

Their eventual goal is for stock block engines to replace the four-cylinder Offenhauser and eight-cylinder Ford V8 plants, which are much more expensive.

Indian Dunes Grand Prix expects big field

VALENCIA — Grand Prix racing—a form of arduous competition for the motorcyclists, held on a long, all-terrain obstacle course—returns Sunday to Indian Dunes Park near Saugus.

Running under sanction from the National Racing Assn. of Riverside, the day-long program, beginning at 8 a.m., is expected to attract upwards of 600 riders, including many of the nation's better desert and motocross competitors, as the field engages in a series of 45-minute events on a five-mile track composed of steep downhills, water crossing and many high-speed jumps.

In what could furnish some of the day's closest riding battles, intermediates and experts in the 125, 250 and 500cc racing divisions are scheduled to zip into their conflicts at 1 p.m. The experts will be going for a share in the 100 percent payback of their entry money.

Anticipating another large turnout of both spectators and riders, front gates at the 'Dunes will open at 6:30 a.m General admission remains at $2 adults, $1 juniors (6—14), with no charge for kids and parking.

San Diego State gives women their equality

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Eligibility based on sex has been dropped from nine of 14 intercollegiate sports programs at San Diego State University.

Women will be allowed to compete with men for spots on teams in baseball, track, volleyball, tennis, golf, swimming, crew, gymnastics and cross-country, said Dr. Brage Golding, president of the University.

Women were not given equality in football, wrestling, soccer, basketball and water polo.

"Until further notice," Golding said in his announcement, "the selection of teams in competitive athletics will be made solely on the basis of ability in all sports except those regarded as 'high contact,' i.e., football, basketball, etc., activities."

The decision overrode recommendations of the women's and the men's athletic departments and the University's Athletics Authority. Golding said the move was tentative and subject to review in June.

Dr. Ken Karr, the school's athletic director, said the decision would "pose definite problems for intercollegiate athletics as we know them and for the women's programs, but he added the decision seemed "best . . . at this point."

"There are a lot of implications in this," Joan Whitby, women's athletic director, said. "I fear for our program. I think we need to have our own identification. I am afraid this could make ours a second-class program."

Laurel Brassey, 19, a blonde sophomore, triggered the question when she asked to be allowed to play varsity volleyball. As a skilled player, she was invited out for the men's team by coach Jack Henn.

Labarrere 3rd in Lobo records

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — University of New Mexico split receiver Paul Labarrere, a senior from Claremont, completed his Lobo career as the third leading receiver in New Mexico football history.

Damien High graduate Labarrere caught 35 passes for 793 yards in his three-year career, an average of 22.7 yards a catch for the highest total in the university's records.

Labarrere had 16 receptions this season for 374 yards, the third highest for a season in Lobo history, and three touchdowns, including a 73-yarder against New Mexico State.

Aerial whiz

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Sonny Jurgensen holds the Philadelphia Eagles single season passing yardage record with 3,723 in 1961. He completed 32 touchdown passes that year, another club record.

Daytona awaiting IROC showdown

RIVERSIDE — The heat races are history in the first International Race of Champions, and everyone agreed the three 75-mile runs at Riverside International Raceway last October provided some of the closest racing competition seen during the year.

Now the six winners, based on points earned at Riverside, head for Daytona International Speedway and the final race February 15.

The championship event will be 85 miles around Daytona's 3.81-mile road course for a purse of $75,000 with the winner getting $35,000. George Follmer, Bobby Unser, Mark Donohue, Peter Revson, David Pearson and A. J. Foyt are the six drivers who earned starting positions for the Daytona race.

The complete four-race series will be shown on ABC-TV on four consecutive weekends beginning Jan. 27. Goodyear is furnishing identical radial racing tires for all cars running in the series and will be a prime sponsor of the nationwide telecast.

George Follmer's performance in the first three IROC events should convince people the 39-year-old veteran is one of the world's most talented drivers.

Follmer tied with Bobby Unser for the most points in the three Riverside races with 29, but it was George who put on the show. He had a net gain of 23 positions in the three races while Bobby showed a gain of only 13.

Follmer's best showing came in the second race when he started in ninth spot and came on to win. In the first race he started 12th and finished fourth and in the third race he started 12th and finished fifth.

It surprised absolutely no one that Unser was USAC's big winner in the first three IROC events. Bobby improved his position in every race.

Unser started a little slow in the first race, moving from fifth to second for a gain of three positions. He got with the program in the last two, gaining five spots in each race. Bobby moved from 11th to sixth in the second race and seventh to second in the last one.

Seldom, if ever, has a race driver had a weekend such as Mark Donohue enjoyed at Riverside last Oct. 27-28. Donohue won two of the three IROC events run that weekend, won his sixth consecutive Can-Am race, was crowned Can-Am champion and announced his retirement as an active race driver.

Mark's last appearance in competition will be the final IROC race at Daytona, and many people think he will go out a winner.

The only blemish on his Riverside weekend came in the second IROC race when a sticking throttle forced him to the sidelines after only seven laps. He finished 12th in that race. The other two IROC races, and the Can-Am, were fairly easy victories for Donohue.

Mark's retirement as a driver does not mean he and Roger Penske are parting company. Donohue will continue in charge of the Penske racing operation, but as team manager instead of number one driver.

Peter Revson came out of the first three IROC events tied with Donohue with 25 points. Revson had a net gain of seven positions in the three races, with his best effort coming in the second race when he started 10th and finished fourth.

Peter dropped one spot in the first race going from second to third, and picked up two in the third race from ninth to seventh.

He has proven to one and all this year that given equal equipment he can run with the best. The final event in the IROC should be no exception.

NASCAR's representative in the IROC final is David Pearson, who had to overcome a disastrous finish in the first race to make the Daytona trip.

Pearson was going well in the first race, but a leaking transmission seal forced him to the sidelines after 28 laps with a ninth place finish.

A second place finish in the second race a drive from 11th to fourth in the third race gave David 24 points and a place in the final.

A. J. Foyt was a late arrival in the IROC, because he didn't think it was fair to ask the oval drivers to compete against the best road racers in the world in four road course events.

"I'm surprised Bobby, David and I came out so well," commented Foyt after the three races at Riverside. "For myself I just played it cool. I figured it would take more than 20 points to get to Daytona and that's the way I ran."

Well the Texan cut it pretty close, beating Formula I ace Emerson Fittipaldi out of the sixth spot by just one point, 22 to 21.

"Riverside was just the heat races," Foyt said, "now we're going to Daytona to run the feature. This is where the money is, and it's the one people will remember."

Squire selling pitching book

WALNUT — Ron Squire, former head baseball coach at Mt. San Antonio College, has purchased the rights to his book, "How to Develop the Successful Pitcher."

Squire, who coached MSAC to a state championship in 1965, reports he has copies of his book available at his home for $5.25 tax included.

"The book has been selling espcially well to parents who want to thelp their sons with pitching," Squire said. "Many of the area coaches also use it for their players and assistants."

Copies of the book are available by telephoning Squire at (714) 595-7889.

When experts go, they go

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Experts don't make as many mistakes as ordinary players, but when they do go wrong they are apt to go wrong with a real bang. South was a bad player, but because he was a bad player he managed to fulfil his one spade contract with the aid of experts who sat East and West.

The defense started out nicely. West opened the jack of spades. South won and led his deuce of diamonds to East's ace. East could and should have returned a diamond to get a ruff, but for some reason best known to himself, East led his last trump.

South won and led his queen of diamonds. West put on his king and played the jack of hearts. East rose with the ace and led the deuce of clubs to West's ace.

West played another spade. South won and laid down his king of hearts which West ruffed. Now West pulled the last trump.

The defense had six tricks in and could get three more if West just led a club. East had discarded two hearts and hung on to all his clubs but that was too simple.

West was sure that South had started with only three diamonds so West led a low diamond. The ten was played from dummy. South was able to play low and there was dummy with three good heart tricks.

"Lucky I had four tricks for you" chortled North, but East and West were not amused.

Fire marshal warns about storing gas

CARSON CITY Nev. (UPI) — State fire marshal Dan Quinan warns that storing gasoline in homes to combat the energy crisis is dangerous and in some cases illegal.

"Local ordinances in Carson City, Reno and Las Vegas for example, prohibit the storage of gasoline in amounts in excess of from two to six gallons and all containers must meet the state standards," he said.

"Service station owners and operators must be cautioned that dispensing gasoline in unapproved containers is illegal.

"Customers should be informed that storing drums of 55 gallons capacity can be a violation of city or county ordinances."

Legalizing of witchcraft draws columnist's wrath

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (UPI) — Prime Minister Forbes Burnham's proposal to legalize a popular local sorcery known as "obeah" has become the leading street-corner topic throughout the English-speaking Caribbean.

Among those who are, at least, not horrified by the proposal are, interestingly, the local leaders of the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches.

Among those who are horrified at the prospect of the open practice of witchcraft learned from African ancestors, is leading West Indian columnist Alister Hughes, who terms obeah "fraudulent and criminal".

The British systematically outlawed the practice of obeah among the slaves as soon as they were delivered to the West Indies, but the practice has survived clandestinely through 300 years, and is still known throughout the former British colonies.

Burnham's logic in proposing that obeah be legalized was simply that obeah is a part of the culture of the West Indian peoples just as much as the Christian rites, or in the case of Guyana and Trinidad, the Hindu rites.

He told a meeting of his People's National Congress party, the outlawing of obeah was an attempt by the British masters to cutrail "us culturally," and there was no reason for the independent Commonwealth Caribbean nations to perpetuate this degrading attitude toward their own culture.

"Both worhip and mysteries are part of people's lives, but it is made an offense to practice those things which come from our ancestors," Burnham said.

The Rev. Andrew Morrison, the Roman Catholic vicar general here, commented that he had nothing against the legalization of obeah.

"I don't believe the practice of obeah would harm the Church and it is good Guyanese should realize the fact that they should regain what they lost from their cultural heritage," Morrison said.

The opposition People's Progressive Party, which follows a scientific Marxist-Lenininst line, was appalled by Burnham's decision.

"In a century when science has made so many advances, when man has already, walked on the moon, to go back to an era of superstition and denial of science and logic is nothing short of tragic," a party statement said.

The general secretary of the important Mahatma Gandhi Organization, Dr. Balwant Singh, also voiced opposition, saying, "The entire basis for the practice of obeah is ignorance and superstition with exploitation of the innocent and untutored by a few crafty and ruthless operators." More than half the 680,000 Guyanese are of East Indian descent.

Hughes, a Grenadian whose column appears in several Commonwealth Caribbean newspapers, described obeah as "sinister.".

His column opposing the legalization of the practice said, "The West Indians have any doubt as to the role of poison in obeah. It is an essential backup to the ritual mumbo jumbo directed by the obeahman against his victim".

In addition to poisoning victims, Hughes said, "It is a well known obeah belief that the heart of a child fed to a race horse will insure a win. That a cup of human blood taken in the right moon will produce beneficial results. And that the spirit of a man killed with a mounted stick remains the slave of the murderer forever."

On the island of Dominica, where obeah has perhaps remained strongest and where a number of recent police raids were conducted against alleged obeah houses, a government minister said there was no chance the local government would follow Burnham's lead.

In Barbados, considered one of the more sophisticated of the Commonwealth Caribbean nations, the daily Advocate-News editorialized:

"There might be some cause for amusement in people taking bush baths; mumbling certain rituals at cross roads, and what have you. But if at any stage these practices can lead to the endangering of the lives of other people, as did happen to the child who was killed in the Salt Pond Murder, we can well appreciate that beyond a point, obeah is not something with which we should trifle.

"Furthermore, we would hate to believe that we are so desperate for a cultural indentity that we would encourage people to literally turn to the devil in our frantic search," the editorial added.

What to do about bossy

By JEAN ADAMS

BOSSED: (Q.) I don't fool around with any other girls, but Beth seems to think I do. If I just talk to some other girl, she comes up and suggests we go somewhere else in a hurry.

Once we were at my house and the phone rang. She answered it and said, "He isn't here." Then she hung up. I found out later it was my lab partner calling me to tell me something I should know. What should I do — Suspected in Virginia.

(A.) Beth is not only monopolizing you — she is bossing you. She is exceeding the rights of a steady girl friend.

Tell her your phone calls and your conversations with other people belong to you, and she must recognize that fact.

If she refuses to do so, drop her.

CRITIC: (Comment) The straight-and-narrow, church-going attitude in your answers must be a delight to little, old ladies.

Recently you advised a girl to leave her boyfriend if he insisted on having sex with her.

At three leading universities, the conclusion of most sex researchers as to the cause of frustration in most married females was their inability to enjoy sex because of imbedded fears brought on by advice such as yours.

I cannot blame you alone, but for you to advise a stranger by your own orthodox teachings is wrong. Totally — 24 and Male in Alabama.

(A.) I believe a girl can grow up cool-headedly without being frozen. I believe the fears a teen-age girl experiences when she sleeps with her boy friend can cause more scars than continence might cause.

MEETIN' & EATIN' AT BETSY ROSS

By Gene Neighbors

Hi, Neighbors,

FRED FREEHLING, director of Operations for Betsy Ross, gave a talk on Career Day to 7th and 8th graders of Sunflower Intermediate School in Glendora for SHARON DUNN's class. PAT SHILLITO, counselor, thought it a very enjoyable and profitable session for tthe students. Among those participating were DAVE BOULTING, GLORIA CHRISTENSEN, JOE CISNEROS, MIKE CLEARY, ROSEANNE CONKLIN, VERONICA COX, TOMMY DENNY, MARIA GIBBONS, DANNY HANCOCK, WENDY HILDEBRANDT, SUSAN HILL, HELEN HINSCHI, WENDY KRAWCZYK, BELINDA LANCASTER, FRANK MASTERINGOLA, AMY McWILLIAMS, PATTY MONTILEPRE, APRIL RIFFNER, VANCE RUDZIK, RICHARD SILVA, RANDY SMITH, DAVID THEILEN, and LORI WILLIAMSON. Future restauranteurs, perhaps?

The Montclair Mobile Park group, which meets at Pomona Valley Center Betsy Ross when one of them has a birthday, were in to celebrate another last Wednesday.

Last Thursday, a reward trip for the 6th period class of MRS. PRISCILLA COONS for accomplishments in the class, was hosted at Pomona Valley Center by MRS. COONS, and principal JOHN GRIFILLAN, of Serrano Jr. High in Montclair. Honored were DANNY BEAN, GUY DUNN, ROLAND FOLEY, GEORGE HERNANDEZ, RONALD JOHNSON, STEVEN JOHNSTON, and JANES YBARRA. Congratulations, class; we're proud.

On December 5th, the daytime employees of the Coffee Shoppe in Upland held their Christmas Party. Also feted for lunch there were CANDY COOK, recently returned from several weeks in Europe, her mother JANE, and a lifetime friend, CHERYL CABAIS. MISS COOK related that while waiting for a bus in Frankfort, Germany, she overheard an American voice wish for a good ole Betsy Ross Banana Split. Naturally curious on hearing our name so far from home, she discovered that it was PROFESSOR and MRS. ABBOTT of MSAC. Mr. Abbott had been on the staff at Emerson Jr. High at the same time she attended there.

If you're lookin' for a beautiful, mouth-waterin' dessert for those holiday luncheons and parties you plan to give, try our Snowballs at $1.10 a box. They are pretty to serve and just as delicious to eat OR treat your family!

Smile — it's less tiring.

MONKEYING AROUND — Saul Kahan, a Webb School graduate (1956), makes his acting debut opposite a whimsical ape-man in "Schlock," a monster comedy opening today at Cinema I, Montclair, and other Southern California theaters. Ape-suited John Landis also directed the production. Kahan plays a detective.

'Schlock'

Webb graduate stars in monster comedy film

MONTCLAIR — Webb School graduate Saul Kahan stars in the monster comedy, "Schlock," opening today at Cinema I and other Southland theaters.

Kahan, who graduated from Webb in 1956, makes his acting debut as Detective Sgt. Wino. He plays a dedicated, harassed police officer who is assigned to hunt down the title creature, a lethal but lovable ape-man.

Executive producer and editor of the picture is George Folsey Jr., a Pomona College graduate of 1961.

Kahan, a 35-year old resident of West Los Angeles, usually works as a film publicist. He has worked in Europe and the United States on films such as "The Yellow Submarine", "Charlotte's Web", "The Damned", and the recently completed "Zandy's Bride" starring Gene Hackman and Liv Ullmann. He is currently working on Paramount's "Chinatown" starring Jack Nicholson, Faye Dunaway, and John Huston.

Kahan's involvement with films stems right back to his days at Webb, where he was an enthusiastic member of the movie committee that chose film fare for the Saturday night shows.

After Webb, he studied English literature at Pomona College and then got his B.A. in English and theater Arts at UCLA. He went on to get an M.A. in English at the University of Chicago, where he was a member of the Documentary Film Group and publicity director for the 1964 Midwest Film Festival.

Kahan and Folsey met at Pomona and have been filmgoing friends ever since. Last year Folsey produced his first feature "Glass Houses." He is now cutting the "Shaft" TV series.

In "Schlock" Kahan follows a trail of banana peels that led him to the killer ape-man. He handcuffs the monster in a face-to-face encounter and attempts to lure Schlock out of a house by disguising himself as a female gorilla.

"I never expected to get on the action side of the camera" says Kahan, who played only a few pre-"Schlock" bit parts in films he was publiciczing. He was talked into taking a lead role in "Schlock" by the movie's 21-year old writer-director John Landis, a friend and fellow film buff.

Landis and Kahan met in Yugosiavia on location for a war comedy called "Kelly's Heroes" starring Clint Eastwood. Kahan was publicizing the picture, and Landis was working on the crew. Eastwood's action double was James C. O'Rourke, later to be the producer of "Schlock".

Years later the three met again in Los Angeles. Landis and O'Rourke, inspired and exasperated by the inanity of monster movies, decided to make their own feature. Kahan went along as publicist, stills photographer, investor, and — after a little persuasion — actor.

The color feature was filmed in 16 days on locations in Agoura, in the San Fernando Valley. Landis himself played the title role of the Missing Link (Schlocktrhropus). He explores Southern California, gets interviewed on TV, goes to a monster movie, and falls in love, a la King Kong, with teen-age beauty Eliza Garrett.

"Schlock" won the first prize at this year's Science-Fiction Film Festival in Trieste, Italy. Lanids has shown films clips on the Johnny Carson Show and has been profiled in World magazine.

Landis describes "Schlock" as an amiable monster movie aimed primarily at children and teen-agers.

Kahan's cousins, Marvin and Shirley Abrams and their two children, live in Pomona, where Marvin is chief of advanced manufacturing technology at General Dynamics and Shirely is active in community work.

Mild winters seen for East

BOSTON (UPI) — The eastern portion of the nation may get some help from Mother Nature during the nation's fuel crisis.

A professor of meteorology at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology says he expects mild winters over the eastern two-thirds of the nation because of sunspot cycles.

Prof. Hurd C. Willett said that, "According to the climatic evidence that I have gathered, I would expect in the eastern two-thirds of the country—where the bulk of the winter fuel use is concentrated — that these next three winters would very definitely tend to be warmer than normal.

"I would epxect that those winter months (December, January and February) during the next three years to average maybe two or three degrees warmer than normal and that would be quite significant from the point of fuel consumption."

Willett said his [illegible] based on probabil[illegible] piled from 70 [illegible] research into cyclomatic solar conditions and compared with the climates.

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED AD USERS

You are about to invest money for an Ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this it is necessary for you to TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results. Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and cost less in the long run.

1. Don't Omit The Address

Many out-of-town readers will write you but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. Don't Omit The Phone Number

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. Don't Use Blind Box Numbers

Avoid them if at all possible. They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. Don't Conceal The Price

Surveys show that a high percentage of readers will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. Don't Leave Home On The Days You Advertise

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

6. Don't Forget, Check Your Ad The First Day It Runs. Call Us!

7. Don't Omit Important Words To Save Money
